BROWN APPEARS AT QUIZ TO DENY AIR MAIL FRAUD

Calls Every Charge Unfounded.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Walter F. ["High Hat"] Brown, Herbert Hoover's postmaster general, came to Washington today to step a few rounds with the Roosevelt administration, Postmaster General Farley, and the Black air mail investigating committee, and emerged from the first set-to tonight breathing easily.

Mr. Brown started the bout with a short, sharp statement holding it unbelievable that President Roosevelt should countenance such a "colossal injustice" as the wholesale cancellation of air mail contracts which set the army air corps in flight today carrying the air post.

Refuses to Be Ruffled.

Then the former postmaster general took the witness chair before the senate's special committee and coasted unperturbed through a day of rapid fire examination. The county prosecutor methods of Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.], committee chairman failed to break through his guard of denials. He countered with complacent assertions that he had acted lawfully and in the public interest.

When Chairman Black went into matters of personal finance Mr. Brown refused to get ruffled. From a hippopotamus size brief case he produced the records necessary to answer questions about his stock transactions with certain somewhat questionable characters.

He defended the meetings of air mail operators at which—according to the Democratic view—the contracts and the fat subsidies which went with them were split up at his orders and in violation of the law requiring competitive bidding.

Denies Coercion of Independents.

He denied insinuations that he had coerced small, independent operators. He denied particularly that he had ordered a company backed by those generous Republican contributors, the Mellons of Pittsburgh, given a slice of a transcontinental contract.

As to more personal matters, he admitted stock ownership in three companies interested in ocean mail or air mail contracts, but explained that none of them had received a contract during his administration. He admitted speculating in stocks with the late Joseph H. Bagley, once known as one of the men to see in Washington if you wanted to get certain favors done.

But he denied politely that the floors in the Chicago postoffice were laid with patented wooden blocks just because Bagley was his pal and also the Washington representative of the Bruce Flooring company.

Arrives Inviting Battle.

The former postmaster general arrived in Washington inviting battle. Before the crowds had begun to file into the imposing, marble pillared caucus room where the hearings are being held, Mr. Brown had begun to fulminate. The statement given out before he took the stand declared:

"Senator Black's hasty and unwarranted inferences that the meetings of air transport operators at the postoffice department May 19 and June 4, 1930, were in furtherance of an illegal scheme to divide air mail contracts among themselves is wholly unsupported by the facts. Without making any real effort to ascertain the purpose and proceedings of those meetings or giving the persons who had first hand information an opportunity to testify, Senator Black passed his inferences on to the postoffice department, which in turn blindly accepted them without making any investigation whatever or even according the vitally interested parties a hearing.

Calls It "Irreparable Injury."

"Based solely upon Senator Black's unsupported and unjustifiable dictum that in 1930 the air mail operators engaged in a conspiracy of collusion, the postmaster general has ordered all domestic air mail contracts annulled, and with a single stroke of his pen, if his action is not reconsidered, has destroyed the finest air mail and air passenger services in the world, and has done an irreparable injury to the aeronautical industry, in developing which our government and the public have invested hundreds of millions of dollars.

"It is inconceivable that the President of the United States, with all the facts before him, will sanction such a colossal injustice."

Not since last summer when J. P.

COURTNEY ACTS TO SMASH T-N-T AND END STRIKE

5,000 Coal Workers Out; Guard Yards.

States Attorney Courtney yesterday characterized a strike of some 5,000 coal teamsters, hikers and yardmen, called early in the morning when the temperature was 8 above zero, as a last stand challenge of hoodlum labor racketeers hurled at the law enforcement authorities.

Mr. Courtney said the strike was engineered by the remnants of the Trucking and Transportation exchange in an effort to maintain its grip on the outlaw coal teamsters' unions, and he pledged himself to "break the back" of this organization in a "fight to the finish," even if it becomes necessary to appeal to the governor for national guard troops.

Strike for Wage Increase.

On the other hand Dave Reese, president of local 704 of the coal teamsters' union, who ordered the strike, said the action was taken because members of the Chicago Coal Merchants' association and some other dealers had refused to meet the demands of the union for an increase from $7.50 to $8 a day in pay and an 8 hour day. The merchants' association, as such, refused to enter into negotiations with the unions, whose spokesmen they do not recognize as representative. However, the unions were negotiating individually with the dealers and Reese claimed that 25 had signed agreements.

State's Attorney Courtney's first move in an effort to break the strike and the T-N-T at the same time was a conference with Mayor Kelly regarding police protection for delivery wagons. At the close of this conference the mayor said they discussed police protection and agreed that it would be provided. An order was issued from the office of Police Commissioner Allman directing that policemen be assigned today to guard every coal yard in the city. Detective squads were ordered to escort coal trucks and arrest any one who attempts to interfere with deliveries.

Warns Against Violence.

"We are not going to stand for any disturbances," said the mayor. This was all the officials had to say about their plans to end the strike, but prior to the conference the state's attorney had talked about summoning officials of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, to line up all willing members of the outlaw Chicago unions and replace the others with members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

"This is the last stand of the T-N-T," said Mr. Courtney. "It is a direct challenge to me and they picked the time when I was busy with several important trials to make it. The remnants of this T-N-T outfit, whose members we indicted in a huge conspiracy last December, are making a desperate struggle for existence. It is the last gang we have left in Chicago. They have made some new and strange alliances and received encouragement from an unexpected source, but they must and will go."

Orders Roundup of Leaders.

One of the prosecutor's first actions was to send out police to round up union leaders accused of intimidating drivers at the coal yards. The state's attorney's police arrested four men and the city police arrested a woman and ten men, including Milton Booth Jr., head of one faction of the teamsters' union, which was bossed for more than 25 years by his father. Booth is one of the 35 defendants in the T-N-T conspiracy indictment, and so is Reese, who called the strike.

The first violence in the strike occurred last night and resulted in the arrest of two members of the outlaw union and their woman companion. They are Herbert Ambler, 33 years old, 6618 South May street; Lawrence Wolf, 27, of 8533 Laflin street, chauffeurs, and Miss Gayle Meza, 22, of 6246 South Park avenue, a bookkeeper.

Driver Tells of Attack.

John Tomasevich, 9734 Escanaba avenue, a driver for the Hefter Coal company, 9441 Commercial avenue, charged the two men with dumping his load of coal and beating him. He said that Miss Meza urged them to kill him. Tomasevich said that earlier in the day he was stopped by Miss Meza and two other men—not those under arrest—and warned not to make deliveries. Later, as he was making a delivery at 6040 Prairie avenue, he said, the girl, Ambler, and Wolf drove up and

AUTO FUMES KILL CHARLES SCHICK, FORMER BANKER

Charles E. Schick, 62 years old, former banker, was killed last evening by carbon monoxide fumes from his automobile in the garage in the rear of his home at 532 Earlston road, Kenilworth.

Schick was found unconscious on the floor of the garage by his wife, Ottilie, and his son, Robert. The motor of the car was still running and the garage was filled with the noxious gases. An inhalator squad was summoned from Winnetka, but could not revive him. The family told police that Mr. Schick was probably overcome while trying to light a small stove in the garage while the motor of his automobile was still running.

Mr. Schick entered the banking business in Chicago in 1888. He was associated with several north side banks and in 1926 became president of the Northcenter Trust and Savings bank, 1940 Irving Park boulevard. When this bank merged with the Citizens State bank in 1930 Mr. Schick became a vice president of the latter bank. The Citizens State bank failed in May, 1932.

ARKANSAS HOTEL FIRE ROUTS KATE SMITH OF RADIO

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Kate Smith came over the mountain to Hot Springs today, sans wardrobe and secluded rest which went up in the smoke of a hotel fire 12 miles away in the Ouachitas.

About all the singer saved were the clothes she wore and snapshots of the fire which razed the Mountain Valley Springs hotel, where she and her manager, Ted Collins, and his wife arrived last night for a two weeks' rest.

The dozen other guests at the hotel escaped safely, but, like Miss Smith and her party, most of them lost all of their belongings.

Miss Smith and her party had an apartment in a bungalowlike structure adjoining the hotel proper, but the fire starting in the attic spread so rapidly they had no time to take out their personal effects.

Armed Woman Robber Picks a Woman Victim

Mrs. Esther Feldman, 24 years old, 3237 Thomas street, reported to police last evening that she had been held up by a woman who carried a large pistol. She said the other woman stopped her at Spaulding avenue and Cortez street and asked her the time. She then drew the pistol, took the watch and walked away.

Gen. Pershing in Tucson for Several Weeks' Rest

17 Crash Case Witnesses in Court in Vain

Seventeen witnesses who appeared in Traffic court yesterday wasted their afternoon. They were ready to testify that Mrs. Blossom Howard, also known as Miss Blossom Taylor, 2000 Lincoln Park West, was intoxicated when her automobile crashed into another car last December at Rosemont avenue and Sheridan road, seriously injuring Prof. Garrett H. Leverton of Northwestern university.

But Municipal Judge Nuncio J. Bonelli, who presides in the Traffic court, was not there yesterday. He had suddenly decided to accompany his political sponsor, Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], to Arizona, where Gov. Horner is resting.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court said Judge Bonelli did not have permission to be absent from his duties. His departure was against all rules and regulations, the chief justice said.

Report Politics Involved.

Mrs. Howard's husband, Jack, is a north side saloonkeeper who is said to have political affiliations. There was a report that a ward committeeman had promised to see that Mrs. Howard was exonerated in the trial. She is charged with reckless driving and with driving while intoxicated.

Attorney John Cusack, brother of Ald. James J. Cusack [5th], appeared as one of counsel for Mrs. Howard. Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman was on the bench in place of Judge Bonelli. Judge Gorman said he was taking over Judge Bonelli's call temporarily, but had work of his own.

Attorney Cusack and Attorney Joseph Hinshaw, another of Mrs. Howard's lawyers, immediately asked a continuance of the case. Assistant State's Attorney Abraham Drucker and Attorney Harry N. Pritzker, who represents Prof. Leverton, protested.

Pritzker Demands Trial.

"This case originated Dec. 17," said Attorney Pritzker. "There have been several continuances and it was set definitly for trial today. I have seventeen witnesses here who will lose their pay or suffer losses in their businesses because they have taken the time to come to court. They are here under subpenas, without pay."

"Our client's liberty is jeopardized and two of our witnesses are not present," said Attorney Cusack. "It would be unfair to the defendant to proceed."

"Two of our witnesses," retorted Attorney Pritzker, "are persons who almost lost their lives at the hands of this woman who was intoxicated and driving on the wrong side of the street without lights on her car."

Mrs. Howard's lawyers continued to plead. Judge Gorman said he did not care to hear a case that would take [illegible] and probably would [illegible] be finished then. Attorney Pritzker asked that the prosecution witnesses be heard so they would not have to go to court again.

Judge Gorman continued the case to Feb. 27, promising it would be heard then.

Other Judges Absent.

There were five other judges absent yesterday, Chief Justice Sonsteby said. They were Judges John Gutknecht, C. C. Smith, Eugene Holland, Leon Edelman, and J. William Brooks. Judge Brooks was ill, but the reasons for the other absences were not explained.

The chief justice promised to bear the absences in mind when the regular vacation season arrives. But he added that there is nothing he can do to a judge who is absent without leave.

NAZI DECREE MAKES GOLF THE NATIONAL SPORT OF GERMANY

WEISBADEN, Germany, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Golf, by Nazi decree, is to be a national sport of Germany.

Acting under orders from Berlin, Karl Henkel, chief of the German Golf Clubs union, and Gustav Schaefer, leader of the Gymnastic and Sport association, announced plans to popularize the royal and ancient game and bring it within the price reach of the lowliest German.

The army, navy, Hitler's storm troops, and members of the youth movement will be expected to lead a new horde of players across German fairways.

New and better golf courses are to be built here, Henkel said, the price of equipment is to be lowered and membership fees in golf clubs limited to two marks [80 cents] a year for adults and one mark for juniors under 18 years of age.

A national tournament is to be held May 10, open to all amateur male and female players. A program of international matches, juvenile, professional, and mixed tournaments will be drawn up later in the year.

The game has never been as popular in Germany as in many other countries, its two oldest tournaments only going back to 1907. During the war the game almost went out of existence.

The 1933 golfers' handbook lists only 42 golf clubs in Germany. It is estimated that there are 5,800 in the United States, and some 2,000 in England and Scotland.

100,000 War Vets Salute Dead Monarch

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 19.—A nation wept and prayed today.

Beneath flaming torches and amid the sound of ringing bells and the roar of guns, King Albert's body was removed from the royal family chateau at Laeken on the outskirts of the capital to the royal palace in Brussels. Only then did Belgium realize she had lost her king, for since yesterday morning the monarch's body belonged to his family, and, most of all, to his widowed queen.

This evening at 6:30 o'clock the nation's claim to it was fulfilled. The king's body will lie in state in the royal palace from now until Thursday for every Belgian man, woman, and child to see.

300,000 View Procession.

On a gun carriage in a coffin covered by the Belgian black, yellow, and red flag, the king's body was slowly carried three miles through the streets while 300,000 saddened Belgians watched in silence. They were still stunned by the shock of the accident which cost the life of their monarch Saturday while mountain climbing in his native hills.

An army—the same army that had fought with the king through the war—followed. One hundred thousand war veterans with their flags lowered and their heads bowed marched slowly along.

The street lamps were veiled with black crepe. Soldiers lined up in battle array from Laeken to the palace in Brussels—the beginning and end of the sad pageant. Crepe fluttered from rifles and sabers.

Grenadiers Carry Coffin.

Darkness had settled over the capital when the procession started from Laeken. The coffin was carried down a flight of stairs from the castle to the caisson by six officers of the king's grenadiers.

The king's favorite cavalry regiment took the lead. Officers astride snow white horses acted as standard bearers. The caisson bearing the soldier king's plain metal coffin was drawn by six black horses. Two of the king's aids walked to the left of the coffin, a general and a colonel at the right. Sixteen torch bearers flanked the gun carriage.

The flickering torches revealed two solitary figures behind the gun carriage—Crown Prince Leopold, who on Friday will become king of the Belgians, and his younger brother, Charles, count of Flanders. Neither Queen Elizabeth, who lay prostrate in her bedroom at Laeken, nor Princess Astrid of Sweden, consort of Leopold, walked along. Women are excluded from funeral processions in Belgium.

War Veterans Follow.

Then came in court uniform all the elderly men who for 25 years had served the king. Albert's courtiers, his military staff, and his secretaries followed. Then came a dense crowd of dutiful men, men in shabby uniforms, men in civilian suits, men in mourning attire, men with scars, men who limped, blind men—the Belgian army that came back from the war.

Heads were uncovered, women sobbed, prayers were whispered as the procession passed. At 7:30 o'clock it reached the tomb of the unknown soldier where an eternal flame burns amid wreaths of flowers.

High above rose the Pillar of Congress, commemorating the constituent assembly which created Belgium 103

TOUHY PAL GIVES FULL DETAILS ON WITNESS STAND

Accuses 3 Gangsters Now on Trial.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

A Touhy gangster broke one of gangdom's laws and talked before a jury in Judge Michael Feinberg's court yesterday. He was Isaac Costner, Tennessee rifleman imported to Chicago as an expert marksman for the Touhy gang.

He positively identified Roger Touhy, Albert Kator, and Gus Schaefer as among the men who kidnaped John Factor near the Dells roadhouse in Morton Grove last July 1.

Touhy, Kator and Schaefer are being tried for the second time for the kidnaping of Factor, wealthy promoter. The first trial ended in a disagreement of the jury.

Costner Confesses on Stand.

Costner confessed from the witness stand that he was one of the kidnaping gang. Under the questioning of First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley, he told a complete story of the abduction from the time Factor was taken until he was released July 12 upon the payment of $70,000 ransom. He furnished a wealth of detail and his testimony corroborated the main points of Factor's own version of the abduction which was unsupported at the first trial by any but circumstantial evidence.

Displaying fear at first but gradually gaining courage as he testified, Costner left no detail of the kidnaping uncovered.

Calls Silvers "Finger Man."

One of Costner's disclosures was that Joseph Silvers, a partner in the Dells roadhouse, who is said to control the gambling privileges there, had "put the finger" on Factor for the kidnapers. State's attorney's police last night went searching for Silvers, but were informed that he is in Florida at present.

The witness declared that Silvers came out of the roadhouse while the Touhy gang was waiting near by and described Factor to them and the kind of car in which he would ride. He also indicated to them the probable time of Factor's departure from the roadhouse, Costner testified.

Unshaken by Defense Lawyer.

Costner's story was unshaken under cross-examination by Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart, who had vainly attempted to keep the jury from hearing the gangster's testimony. Some details of Costner's tale differed from Factor's own story of what had happened to him, but the main points and the identification of the defendants remained firm.

The Tennesseean said he had received $2,400 of the ransom money as his share of the profits of the kidnaping. He had $1,000 of this left when arrested in Baltimore on Feb. 11, he said. He did not know how the remaining $67,600 of ransom money had been divided among the gangsters, he testified.

In telling of the frantic efforts of the Touhy gang to collect $50,000 more from Factor, Costner said the money was wanted for a legal defense fund, Roger Touhy and several of the gang having been arrested in Wisconsin.

Eight Other Witnesses Testify.

Eight other witnesses took the stand in rapid succession after Costner concluded his testimony late in the afternoon. Their stories had been told at the first trial and in the main furnished circumstantial evidence concerning the kidnaping and ransom negotiations.

Among these witnesses was Dr. Herman M. Soloway, Factor's physician, who paid the $70,000 ransom to two members of the Touhy gang.

Factor will probably testify today, it was said.

COSTNER ON THE STAND

Although Costner was summoned to the witness stand when court opened at 10 a. m., Defense Attorney Stewart's protests and objections delayed his testimony for more than an hour.

Costner, a sallow-visaged man whose eye darted from side to side when he entered the courtroom, appeared frightened as he gave his name. His appearance was the signal for several telegraph messenger boys to dart with press bulletins from the courtroom, and Kator jumped nervously to his feet as one of them banged a door with a sharp report.

Attorney Stewart interposed an objection as soon as Costner had given his place of residence as Tennessee.

"I haven't had a chance to question this [illegible]," said Attorney Stewart, pointing out that Costner's name was not submitted by the state to the defense in the list of prosecution witnesses before the trial. The law gives the defense the right to interview such witnesses before they testify.

Ruling of the Judge.

"That is your right," Judge Feinberg said to Stewart. "You may talk to him in the presence of a policeman or assistant state's attorney."

"But I want to talk to him alone," dissented the lawyer, crestfallen. "If you insist upon the state's attorney being there I regard that as a refusal to permit me to examine him."

"However you may regard it, that is the ruling of this court," said the judge. "Now, let's not waste any more time."

The lawyer, however, wrangled for some time. Finally he and Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, were closeted with the witness for some 45 minutes.

"He refused to talk to me," said Stewart in some disgust when he emerged from the interview with the prisoner.

Costner Returns to Stand.

Costner was more at ease when he again ascended the stand. He spoke slowly, with a very slight broadening of the vowels, in an easy, low voiced drawl.

He testified that he came to Illinois late in June, 1933, and immediately went to the Touhy headquarters in a Park Ridge apartment. He had been summoned to Chicago by Basil Banghart, who he had known for six years, he said. Banghart had paid him a visit in Tennessee a week previously, he declared, and apparently had told him there was a job to be put over in Chicago.

"The Park Ridge apartment was in a big apartment building," Costner testified. "I don't know the address. Banghart and a girl named May Blaylock were there."

"Who else did you see there?" asked Prosecutor Crowley.

"O, some of the boys I knew," replied Costner. "I saw Tommy Touhy the next day and Willie Sharkey. Also Jimmie Tribbles." [All members of the Touhy gang. Sharkey and Tribbles are now dead.]

He Identifies Roger Touhy.

The defendants stiffened in their chairs at the prosecutor's next question:

"Do you know Roger Touhy?"

"Stand up, Roger," prompted Attorney Stewart, and the gang leader, with little show of expression, stood up and faced his former henchman.

"That's him," said Costner, simply. The process was repeated with Schaefer and Kator.

Costner named Charles [Ice Wagon] Connors and Andy McFadden as other members of the Touhy gang to whom he was introduced in the Park Ridge apartment. [Andy McFadden is a son of Edward (Father Tom) McFadden, Touhy gangster who was dismissed by the prosecution as a defendant at the first trial.]

"I knew some of them before in Tennessee," Costner said, but he did not explain what the Touhy gang had been doing in that state.

He first met Roger Touhy, he said, in Jim Wagner's roadhouse on the River road north of Des Plaines.

"I went around mostly with Banghart," Costner explained. "I knew him the best. The Touhys had several places where they met—one in Park Ridge, one in Glenview, and other places. But the territory was all new to me. I couldn't give the addresses."

STORY OF KIDNAPING

Then Prosecutor Crowley got down to business, calling the witness' attention to the night of June 30, 1933, a few hours before the kidnaping of Factor, which occurred early in the morning of July 1.

"I was in bed in one of the places," Costner testified. "About 11 p. m. one of the boys, maybe it was Gus Schaefer, maybe it was Roger Touhy, came out and woke me and Banghart up.

Q.—Did he say anything? A.—Yes, that they were going to grab Jake Factor.

Q.—What did you do? A.—Got my clothes on and got into my car with three other men.

Q.—Where did you go? A.—To a little beer garden around the corner, and northwest of The Dells. We sat there for about an hour, until midnight, drinking a little beer and talking.

Q.—Who was there that you remember? A.—Roger Tonhy, Schaefer, Kator, Connors, Sharkey, Banghart, and some others.

A Man Named Silver.

Then came Costner's testimony that a man of stocky build appeared from The Dells. This man was addressed as Silvers, he said.

Q.—Did you hear what this man said? A.—Yes. He said that Factor was at the Dells and that he might stay an hour or more. He talked some more, but I didn't hear what was said.

About midnight, Costner said, Roger Touhy drove his automobile past the Dells and parked at Austin avenue and Dempster street, just east of the roadhouse.

Q.—Were there guns in your car? A.—I had a shotgun which some one gave me. The others had shotguns, too. I saw a machine gun in the hands of one of the other men later.

Car Across from Roadhouse.

Meanwhile a second Touhy car was parked directly across from the roadhouse, Costner said.

After some time the same man of stocky build called Silvers again came out of the roadhouse and talked to Roger Touhy, the witness said.

"He described Factor and the car he was driving in," Costner told the jury. "He gave Factor's height and the kind of clothes he was wearing, and said he would be in a Duesenberg car. He said Factor had been gambling and probably wouldn't stay much longer."

Q.—Then what happened? A.—The stocky man went back.

Q.—Did you men talk among yourselves about what you were going to do? A.—Yes, they said they were going to put Factor in the basement.

Q.—Did you know what that meant? A.—Yes, sir.

CHASE AND SEIZURE

The wait continued, Costner said, until the gangsters saw the Duesenberg roadster containing Factor leave the roadhouse and proceed east in Dempster street.

"The first car followed the Factor car and Roger pulled out and followed the first car," he said. "Banghart was driving the car in front. About 200 or 300 yards down the road the first car crowded the Duesenberg off the road. We pulled up alongside."

State Speeds Its Evidence in Touhy Trial; Nine Witnesses Take the Stand During Day

When the second day of testimony in the second Touhy kidnaping trial closed last evening seventeen state witnesses had been on the stand. The prosecution, which at the first trial consumed several days in presenting its testimony, is bent on completing the second hearing as speedily as possible.

Of the seventeen witnesses who have told their stories to the jury eight were on the stand last Saturday, when evidence taking began, and nine yesterday, including Isaac Costner, the Touhy gangster who turned state's evidence.

After Costner had finished his testimony yesterday afternoon the state called eight more witnesses in rapid order. They were questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney.

Friend of Factor Testifies.

Herman J. Garfield, 2920 Commonwealth avenue, a friend of John Factor, was the first. He testified that last July 2, the day after the kidnaping of Factor, he received a telephone call.

"When I answered the telephone," Garfield told the jury, "a voice said: 'I am speaking for Factor. He wants you to get in touch with Mrs. Factor and tell her to get $200,000 ready.' The caller then hung up."

Garfield said he delivered the message.

Harry Cohen, 200 East Chestnut street, testified that Factor was using his name in a brokerage account at Stein, Alstrin & Co. He said Mrs. Factor asked him how much money could be raised on the account. He said he made inquiries and found he could get $75,000.

Raises Sum of $75,000.

Acting on Mrs. Factor's instructions, he did get such a sum on July 11, he said. He turned the money over to William Cohen, brother of Mrs. Factor. Of the $75,000, however, only $70,000 was given to the kidnapers.

William Cohen was the next witness. He and Harry Cohen are not related. William told of receiving the money from Harry in $5, $10 and $20 bills and of taking it on July 12 to the office of Dr. Herman M. Soloway, Factor's physician, at 25 East Washington street.

Cohen was instructed by Judge Michael Feinberg, presiding at the trial, to keep himself available for possible further questioning later. The judge acted at the request of Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart.

Mrs. Leah Soloway, wife of Dr. Soloway, was the next witness. She testified to receiving an envelope in her apartment in the Copeland hotel on July 9. The envelope was delivered by a bellboy. It contained Factor's ring, which had been sent by the kidnapers to prove that Factor actually was a prisoner.

Story of La Grange Policeman.

The chain of ransom evidence was broken to allow Policeman Eugene Cortesi of La Grange to testify. He said he saw Factor after his release on the night of July 12.

"I saw a man I thought was drunk at 5th and Burlington avenues in La Grange," Cortesi said. "I asked him what was the trouble and he replied: 'I am Jack Factor.' He had a heavy growth of beard, his hair was all mussed up and he seemed sort of blind. He was feeling his way."

The prosecution switched again to the ransom evidence by calling Rudy Benitez, bellboy at the Copeland hotel, to the witness stand.

Benitez testified that the envelope containing Factor's ring was given to him by a man who instructed that it be delivered to the Soloway apartment. He identified a photograph of Willie Sharkey, Touhy gangster who later hanged himself in the St. Paul jail, as that of the man who gave him the letter.

Dr. Soloway Is Witness.

Dr. Soloway, who paid the $70,000 ransom for Factor's release, was then called to the stand.

He said he received the first telephone call from the kidnapers on July 2. He was called almost every day thereafter until he delivered the ransom on July 12, he said.

Q.—Did you receive a call on July 5? A.—Yes. I told the caller that if this was a joke I did not want to be bothered. He said it was not a joke, but a very serious matter. He said Factor thought I would help him out of his predicament. I asked the man to send me some token and suggested a letter. The caller said: "A letter is out because we do not want to have anything to do with the G [government]."

Wrist Watch Is Lost.

Dr. Soloway said that Factor's wrist watch, sent as a token, became lost and that finally the envelope was sent with Factor's ring. On July 10, he said, he informed the kidnapers that Mrs. Factor had raised $55,000 and was trying to get more.

Q.—Did you get a call on July 11? A.—Yes, I told the caller that Mrs. Factor had raised another $10,000 or $15,000. He asked if he could talk to Mrs. Factor. I called her to my office and the man talked to her for about ten minutes. He said I would get instructions later.

Q.—Did you get another call? A.—Yes, the next day the man called and told me to get the money. He told me then to go downstairs to the drug store and to wait for a call in the last booth. I was delayed getting the money.

Gets Further Instructions.

Q.—Then what happened? A.—The phone rang and when I answered it the man said, "What in h—— was the matter with you, Doc?" I told him a patient had come in. He then gave me instructions on how to deliver the money.

Q.—Did you leave with the money? A.—The man asked me if I had located the wrist watch and I told him I had not. I told him that before I left I wanted to be assured that nothing would happen to me. The man said, "Don't be silly, Doc." After this I called a cab and followed directions.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I drove west in Jackson boulevard to Des Plaines road, then south to 22d street and started slowly west. I was told that some one would contact me and would give me a charm from Factor's watch.

Q.—Tell us about what occurred on your ride in 22d street. A.—A little car shot up and a man put up his hand. I stopped the cab and went over to the car. One of the men in the car handed me the watch charm and asked if I had the money. I told him it was in the cab.

Tells of Paying Ransom.

Dr. Soloway then told of paying over the money to the ransom collector, who had a machine gun in his lap and an automatic pistol in his right hand.

Q.—Did you say anything to the man? A.—I asked him where Factor was. He smiled and said Factor would be home between 9 and 9:30 p. m.

Mark Freeman, 442 Wellington street, who received a ransom letter on July 8, was the last witness. He turned the letter over to William Cohen, he said.

Defense Attorney Stewart did not cross-examine any of the last eight witnesses.

QUIZZED ABOUT FARM

In an apparent attempt to get more definite data about the "kidnap farm," Schaefer and Kator looked stonily ahead.

"Tell in your own words what happened," directed Prosecutor Crowley.

"Someone in our car hollered at the Factor car," said Costner. "I got out and the others got out. I went around to the side of the Duesenberg and told the man I later found was Epstein [A. L. Epstein, friend of Factor] to get out. Factor got out next.

"I took one arm of Factor and someone else took his other arm and we put him in the back seat of our car. I got into the front seat and somebody pushed Epstein in beside me. So I took the wheel."

Q.—Now before you go any farther, did you see any machine guns there? A.—One fellow had a machine gun and it was pointing directly at me, and I yelled at him to put it down or he'd hurt somebody.

The courtroom quiet was broken by a ripple of amusement at this ingenuous statement from the Tennesseean.

Q.—Who had the machine gun? A.—I think it was Sharkey.

Drives at Touhy's Orders.

"I drove the automobile away, being directed by Roger Touhy, who was in the back of the car with Factor," resumed Costner. "I drove fairly fast. Sometimes I was directed by the other man in the back with Factor, who was either Connors or Sharkey. After we drove about two or three miles we turned Epstein loose."

Q.—Was there any conversation in the rear of the car? A.—Roger said something to Factor about getting Hunt and Humphreys to get him out of this mess. [Sam Hunt and Murray Humphreys, Capone gangsters, had helped Factor when his son, Jerome, was kidnaped three months before. Factor at the previous trial testified that Touhy twitted him about getting help from Capone gangsters who were foes of the Touhys.]

After Epstein was pushed out of the car another of the kidnapers took the wheel, Costner said, and the car proceeded another two or three miles to the first place where Factor was confined. Although Costner said he did not know where this place was, it has been proved by the state to be a house at Fern and Elm streets, Glenview. The witness said he did not stay at the Glenview house that first night.

"The next day," he said, "I went back to the house and stayed with Factor in the basement that day. There were some other men with him and some of them I had never seen before. About 10 p. m. that night we took Factor away."

Factor was driven in a car containing Connors, himself and another gangster, Costner said, for a distance of about 50 or 60 miles.

Drive to a Farmhouse.

"It was in a westerly direction," he testified, "but I don't know exactly where the farmhouse is that we went to. There was an automobile ahead of us and one behind us. We put Factor on the second floor of the farmhouse and I stayed there with him for the next ten or twelve days."

Costner said that two other men, whom he did not know and whom he had not seen since, stayed with him and Factor at the farmhouse.

Q.—Was Factor visited by members of the gang? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Who came out there? A.—Banghart, Roger Touhy.

Q.—Did Schaefer come out? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And Kator? A.—Yes, sir.

The witness told of Factor's being permitted to write a letter to his wife about the eighth day of his imprisonment. He identified the five page letter which was shown.

"Who was present when that letter was written?" asked Crowley.

"I think Touhy was there and Banghart and three or four others."

Q.—Was the bandage taken off Factor's eyes? A.—Yes, sir. I advised him to write the letter. I told him I wanted him to be released and get away from there.

Prosecutor Crowley asked the witness for additional details about the place but Costner was vague.

"Our food was brought to us by a man and his wife who lived nearby," he said. "I'd recognize them, I think, if I saw them again. I was only out of the house two or three times. There wasn't much to see around there."

The witness told of Factor's wrist watch, ring, and ten commandment luck piece, which were taken from the captive. These were used during the ransom negotiations to prove that Factor was actually held.

"About the twelfth day," continued Costner, obviously becoming wearied from the strain of being on the stand, "a bunch of the boys came to the farm and said they were going to let Factor go. I helped soak the bandage off his eyes and a handkerchief was tied on him instead.

They Get the $70,000.

"Banghart said they'd got the money, $70,000, but wanted $50,000 more, and Factor said he'd pay the additional money. He said he'd negotiate with nobody but me, that he wouldn't talk to any one else.

"I drove the car. We passed through three or four towns, but I don't know their names. We drove an hour or two at a good rate. Then we let him out, at a place which, I read in the papers, was La Grange."

Q.—What was Factor's condition? A.—He was a very weak man. He hadn't been able to eat much and he had been in bed most of the time. He was very nervous.

Q.—Did you abuse him any? A.—No, sir.

After the release of Factor the kidnapers went back to the Park Ridge apartment.

"Next day Banghart gave me $2,400 in twenties with a few tens," Costner testified. "He said it was my share."

Q.—Did he tell you what was done with the other money? A.—No.

Q.—Did he say what was his share? A.—No.

Q.—What did you do with your money? A.—I carried it around for a week and then went down to a bank on Madison street and put it in a box.

Costner said that Banghart moved to an apartment building on Washington boulevard, in about the 5500 block, and that he, Costner, rented an apartment at 110 North Parkside avenue. He sent to Tennessee for his wife and children, he declared, and he moved them into the Parkside avenue apartment.

Resumes Ransom Parley.

He told of resuming negotiations with Factor for the additional $50,000 ransom. He called Factor, he said, according to arrangements he had made with him, at the brokerage concern of Stein, Alstrin & Co.

"On Aug. 14," Costner testified, "Factor said he could raise $15,000. Banghart told me to tell him to have some one drive out in a taxicab to a place near the York Golf club, where we used to play golf. I told Factor that and I and another man went out that afternoon, but nobody showed up."

The following day, Costner said, he flew to New York with another man. It was on this day that Banghart and Connors attempted to collect the additional ransom near Western Springs, accepted a decoy package containing $500, and managed to escape a trap set by more than 200 policemen.

"I took a train immediately back to Chicago," Costner said, "and saw Banghart again."

Attorney Stewart objected to any testimony concerning events which took place after Aug. 15, claiming that such evidence would be inadmissible. Judge Feinberg overruled his objections and court was then adjourned until 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Costner appeared to become weary as he resumed the witness stand at the afternoon session of court. Judge Feinberg had to warn him several times to "raise his voice so the jurors could hear him." He was questioned by Prosecutor Crowley as follows:

Q.—When court adjourned we were at the point where you had returned from New York. You were telling us of a talk with Banghart. Was any one else present at that talk? A.—Not that I remember.

Q.—What was the talk? A.—It was regarding changing addresses. After I got back from New York I stayed around until I got good and ready and then we [Costner and his family] left for Tennessee. Banghart said he was coming to Tennessee, too.

Q.—When was it you went back to Tennessee? A.—I don't know exactly, but it was before school started. We wanted to get back for the opening of school.

Banghart Goes to Tennessee.

Q.—Did Banghart come to Tennessee? A.—Yes, he came to Newport.

Q.—Did you see him often? A.—Yes, I saw him most every day for a week or two. It was in the latter part of August or the first part of September.

Costner caused a ripple of laughter when he explained why he made himself scarce on the streets of Newport.

"I was under a gun charge and I was not making myself public," he said. "You know it is a small town and everybody knows all about you. I did go squirrel hunting several times with friends."

Costner then told of leaving Tennessee and going to Charlotte, N. C. He said he met Banghart at Charlotte and also saw Connors there. Costner said he and Banghart then moved on to Baltimore after a short stay in Lexington, Ky. He went home to Tennessee for Christmas, he said.

Costner then told of being arrested in Baltimore on Feb. 11 and of being questioned there by Capt. Gilbert. When he returned to Chicago Saturday he was questioned by Prosecutor Crowley. Judge Feinberg, however, refused to allow the prosecution to go into the details of this questioning.

Q.—Now, when you were arrested did you have any part of the money which was given to you as your share from the Factor kidnaping? A.—Yes, I think I had $1,496.

Q.—Was any part of that the money you received from Banghart after the kidnaping? A.—Yes, it was.

Q.—How much? A.—About $1,000.

Q.—What did you do with the money after you received it from Banghart? A.—I rented a safe deposit box.

Q.—Did you spend any part of the money you received from the Factor case? A.—Yes. After I took my wife to the safe deposit box I got some money out to buy a new automobile. I bought a new car in La Grange. I paid $1,117 and my old car, I believe.

Banghart Eager to Get Money.

He ended his direct examination by telling about Banghart's eagerness to raise money to help Roger Touhy and other members of the gang who were charged in St. Paul with the kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., wealthy brewer.

The testimony on this point disclosed why Banghart made such desperate efforts to collect the $50,000 additional ransom money from Factor.

"I know Banghart was anxious to get the money and turn it over to the lawyer who represented these boys up in St. Paul," said Costner.

Attorney Stewart, who was one of the lawyers for the Touhy gangsters in their St. Paul trial, jumped to his feet and cried: "What lawyer?"

Costner said he could not answer that question because Banghart did not name the lawyer. At this point Prosecutor Crowley turned Costner over to Stewart for cross-examination.

THE CROSS-EXAMINATION

The defense lawyer found Costner a stubborn witness, who frequently took refuge in "I don't remember" and "I couldn't say" as answers to questions.

Costner's story of the writing of the ransom letter by Factor while at the farm differed in several details from the story told by Factor at the first trial and Stewart concentrated upon this phase of the testimony.

Factor had testified that when the bandages were removed from his eyes in order that he might write the letter, he looked up and saw Roger Touhy before him holding up a blanket. Factor also said there was an electric light on the table on which he was writing.

Costner, in contradiction of this, declared that two men held up a blanket over the window in the room. The electric light, he declared, was overhead and Factor did not look up at any time, so far as he noticed, he testified.

Factor's testimony also was that Costner had once been so moved by the brutality shown the captive that he whispered in Factor's ear: "I feel like taking you and putting you in a car and taking you home right now."

"I never said that," declared Costner, to the defense lawyer.

Attorney Stewart strove to shake Costner's identification of Touhy as one of the kidnapers.

Q.—Can't you be more definite about when and where you met Touhy? A.—No, sir, I can't.

Q.—Did you talk with him? A.—Well, we talked together.

Q.—Did you hear them talk about kidnaping before the night you say this happened? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—About kidnaping Factor? A.—No. Just about kidnaping anybody.

Questioned on Negotiations.

With a copy of Factor's testimony at the first trial before him, Stewart asked a series of questions concerning the telephone conversations between Factor and Costner relating to the negotiations for the additional $50,000 ransom. To most of these questions, Costner answered: "I don't remember."

Apparently irritated by these rejoinders, Stewart subtly inquired:

"As a matter of fact, you never had any such conversations, did you?"

"It was a long time ago. I don't remember the details," persisted Costner.

The lawyer then began to probe into the witness' past history. Costner confessed that he had been wanted in Tenessee on a whisky conspiracy charge and a gun charge, and had been accused by the government, when arrested in Baltimore, of complicity in a mail robbery at Charlotte, N. C.

Q.—And you've been in the penitentiary at Atlanta? A.—Yes, sir.

Stewart Charges a Deal.

Q.—You've made a deal here with the prosecution for this testimony haven't you? A.—I wouldn't call it a deal.

Q.—Are they going to let you out of the North Carolina charge? A.—I don't know. As a matter of fact, I would have preferred to go to North Carolina than to Chicago.

Q.—Do you expect something for your testimony? A.—Yes, I do.

Q.—What do you expect? A.—Well, I'm hoping for the best.

Q.—Who made you any promises? A.—Prosecutor Crowley told me I'd get some consideration.

Q.—And you're doing the best you can for yourself? A.—Yes, sir.

"That's all," said Stewart, and Costner, with a sigh of relief, hastily left the stand.

BANGHART INDICATES BELIEF GANG SHOULD HAVE SLAIN COSTNER

If the Touhy gang had suspected that Isaac Costner would testify against Roger Touhy, Albert Kator, and Gus Schaefer in the Factor kidnaping trial, Costner probably would have been taken for a ride long ago.

That was the inference drawn by police last night from a remark made by Basil [The Owl] Banghart, one of the alleged kidnapers, who was arrested with Costner in Baltimore on Feb. 11. Banghart was sitting gloomily in the detective bureau last night, reading newspaper accounts of Costner's testimony.

"What do you think of Costner?" Banghart was asked.

"What I always thought of him," replied the hoodlum. "If we could have caught up with him, he would never have been talking today."

"Does that mean you'd have killed him?"

Banghart laughed sullenly, and refused to answer.

"But I don't know why he had to talk," observed Banghart a moment later. "They had no chance to convict him. I guess he's just that way—a bit screwy. Maybe they're all that way. Look at Willie Sharkey, committing suicide in St. Paul after he had been acquitted of the Hamm kidnaping."

CUMMINGS ASKS 12 U. S. LAWS TO AID CRIME WAR

Aims to Strike at Racket, Kidnaping Gangs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings today asked congress to pass 12 new laws putting the federal government into the police business in an effort to stamp out racketeering and kidnaping.

On the program are proposed laws making racketeering on interstate commerce a federal crime, strengthening the Lindbergh kidnaping law, and making the interstate transportation of any stolen article valued at more than $1,000 a federal offense.

Summary of 12 Bills.

The official summary of the twelve laws proposed follows:

First—Bills to tax importers, manufacturers, and dealers in firearms and machine guns and to regulate the sale thereof.

Second—A bill to extend the scope of the national motor vehicle theft act, so as to include the transportation of other stolen property in interstate or foreign commerce, if said property exceeds $1,000 in value.

Third—A bill to provide punishment for robbing national banks and member banks of the federal reserve system, and for acts of violence in connection therewith.

Fourth—A bill amending and strengthening the so-called Lindbergh act.

Fifth—A bill to protect interstate trade and commerce against interference by violence and intimidation of the type employed by the professional racketeer.

Provides Penalty for Flight.

Sixth—A bill making it unlawful to flee from one state to another to avoid prosecution or the giving of testimony in felony cases. This bill is intended to meet the evil which arises in many cases where criminals who commit serious offenses and those who seek to protect them flee to another jurisdiction making their apprehension and return cumbersome and difficult matters.

Seventh—A bill to eliminate many of the evils which have grown up in connection with the interposition of alibi defenses in criminal cases.

Eighth—A bill limiting the right of appeal in certain types of habeas corpus cases and intended to stop the practice of employing dilatory methods calculated to delay and defeat the administration of justice.

Ninth—A bill dealing with the right of comment, in the trial of a criminal case, upon the failure of the defendant to testify in his own behalf.

Permits Mates to Testify.

Tenth—A bill amending the act concerning the giving of testimony in criminal cases by husband or wife against each other, making such testimony acceptable but not compulsory.

Eleventh—A bill granting the consent of congress to two or more states to enter into agreements for mutual coöperation in the prevention of crime.

Twelfth—A bill making it a criminal offense to commit the crime of extortion by the use of the telephone, telegraph, radio, or oral message transmitted in interstate commerce.

THOUSANDS VIEW OPENING OF COIN MACHINE EXHIBIT

Several thousand manufacturers, operators, and buyers of coin machines attended the exhibit of the National Coin Machine Manufacturers' association which opened its tenth annual session in the Hotel Sherman yesterday. The latest developments in coin machines are on display in 114 booths on the mezzanine floor during the four day session. The repeal of prohibition and the advent of the "tavern" have brought prosperity to the coin machine industry, according to Joseph Huber, secretary of the organization.

Boy Scouts Dissolved in Germany as Not Needed

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Baldur von Schirach, Nazi youth leader, dissolved tonight the German Boy Scout association on the ground that its existence "no longer is warranted." Eberhard Plewe, leader of the Scouts' foreign department, was dismissed and prohibited from conducting further work among boys. The association was affiliated with the international Boy Scout organization.

U. S. FURNITURE MAKING BILL IS BARELY PASSED

New Deal Forces Narrowly Escape Defeat.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The New Deal narrowly escaped an upset in the senate late this afternoon.

With Senator Josiah W. Bailey [Dem., N. C.] and other Democratic senators joining Republican senators in denunciation of the socialistic aspects of the new deal, the scheme to build a government furniture factory at the West Virginia subsistence farm community sponsored by Mrs. Roosevelt, was approved by a vote of 34 to 28.

The senate had passed in eight minutes the treasury and postoffice departments appropriation bill containing a provision for the manufacture of furniture and other equipment for the postal service in factories established anywhere in the country.

Vandenberg Opposes Bill.

Apprised of this action, Senator Arthur Vandenberg [Rep.], who hails from Grand Rapids, Mich., furniture making center, rushed into the chamber, demanded and got a reconsideration. He elicited from Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], who was in charge of the bill, that the intent of the provision was government furniture manufacture to begin with at the Reedsville, W. Va., subsistence farm, where a factory is to be built with $504,000 allotted by the public works administration.

In behalf of the furniture factories in North Carolina which he said would be hard hit by such government competition with private enterprise, Senator Bailey raised the issue of the socialistic trend and ultimate results of the New Deal.

Roll Call on Issue.

The roll call resulted in the following lineup on the government furniture making venture:

Strikes at "Socialism."

"I am not for the socialistic conception of this government and I resist every step in the direction of Socialism in this government," said Senator Bailey. "I think we might as well come to the issue now as later. There is not any doubt about the fact that the way things are going we are going to have to meet that issue and I am willing to meet it today.

"There is nothing here to justify any further expansion of the business of this government by way of encroaching upon private enterprise and if any one takes the view that that is the way to solve our problem of unemployment I am here to tell him that it is also the way to destroy the American republic. We have got to make our choice. I can conceive of nothing more dreadful, nothing worse for the people of this country than for the collector of the tax of the people to go into competition with them by way of those taxes. It is a hopeless situation.

"Since we propose to locate people on the land by way of homesteads, we shall go all the way through the process of devolution until the government has taken charge of every business in the United States and a majority of the people are on the pay roll. They will then perpetuate themselves in power and the people who live on salaries paid by the government will be the masters and the minority not paid by the government will be the servants and we will have an absolute subversion of free government. We will overturn every liberty that ever was carved out by the human race and we will destroy every muniment of that liberty."

"Mrs. Roosevelt," interrupted Senator M. M. Neely [Dem., W. Va.], "has very generously lent her assistance over there and by virtue of the assistance that she has lent some of those who were practically starving to death and who were without clothes and who are without shelter and who are without food are now being given an opportunity to make an honest living."

Bailey Hits at Argument.

"That argument," replied Senator Bailey, "is simply that if there are people out of work anywhere in America and are starving to death, then the government is justified in erecting a factory in that community for the purpose of saving them. If that is the process, let us see where it goes. Unemployment in the United States is estimated to be around 9 to 10 million human beings, and no state, no city and no county, and no township, so far as I know, has escaped. Therefore, according to the argument adduced here in behalf of Reedsville, W. Va., it is the duty of the United States government to locate a factory everywhere. Very well, then, who will maintain it?

"In the French revolution they committed their crimes in the name of liberty. In the present revolution we seem to be disposed to commit them in the name of experiment, and that is all I get out of that argument."

"What is the senator's plan for taking care of these 9 or 10 million people who are out of employment if he is unwilling for the government to help them embark in any kind of business enterprise for fear it will interfere with some capitalist who has hoisted the white flag, as 90 per cent of them have done in the last few years, gone into the storm cellars, closed their factories, and turned their men out on the streets?" Neely demanded.

Last Thing He'd Do.

"I would do anything for them," said Bailey, "but the last thing I would do would be to build a factory and employ them at the expense of other men who will be thrown out to starve as they are now starving. The senator would get nowhere with that kind of program.

"If this country ever gets out of the depression, it is not going to get out of it by way of going into private business. The basis of the civilization here and of the republic itself is private enterprise. When we get to a government or a socialistic enterprise, I will give the senator guarantees that neither he nor his children will live to see the day when there is anything like a recovery. I will give him further guarantees. The senator sits here in his capacity as United States senator and his children will curse the day that he was born notwithstanding they are his children.

"How are we going to circulate money in America? That is the great cry. Governments can not circulate money. We are providing for a little temporary circulation, soon absorbed, soon ended, but if we get the private enterprises to having profits, we not only circulate the money, but we employ the unemployed, and that is the only way to employ them.

Sees Ultimate Trouble.

"In the degree that the United States of America undertakes to take on these private enterprises and to destroy their profit, precisely in that degree it destroys the circulation of money and throws human beings out of work and binds itself to the present hopeless and despairing scheme of things whereby we try to keep ourselves going by repeated borrowings and issurance of new money, the end of which can be but one, and that is the breakdown of everything."

COMMUNIST WORKER FINED.

Emil Kugeno, 9133 Baltimore avenue, was fined $200 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green in the South Chicago court as a result of his arrest for distributing communist literature on the street at 95th street and Escanaba avenue.

SIX BANK BANDITS FLEE WITH $1,300 AFTER GUN FIGHT

Robber Drops Money Bag in Flight.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Richard Brown, George Witters, Theodore Danksza, burglary, sentenced to one year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Grover C. Neimeyer.

Six gunmen escaped with $1,300 yesterday after a gun battle with Special Policeman Charles H. Maier that riddled the Drexel State bank, 3944 Cottake Grove avenue, with revolver bullets and shotgun slugs. One of the fleeing bandits, believed to have been wounded, dropped a money sack containing more than the loot obtained.

Harry Sherman, receiving teller of the bank, helped drive the robbers out of the building when he tossed a tear gas bomb into their midst. The bandits filed into the bank from the Oakwood boulevard entrance.

One of the men vaulted into Teller Arthur Sokolsky's cage and seized a bag of money. Policeman Maier, who had taken refuge behind a metal sign that announced Washington's birthday as a bank holiday, opened fire on the bandit in the teller's cage.

The man stopped as though he had been struck by a bullet, the teller said, dropped the money bag, and climbed out of the cage. For the next three minutes the bandits and Policeman Maier exchanged shots that smashed through windows, chipped the marble counters, and tore into the walls. Sherman then tossed the tear gas bomb and the robbers fled to an automobile parked at the curb. Squads summoned by Miss Ceil Buckley, 21 years old, the switchboard operator, in the face of orders to leave the switchboard, arrived at the bank two minutes after the bandits had escaped.

CHURCH EDITOR DENIES CENSURE ON ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Dr. Harry Earl Woolever, editor of the National Methodist Press, in a statement tonight said there was no justification for drawing inferences from a recent Chicago speech by him that he delivered a rebuke to the President or impugned his character.

The editor said that he urged support of the President's efforts in behalf of recovery; quoting from the speech:

"Every citizen should be hoping and praying for the success of President Roosevelt's administration."

Referring in his speech to a newspaper report having to do with Mr. Roosevelt taking a depreciation allowance on some property for tax purposes, Dr. Woolever quoted himself as saying:

"If this be a confession on the part of the President, may he take all of us down to the altar in confession, repentence, and seeking the new life."

Cat Walks 29 Miles to Rejoin Her Shipmates

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—When the Colombian steamship Pastores docked today all hands were happy. They had recovered their cat mascot, about which they wove a tale. It seems that although a female, the cat bears the cognomen of Lord Haggis. More than a month ago when the ship called at Port Morent in Jamaica, Lord Haggis disappeared. Last Wednesday, when the ship called at Kingston, Lord Haggis walked aboard, having apparently walked the twenty-nine miles between ports.

FAIR AND SCHOOL AID BILLS UP TO ASSEMBLY TODAY

Their Supporters Hopeful of Quick Passage.

Reconvening this morning for the second week of its third special session, the Illinois general assembly is expected to act speedily on two important subjects, the enabling legislation for A Century of Progress in 1934 and the Chicago school financing bills. Chicagoans leaving for Springfield last night expressed confidence that the bills will not be delayed further in the house of representatives which has before it the measures already passed by the senate. They predicted both groups of bills would be read a first time today, a second time tomorrow, and the third and last time in the early hours of Thursday morning.

Third Reading Is Test.

The third reading is the one that brings the roll call on the question of passage.

In response to telephone inquiries by THE TRIBUNE last Friday a total of 106 members of the house—four more than the required two-thirds of 102—said they would attend the postmidnight session Thursday and vote for the Fair bills. It is believed the school bills may go through at the same time as no opposition has developed against them.

The path of the Fair bills is believed to have been smoothed by developments in connection with the question of whether the Shedd aquarium should be included within the Exposition grounds. Aquarium officials have opposed proposals that their institution be excluded from the Fair's limits because it fared so well financially last year.

Last Word from Aquarium.

Yesterday they added their last word when they said the aquarium might have to be closed if it were shut off from the Fair.

This statement was based on the fact that exclusion would mean that the aquarium management would have to pay for a new bridge over the Illinois Central tracks. The one now in use belongs to the Exposition and, as it leads directly into the grounds and provides the only access to the north gate, it would be reserved for use by Fair visitors alone.

A new bridge would cost $100,000 and aquarium officials feel they are not in a position to spend that amount of money for such a purpose.

School Trustees Hopeful.

School trustees found their hope for quick action on their bills increased by approval from high authority of the financial soundness of their proposals.

The tax levy bill designed by the trustees to eliminate $8,454,000 from the 17 million dollar deficit in the 1934 school budget by means of pegging the educational fund tax levies for 1933 and 1934 was declared valid in an opinion given during the day by Attorney Henry E. Cutler, legal expert on municipal securities.

Mr. Cutler expressed his view of the bill in a conference with Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the school board, and Ralph Condee, assistant school attorney. "I believe the bill is valid," he told them. "It fits in with all legal principles."

Bills Taken to Springfield.

The bill asks the legislature to set the 1933 tax levy at $44,000,000 and the 1934 tax levy at $43,000,000. This measure and others designed by the board to aid the finances of the school system were carried to Springfield last night by Attorney Condee.

The legislation program includes a bill to carry out the plan of Mayor Kelly for providing funds to pay the back salaries of teachers and other school employés. Under this plan the school board would be authorized to pledge school lands that are not used for educational purposes as additional security in the sale of $40,000,000 worth of school bonds to the federal government.

TEACHERS TO MARCH ON SPRINGFIELD WITH DEMANDS FOR MONEY

Benton, Ill., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—All high schools in Williamson and Franklin counties will be closed tomorrow and Wednesday while three hundred high school teachers march to Springfield to present to the legislature their demands that action be taken to relieve their financial distress.

They have not received salary checks for many months and they are asking the elementary school teachers, numbering 1,000, to join with them on the march and the appearance before the legislature.

What the teachers want right now is legislation to include high schools in the participation of the state distributive funds for education. The legislature, sitting as a committee of the whole, will hear their presentation of school needs, possibly tomorrow evening.

Many school district officials have been invited to attend and many have agreed. Fred L. Biester, head of the Glen Ellyn schools, is chairman of the legislative committee of the Illinois State Teachers' association, and he will probably be spokesman.

HORNER, LEWIS TO PUSH SEAWAY TREATY FIGHT

Gov. Horner and United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis yesterday pledged to continue their fight against passage of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty, in telegrams to George W. Young, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Senator Lewis, in a telegram from Washington, said: "I shall continue my opposition to the St. Lawrence waterway, as I regard the whole treaty dangerous to American welfare."

Gov. Horner, in a wire from Phoenix, Ariz., where he is vacationing, said: "Both our senators as well as President Roosevelt know that I am inflexibly opposed to the St. Lawrence treaty in its present form. I have wired both the President and our senators many times and conferred with them personally on the subject.

"The many conferences I have had with the senators on the subject have left no doubt in their minds as to my position and Illinois public opinion. I have heretofore wired every governor in the Mississippi valley on the subject and my constant protest and opposition to the treaty is a matter of general public knowledge. All Illinois is opposed to the treaty in its present form."

FORCE VICTIM INTO VAULT.

Four bandits who obtained $50 from the cash register yesterday forced F. N. Karalia, president of the Chicago Pie company, into the vault in the office at 2440 West Congress street and fled in an automobile.

TREASURY PUTS A TIGHTER GRIP ON INCOME TAX

Lawyers Who Aid Payers Also Affected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today speeded up his drive to clean all possible corruption out of the handling of income tax returns.

In a nation-wide shakeup of the income tax examining force Secretary Morgenthau ordered that examiners no longer be allowed to review the same person's income tax returns two years in succession.

Affects Lawyers, Too.

At the same time he made the first move to tighten up the standards for lawyers practicing before the treasury department income tax and other matters. Discovering that lawyers were not being requested to show their permits to practice before the treasury, Secretary Morgenthau ordered that each lawyer must show a treasury card before starting an argument before any treasury bureau.

The secretary's two orders today were only a part of the series which he has issued to block income tax irregularities. He has required that all persons assisting the taxpayer in compilation of his return sign affidavits to its truthfulness. Mr. Morgenthau also is studying a new set of requirements which lawyers practicing before the treasury will be made to fulfill or they will be barred.

Charges Big Losses.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Figures purporting to show that the federal government lost almost $100,000,000 in corporate income taxes during the Hoover administration because of depreciated allowances were laid before the house today by Representative Cooper [Dem., Tenn.]

Depletion and depreciation allowances during the last four years of Republican administration, Cooper said, amounted to $4,002,508,000.

After Cooper spoke, Democratic leaders decided to defer passage of the $258,000,000 general revenue bill until Wednesday, to permit further debate.

In its investigation of the administration of the income tax law with a view to stopping tax avoidance, Cooper said, the committee had discovered "an alarming increase in the amounts corporations" took for depreciation and depletion. Sometimes the allowances ran up to 48 per cent annually, he said.

Shortly after the world war, he said, corporations took $2,683,000,000, but this was allowed by the treasury to increase to more than four billion in 1931. In addition, he said, individuals were taking about $2,000,000,000 in depreciation and depletion allowances.

19 STATES PLAN TO ASK NEW TAX ON SALES

For Levy on Trade Between Them.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Enactment of federal legislation which would permit individual states to tax incoming interstate shipments of goods sold at retail was approved "in principle" by tax officials from nineteen states here today.

Formal action on a resolution calling on the congress to pass such legislation and asking President Roosevelt to give it his approval probably will be taken tomorrow, after the tax officials have formally organized.

Ten Have Sales Tax.

Ten of the states represented have a sales tax, but, according to the speakers, have been unable to collect on interstate shipments sold at retail.

Fred E. Stewart, a member of the state board of equalization in California, told the meeting his state was losing $8,000,000 a month because there was no law to enforce the collection of the state tax on interstate shipments.

M. Thomas Ward, assistant attorney general of Michigan, asserted "Michigan will deliver 19 votes in congress for a bill to permit the states to tax interstate retail shipments."

Some o fthe tax experts and attorneys doubted the constitutionality of such an act.

Expects Action By Court.

"I submit that the Supreme court would be forced by public opinion to adopt a rule that sales tax may be applied if uniformly levied by each state on interstate shipments," Ward declared.

A copy of a proposed law to be submitted to congress at the present session was submitted by Harry McMullan, director of collections and assessments for the North Carolina department of revenue, and formed the basis of discussion on that subject.

INCOME OF FARMERS IN '33 BILLION AND QUARTER ABOVE 1932

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(AP)—An increase of 1 billion 240 million dollars in the gross income of United States farmers last year over 1932 was reported today by the bureau of agricultural economics.

The increase was due to higher prices and to rental and benefit payments by the farm administration.

The total income from farm production last year was about 6 billion 94 million and farmers have received or will receive for their cooperation in government production control approximately 289 million dollars. This would make the total income 6 billion 383 million compared to 5 billion 143 million in 1932 and 6 billion 911 million in 1931.

The bureau said income from grains exclusive of benefit payments showed the greatest increase, eing about 86 per cent more than in 1932. Income from tobacco was 62 per cent greater; from cotton and cottonseed, 56 per cent.

ITALY DISSOLVES NAZIS IN TRIESTE; 310 BOMBS FOUND

One German, Two Austrians Held by Police.

TRIESTE, Italy, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Italian authorities ordered the dissolution tonight of the Trieste national Socialist [Nazi] organization, composed mostly of Austrians, following the discovery of hundreds of pistols and tear gas and smoke bombs and the arrest of one German and two Austrians.

They were seized at the dock of Trieste, a free port, following the detention of the foreigners by port police. An official announcement said the detentions were effected yesterday as the result of "suspicious actions" by the foreigners.

Discover 310 Bombs.

Two valises in their possession were found to contain 40 bombs, and subsequent investigations led to the discovery of 310 bombs at the dock, together with a large number of automatic pistols and a quantity of printed propaganda directed against the Austrian government.

The arrested men were turned over to Italian judicial authorities. They are Erardo Berger, a German, and Alfonso Kettiner and Walter Metzinger, Austrians.

The Nazi group in Trieste did not participate in Italian politics.

Announcement of the dissolution followed by a few hours the publication of an editorial attack on Berlin by the newspaper Giornale D'Italia of Rome. The possibility of a break over Austria between Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany was emphasized by the editorial.

Places Blame on Germany.

"There now is no longer any doubt," said the newspaper, probably closer to the government than any in Rome, "that the national Socialist movement [Nazi] which exploded in Austria in violent form is inspired by Germanic elements.

"Their headquarters are in fact Berlin and Munich. Their chief organizers are among the highest personalities in the German political world.

"Explosives and arms which have made victims in Austria have come in part from Germany. Combat squads which are operating and which still operate in Austrian territory for national Socialists have been in part maintained and educated in Germany."

The paper was replying to attacks from the German press directed against Italy as a result of the declaration by Rome, France, and Great Britain that Austrian independence must be preserved.

FOUND DEAD AT CROSSING.

John Arvison, 58 years old, 1307 South Fifth avenue, Maywood, was found dead, supposedly of a heart attack, at the Fifth avenue crossing of the elevated line yesterday morning. He had been acting as janitor of the building in which he lived.

Nazis Defy Dollfuss; Give Him Week to Make Peace

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 19.—Austria was stirred anew tonight by what practically amounts to a Nazi ultimatum. It was delivered by Theodor Habicht, "Nazi state inspector for Austria." The defi to Chancellor Dollfuss' government was broadcast over the radio from Munich, Germany.

Habicht announced that the Nazis have been instructed to abstain from criticizing or attacking the Dollfuss-Fascist Heimwehr régime "by word or deed" until Feb. 28. The Nazi leader added that this "armistice" will leave Dollfuss one week in which to reach a peaceful agreement with Germany.

Habicht's "Peace Offer."

"We ask Dollfuss whether, in view of the tragedy of the last week, he is prepared to seek with the Nazis the path to a better German future," Habicht said. "This is the only way to obtain Austria's internal peace and to restore Germany's friendship. May the blood of the last week not have flowed in vain."

The defeated Socialists, he added, are now rallying to the side of the Nazis, "who already possess a majority of the Austrian population."

During the "armistice" the Nazis will continue to recruit Socialists for their cause, Habicht concluded.

To observers, the exiled Nazi leader implied something dire would happen if Dollfuss did not take advantage of the offer. According to the government newspaper, the Reichspost, Chancellor Dollfuss will ignore the ultimatum.

Austria Makes New Protest.

The chancellor's minister of propaganda, Richard Steidle, protested over the radio again tonight against Germany mixing into Austrian affairs. Steidle said that Nazi propaganda was responsible for last week's brief, but bloody civil war. He said that Nazi agitation alarmed the Socialists to such an extent that they decided to risk all in an insurrection.

The hatred of the Socialists for the Dollfuss government was increased tonight when Kaloman Wallisch, Styrian Socialist leader, was sent to the gallows. Wallisch, former lieutenant of Bela Kun and mayor of Bruck-an-der-Mur, a coal town, was captured yesterday by police. He was seeking to escape with his wife in a taxicab, but was recognized by railroad men. Wallisch had fought against capture for four days in the woods of Styria. He was the eighth Socialist to hang.

Meanwhile a Vienna court martial sentenced Herr Krbec, a member of the Schutzbund [semi-military force] who led the Socialists in the fighting at the Goethehof, to death. A few hours later the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Leaders of the Schutzbund in the fighting at Karl Marxhof apartment house are to appear for trial tomorrow.

Bury Soldiers, Police Today.

More than 60 policemen and soldiers slain in the four day fighting will be buried tomorrow at Vienna's central cemetery.

The funeral procession will cross the Simmering district, the center of some of the heaviest fighting, and it is for this reason, and the possibility of a demonstration, that heavy guards have been called out.

The coffins will be grouped before the Vienna city hall tomorrow morning to emphasize that they gave their lives to take this stronghold from Socialism.

An open air funeral mass will be celebrated by Cardinal Theodor Innitzer. All members of the cabinet will attend. After the mass the funeral procession, headed by Vice Chancellor Emil Fey, who commanded these men when they met death last week, will move slowly from the city hall down the Ringstrasse to Schwarzenbergplatz, whence it will proceed to Simmering and on to the cemetery. Soldiers and police will line the route.

Wreck Shaft to Republic.

Symbolizing the new trend of events in Austria after last week's bloodshed, the Monument of the Republic was torn down tonight by the order of Maj. Fey and Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, commander of the heimwehr.

Martial law may be lifted in Vienna and other Austria provinces in the event that all goes well during tomorrow's mass funeral.

A movement was started today to clear out the Socialists from their apartment houses and replace them with families and tenants who support the national and municipal government.

Government inspired press articles declared that to the victors belong the spoils and that heimwehr supporters should be given the Socialist apartment houses with their cheap rents. It is expected there will be wholesale evictions.

Fire Foes from Offices.

These tenement houses were built during the last 14 years under the Socialist régime.

Coincidently the Dollfuss government continued following Premier Mussolini's formulas of ousting everyone who refuses to say "yes" in all sections of the government. Government orders will be issued which will force all officials who were elected on a combined Social Democrat and Christian Social ticket in the provincial elections to resign. The idea is to make Austria absolutely safe for Dollfuss and his heimwehr supporters of the patriotic front.

FIREMEN BATTLE NIGHT BLAZE IN AUTOMOBILE ROW

Eighteen fire fighting trucks jammed South Michigan avenue along Automobile Row at 20th street at 11 o'clock last evening as firemen fought a blaze on the second floor above the Price Automobile Products company at No. 2015. The apparatus was called out by a 2-11 alarm which was sounded when the flames spread to the roof of an adjoining building at 2017 South Michigan avenue, but they were quickly subdued. Chief Joseph Mackey of the First battalion asserted that the fire originated with spontaneous combustion among rags. He estimated the damage at $2,500.

CROWD WATCHES POLICE PREVENT SUICIDE IN LAKE

A north shore police patrolman, a wagon crew from the Rogers Park police station, and a party of coast guardsmen last evening prevented George Roeber, 27 years old, 2425 Greenview avenue, a CWA worker, from committing suicide in Lake Michigan between Columbia avenue and Pratt boulevard. A crowd watched the rescue.

Roeber in making preparations for his death informed a friend, John Jenkins, 1545 West Addams street, of his intention. Shortly after 5 o'clock Roeber walked out on the ice, followed by the protesting Jenkins. The two were seen by North Shore Patrolman Frank Michaels. The patrolman telephoned the Rogers Park police and then ran out on the ice. Roeber, meanwhile, had made his way to open water half a mile from shore and had thrown himself in.

With the aid of Jenkins Michaels managed to grab Roeber's collar. Meanwhile the police had notified a coast guard crew and had dispatched Policeman Bert Ellsworth, Elbert Anderson, and Otto Settler to the scene. Together they pulled Roeber out of the lake, but in doing so Policeman Settler fell in. He, too, was pulled out and taken to the Rogers Park hospital.

ORDERS GERMAN ARMY, NAVY TO WEAR NAZI BADGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—German soldiers and sailors henceforth will wear the Nazi party badge to symbolize the alliance of the army and navy with the Nazi state, under a decree issued today by President Paul von Hindenburg.

Silver badges will be worn by the soldiers and gold badges by the sailors. Both military and naval officers will wear gold badges. The badges will replace the cockades with state colors hitherto worn by soldiers on their caps.

Chancellor Hitler's autobiography, "My Battle," will be presented to newlyweds hereafter at the registry office for marriages in Dettingen, Württemberg. It has been customary heretofore to present a Bible to newly married couples after the church ceremony.

PIOMBINO, Italy, Feb. 19.—(AP)—A special train, loaded with sightseers returnings from a fiesta here, ran into another train yesterday, killing 16 persons and injuring 11, belated official dispatches revealed today. The trains met head-on near the village of Populonia.

WYNEKOOP TRIAL OPENS; IS HALTED BY A TOOTHACHE

Suffering Lawyer Granted Delay Until Today.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

The second trial of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, opened yesterday morning before Judge Harry B. Miller, but came to an abrupt if temporary halt after two hours because of a lawyer's toothache.

Sixteen veniremen had been examined for jury service up to 12:30 p. m., when Defense Attorney W. W. Smith told the court his absent associate, Milton D. Smith, had an ulcerated tooth and could not report after recess.

Trial Continues Today.

With W. W. Smith unwilling to proceed alone and with Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty acquiescing in a short delay, Judge Miller continued the proceedings until 10 o'clock this morning.

The defendant, who is 63 years old and whose collapse from repeated heart attacks brought a halt on Jan. 22 to her first trial before Judge Joseph B. David, appeared to have regained much strength during four weeks' quiet in the county jail. Warden David Moneypenny stopped to shake her hand as a matron pushed her invalid's chair out of her cell.

"How are you, warden?" she inquired heartily, lifting the veil of her stylish black hat to disclose a wide smile. The warden made the inquiry mutual.

Fears for Her Lawyer.

"O, I feel fine," she said. "I'm sure I have strength to go through with my troubles this time. But Mr. Smith—what of his tooth? Goodness! It would be just too dreadful if the ulceration got serious and we had to face another postponement.

"Of course we can't risk his health," she continued, animatedly. "But I do so want to get started and get it over with. Even now, we're going to be slowed up this week on account of the holiday on Washington's birthday. Well, we must make the best of it all."

Dr. Wynekoop sighed, the warden smiled a reassuring smile, and the wheel chair rolled on to a courtroom strangely depopulated by contrast with the crush of the last trial when friends of bailifs packed the court.

Shifted from her wheel chair to another by the matron, Dr. Alice tossed off her black caracul coat, surveyed the empty seats in feigned surprise and sat back alone and composed. Judge Miller had refused to permit her daughter, Dr. Catherine, to sit beside her to administer stimulants, as was done at the last trial.

Court to Furnish Doctor.

"If and when the time comes that she needs medical attention, the court will have a physician at hand," the judge decreed.

So Dr. Catherine and her brother, Walker Wynekoop, had to retire to chairs against the wall, where they sat chatting with the Rev. John Henry Hopkins, the retired minister in the Inverness cape and saucer shaped hat, Dr. Alice's spiritual adviser. He didn't miss a session of the first trial.

"Come over, canon, and speak to me," the defendant greeted the Rev. Mr. Hopkins. They chatted briefly until the bailif rapped his gavel and the judge mounted the bench.

"You are called to try case No. 71466, entitled the State of Illinois vs. Alice L. Wynekoop," Judge Miller instructed the veniremen. "The defendant, that lady sitting at my left, has been indicted for murder, but an indictment is no evidence of guilt."

Judge Instructs Veniremen.

Dr. Wynekoop smiled hopefully toward the jury box. The judge hastened on.

"If selected as jurors here, you must judge the case solely by the evidence and not by any experiences or notions of your own. You must draw no distinction between witnesses—policemen, laymen, men, or women. You presume the defendant to be innocent at the start of the case until the evidence moves you the other way, if it does, or until the end of the case. You will judge the facts; I, the law."

Judge Miller signaled the attorneys. Prosecutor Dougherty plunged into the familiar routine, roving from one to another of the first four veniremen with his questions:

"Have you any scruples against infliction of the death penalty in a proper case? Would the fact that the defendant is a woman 63 years old and of impaired health bias your verdict, one way or another? Would you, in your present state of mind, be able to give both the state and defense a fair and impartial trial?"

Question Stirs Defendant.

The drumming repetition of the first fatal questions seemed to get on Dr. Wynekoop's nerves a bit. She began coughing hoarsely into her cupped hands. Dr. Catherine and Walker also betrayed their fears, lines shadowing the daughter's fresh young face, while the son sat erect and thoughtful.

It was as willing a panel of veniremen as has lately been assembled in court, the questioning revealed. Only two of the sixteen questioned would admit aversion to electrocution that would bar them from service on the celebrated Wynekoop case. All but one young man attending night school had read the headlines, but only four had studied the details sufficiently to acquire an opinion requiring evidence to remove it.

Attorney Smith, it transpired, was quite willing to accept any veniremen who, having followed the police investigaton and first trial, still entertained doubts of Dr. Alice's guilt.

His tenedency in this respect was disclosed in questioning of Arthur J. Goodreau, 831 Monroe street, Evanston, an unmarried clerk for the Commonwealth Edison company. Mr. Goodreau had evinced a peeve that Prosecutor Dougherty had mispronounced his name.

Case "Still Pretty Cloudy."

Q.—[By Mr. Smith]: Have you ever discussed this case with any one? A.—Yes, with one of my sisters. I told her I thought it still seemed pretty cloudy.

Q.—Ah! You thought it pretty cloudy? Well, was there anything in the discussion with your sister that would cause you to give that opinion any further weight? A. — Nothing whatsoever.

Mr. Smith tendered the earnest young venireman to the prosecutor. Mr. Dougherty soon showed his determination to be rid of him without having to exercise a peremptory challenge.

Q.—You said you had a preconceived opinion about this case? A.—I said I thought it was still—

Q.—I didn't ask you that. Have you a preconceived opinion about this case? A.—My only opinion was that the case is still cloudy.

Q.—Well, then, you have a preconceived opinion, and I presume it would take evidence to remove it? A.—Well, yes, I suppose it would."

"We ask the witnesse be excused for cause," Mr. Dougherty addressed the court, saving a peremptory challenge. The witness was excused.

When court adjourned, Dougherty had exercised only two such challenges as against five for the defense. Both sides were tentatively agreed on one juror, Edvin T. Brownley, 35 years old, 2022 West 65th place, a batteryman for Armour & Co.

Attorney for Dillinger Building Alibi Defense

Defense Attorney Louis P. Piquett yesterday took the first step in building an alibi defense for John Dillinger, desperado and alleged killer, who is to go on trial March 12 in Crown Point for the murder of Policeman William P. O'Malley of East Chicago during a bank robbery. Attorney Piquett appeared in Crown Point with Meyer Booge, identified as "the owner of a tire shop in Roosevelt road," and said that Booge saw Dillinger in Florida on Jan. 14, the day after the bank robbery in East Chicago.

DAIRIES PLAN VITAMIN WAR ON CUT RATERS

New Type of "Sunlight" Milk Is Proposed.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chicago's organized milk industry is planning a new competitive attack upon those dairies selling milk and cream at cut rate prices, it was disclosed yesterday.

The plan is to improve the quality of the milk supplied by the members of the Chicago Milk council through adding to its vitamin content. The product would be called "vitamin D milk" in which vitamin D would be added by artificial "sunlight" irradiation under the process patented by Dr. Harry Steenbock of the University of Wisconsin.

Concern Already Taking Action.

One of the large milk concerns is already taking steps to irradiate its product and others are planning to follow suit. The new milk, it was said, would have anti-rachitic properties such as those possessed by cod liver oil. The Wisconsin Research foundation, to which Dr. Steenbock donated his patent, would collect a royalty on every bottle of milk sold under the process.

The new irradiation process would involve the installation of special machinery at considerable cost to treat the milk as it flows into bottles. At present Chicagoans who use certified milk, a specially prepared product, get vitamin D from the milk of cows which are given about 8 ounces of irradiated yeast daily.

Also Plan Central Plants.

Small dairies unable to finance the installation of the new machinery, would be placed at the same disadvantage as cut rate dealers in the plan of attack the large companies are considering. There is a plan under way, however, to provide central plants where small dairies might have their milk treated.

The question of regulations for the new type of milk is to be presented soon to the Chicago board of health, according to Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board. Physicians and health authorities interviewed yesterday differed in their views of the specially treated milk. Some said that pure milk cannot be improved upon, while others held that the addition of vitamin D would benefit children.

Drives at Code Violators.

Frank C. Baker, administrator of the federal milk code for the Chicago area, returned yesterday from Washington with additional assistants and announced that he would act to take violators of the federal milk license into court this week. He said 14 federal agents were investigating reports of violations in the Chicago area.

Italians Arrive in Buenos Aires to Scale Andean Peak

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Forty Italian Apline climbers arrived today on a trip to the Andes, where they will attempt to scale Mount Aconcagua, 23,834 feet high and usually regarded as the loftiest peak in the western hemisphere. Aconcagua, a defunct volcano, is located in the southern Andes between the borders of Chile and Argentina.

BONUS BILL BACKERS GET 14 MORE NAMES IN BATTLE FOR VOTE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Fourteen additional names were signed to the petition to discharge the ways and means committee from further consideration of the Patman bonus bill today, making a total of 127 of the 145 signatures necessary to force a vote on the question in the house.

House leaders, conceding that enough signatures would be secured by the bonus advocates, did not believe, however, that the house would vote to take the bill from the committee and thus bring it up for further consideration and a vote on its final passage.

They held that the bonus supporters would secure the required eighteen signatures principally because of the efforts being made to win as many veterans' votes as possible in the fall elections.

24 SERGEANTS PROMOTED AS RESULT OF SUIT

Twenty-four police sergeants were promoted to the rank of lieutenants yesterday after the civil service commission had reinstated the police promotion eligibility list of April 10, 1929. The eligibility list, which was canceled March 16, 1933, was reinstated on order of Judge Daniel P. Trude after the 24 sergeants had brought mandamus action in the Circuit court. The sergeants promoted are:

Henry H. Hanson	John J. McGarvey
Thomas Breen	Archie F. Kane
William H. Reed	Herbert H. Burns
Richard J. Kearns	Michael P. Naughton
Anthony T. McDonough	George E. McCormick
James Byrne	Harry A. Fulmer
Ralph A. Weaver	Robert J. Sullivan
Frank J. Yore	Patrick J. O'Shea
John J. Lennon	William B. Bergan
William B. McCann	Stephen O'Meara
James P.Mulcahy	John C. McSween
James W. McCarthy	Wallace J. Monroe

Contempt of court citations against members of the civil service commission, which were entered when the commission failed to follow the court's orders, were dismissed by Judge Trude when he learned the list had been reinstated. Charges that political influence had influenced the appointments on the list were made, but not proved, at the hearing.

Tall and Nervous Robber Holds Up Loop Cafeteria

A robber entered the Harmony cafeteria at 214 South State street yesterday afternoon and, after threatening the cashier, Miss Jennie M. Cashen, 720 Buckingham place, escaped with $200 from the register. Miss Cashen described the robber as tall and "quite nervous." He did not molest eight or ten persons who were eating in the restaurant.

GROUP IN HOUSE ATTACKS DAIRY CONTROL PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Charging the AAA with "inaction, uncertainty, and vacillation," a strong congressional group today declared open war on the milk control policies of the Federal Farm Adjustment administration.

As chairman of a newly formed committee of congressmen from the principal dairy regions, Representative Howard W. Smith [Dem., Va.] announced that active steps are under way in the house to force the AAA into the adoption of "appropriate" measures looking to the relief of the dairy farmer.

Members of his committee, according to Representative Smith, are vigorously opposed to "the present attempt to reduce prices which are now being received by producers who supply fluid milk and cream to the urban markets."

"This attempt," he explained, "is in the form of applying a new fangled formula which producer representatives from coast to coast have asserted to be impractical and objectionable and below both cost of production and pre-war parity."

Mr. Smith, likewise, declared that the group which he represents is vehemently critical of the recent blanket cancellation of all marketing agreements drawn up by the AAA and in force in various milk sheds throughout the country.

"We were astounded," he said, "that after the AAA had worked for more than six months holding hearings and many consultations with representatives of the various milk sheds, all marketing agreements were abruptly canceled and producer representatives were notified that they would have to do the entire job over again upon an entirely different plan."

BROWN APPEARS AT QUIZ TO DENY AIR MAIL FRAUD

Asserts All Charges Are Unfounded.

Morgan and the midget were the twin bill before the stock exchange committee had a crowd appeared in such numbers as those that craned and squirmed to get a glimpse of Mr. Brown's new brown suit, purplish blue tie and matching sox, and platinum rimmed spectacles.

His hair appeared a bit grayer, his squarish face a bit sallower than during the days when he used to preside over the cook stove at gay "kitchen cabinet" meetings.

Former Assistants with Him.

With the former postmaster general were his former assistants, Arch Coleman, first assistant, and W. Irving Glover, second assistant, in charge of air mail, and professional Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., Ohio], who negotiated the hearing for his influential constituents. The senator almost clucked as he ushered in his charge; his black eyeglass ribbon dangled grandly; his pursed lips, whenever Mr. Brown made a point, curved into a smile as if about to say, "See, didn't I tell you?"

Across the committee table from the witness chair Chairman Black puffed reflectively at a burned-down cigar. Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah], stayed through the picture taking, then ducked. At the chairman's left sat Senator McCarran, wavy as to silver gray hair, fattish as to jowl, who uses his first name of Pat to win Nevada's considerable body of Irish voters.

Off to one side were the two Republican committeemen, Austin, florid, conscious of his reputation as one of Vermont's most prominent lawyers and forensic lights; White, vaguely but distinctly unhappy at this investigation into his hobby of ocean mail.

In the seats reserved for favored guests, just behind the press tables, a dumpy lady whispered an explanation: "I wanted to bring my knitting, but you know how Mrs. Roosevelt always knits and how people are always mistaking people——." It ended in a titter.

Black Opens Proceedings.

Then Chairman Black was starting the proceedings. He reminded Mr. Brown of the letter he had written Senator Fess. He didn't come right out and recall how Mr. Brown had said any evidence he gave before the committee might be used "in any court in the land." But Mr. Brown got the idea.

"I am ready to answer anything in the world pertinent to the inquiry," he declared, and smiled ever so slightly.

With another prepared statement, the former cabinet officer began his testimony.

Out of 20 ocean mail contracts let during his administration, he said, all had been awarded on the basis of open competitive bidding, and all but one had been given to the lowest bidder, the sole exception being in the case of a contract which congress, by resolution, had ordered awarded to the high bidder.

Out of 34 air mail contracts in all let by the postoffice department, only three had been let during his term in office, the Brown statement said. One of these was prior to, and the other two were subsequent to, the passage of the McNary-Watres act.

"In the letting of these contracts every requirement of law was observed and no evidence whatever of collusion between the bidders thereon or the holders of any other air mail contracts appeared or was ever suggested by any one," said Mr. Brown.

He defended the meetings to which many references have been made and to which such evil results have been imputed.

"No suggestion of dividing air mail operations among the companies represented at these meetings was ever made or contemplated," the statement declared, "and no agreement or understanding with respect to bidding on air mail contracts or refraining to bid on air mail contracts by any of the operators present was made at either of those meetings or at any other time."

Says Congress Influenced Action.

Extensions and consolidations of existing air routes, made under the McNary-Watres act, were often undertaken at the behest of members of congress, Mr. Brown reminded the senators. All, he said, were undertaken in the public interest. He had used pressure and had exerted "every proper influence" upon air lines in order to make them increase their passenger and express business, thus lightening their need for government help.

As a result of such a policy, he said, the passenger and express revenues of the air mail operators have increased from practically zero in 1929 to some ten million dollars a year at the end of 1933.

"At the same time," said Mr. Brown, "the compensation paid to the air mail carriers by the postoffice department was reduced by successive steps from $1.09 per mile in 1929 to 42 cents per mile at the end of my administration."

Not Interested in Any Lines.

Lastly he disposed of charges that he had awarded contracts to companies in which he owned stock. He held stock in International Mercantile Marine, the Pennroad corporation, and the Pennsylvania railroad, it was true, Mr. Brown admitted. But to none of them had a contract gone during his administration, although by various stock transfers and his ownership of 225 shares of Pennsylvania railroad stock it might have been possible for him to have secured an interest equivalent to one-third of a share in Trancontinental and Western Air.

Under the questioning of Senator Black the witness told of his joint stock account with Bagley from early in 1928 to Oct. 27 or 28, 1929. The first year the account showed a little profit.

"And when did Bagley finally pay you off?" inquired the senator.

"There was nothing to pay; I did the paying," answered Mr. Brown.

Willed Brown $50,000.

It was Bagley whose death caused somewhat of a stir when it was discovered he had left Mr. Brown $50,000 and made him an executor. One of the occupations of the former friend of the postmaster general, it appeared from Mr. Brown's testimony, was to buy up sites that the postoffice department might later take over.

That was a blow—leaving aside the fact that it didn't concern air mail—that Mr. Brown couldn't quite duck.

Another was launched by Senator Black when he asked about Bagley and the patent flooring. Mr. Brown went through a long explanation of how the flooring had been thoroughly tested, how it had stood up. He denied that he had "ordered" its use.

Discuss Brown's Former Testimony.

There was a lengthy give and take concerning Mr. Brown's testimony as postmaster general before a congressional committee considering the McNary-Watres act. He had advocated competitive bidding as a fundamental principle, said Mr. Brown, but had thought certain extensions of air routes might better be arranged through negotiation.

"The only fair thing to me," said the witness with his first show of asperity, "is to read from the record and not just part of it, but all I said. If you read it all you'll find I said I believed in competitive bidding. I favored dealing directly as we deal with the railroads. Congressman Kelly [opponent of the Brown theory] wanted limited competitive bidding, for which I have little respect. I call it 'bogus' competitive bidding."

The Night Flying Issue.

During the Brown administration experience in night flying was made a requisite on the part of bidders. The chairman sought to show that this had been the result of influence brought by William P. MacCracken Jr., attorney for air mail operators, who was recently found in contempt by the senate, and whose 10 day jail sentence is now on appeal.

"MacCracken talked with me about it," said Mr. Brown. "But I was the first to suggest that it ought to be made one of the specifications. We were about to order air mail flyers to carry passengers. No passengers had ever been flown over the Alleghenies. They called Bellefonte the aviators' graveyard.

"And here I was about to force the companies to carry passengers every foot of the way from coast to coast. I believe the regulation was a very proper one to safeguard the lives of those people flying in those pioneering operations. We wanted to make sure we didn't start our operations with a major crash which would have wrecked them right at the beginning.

"There were plenty of companies flying around the map that had no night flying—and I wouldn't have let a contract to one of them had they been the only bidder."

HOOVER SENDS WIRE TO CHEER BROWN IN SENATE'S AIR INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Senator Fess [Rep., O.] said tonight that Walter F. Brown, former postmaster general who testified today before the senate air mail investigating committee, had received a telegram of cheer from former President Hoover. The Ohio senator, who sat beside Brown throughout today's hearing, said he did not remember the exact words of the message but that its import was to advise Brown not to be discouraged.

COURTNEY MOVES TO BREAK STRIKE AND SMASH T-N-T

5,000 Coal Workers Out; Police on Guard.

the attack followed. The trio denied Tomasevich's charges.

The Chicago Coal Merchants' association, which claims to represent more than 75 per cent of the delivered coal tonnage in Chicago, declared in a formal statement that there is no dispute over hours and wages, and individual members supported Mr. Courtney's theory of the strike. The formal statement denounced the hoodlum domination of the T-N-T and said that the same element apparently controled the striking unions.

Code Effective Monday.

The merchants declared that the national coal code, which goes into effect next Monday, covers the matter of hours and wages and that there can be no controversy for this reason.

Reese denied the association's statement regarding the dispute, stating that the merchants had refused to hear the unions' demands. He cited the fact that the code merely provides minimum wages. The teamsters are now getting $7.50 for ten hours work and they are asking $8 for eight hours. The hikers and yardmen are working on a piece basis—some for as little as 80 cents a day, according to Reese—and they want a straight $5 daily wage. The code provides for a minimum of 50 cents an hour, regardless of the method of calculation, and an eight hour day and forty hour week for the four summer months. A forty-eight hour week during the remaining eight months is provided, but stipulates that time and a half shall be paid for each hour in excess of eight. Excess pay now begins at ten hours.

Consumers Pay Increase.

Joseph J. Heritage, president of the Chicago Associated Coal Yard Owners, who said he was advised by the state's attorney not to deal with the striking unions, said that the conditions asked by the unions do not conform with the code and that, if adopted, would cause an increase of 75 cents a ton, or 10 per cent, in the cost of coal to consumers.

Mr. Heritage said he did not believe the strike would last very long.

The strike will spread to the western suburbs this morning as the result of a strike vote taken last night by members of the Teamsters and Chauffeurs' union, 782, an outlaw outfit. They met in the union hall at 503 Main street, Maywood. It was agreed to notify all employers that the men would not report for work this morning. This union, whose affairs have been marked by murders and shootings, covers a territory extending from Cicero avenue in Chicago to Elgin. It has about 800 members.

AIR LINE PRESIDENT SAYS ALL EMPLOYES WILL BE FURLOUGHED

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Richard W. Robbins, president of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., announced tonight the company's entire personnel would be furloughed Feb. 28 as result of the government's cancellation of its air mail contracts.

Robbins announced curtailed time table for the carrying of passengers and express, effective tomorrow.

"Since incorporation, the company has lost $1,270,973, and the stockholders of the companies that own it have never received a cent in dividends," Robbins said in his statement to personnel.

"With the loss of the mail contract, from which it derived a substantial portion of its revenue, employes will understand that the enforced layoffs and reductions in wages and salaries are due to causes beyond the company's control."

50% CUT FACES CITY PAY ROLL OF CLEVELAND

Cleveland, O., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Mayor Harry L. Davis announced tonight he will order a 50 per cent cut in the city pay roll if the state legislature, which reconvenes March 6, definitly refuses to give the city of Cleveland any financial relief.

"If the senate kills the bond refunder bill, which appears likely, there will be nothing left to do but cut every department in half," the mayor said. "Since the bill is now pending in the senate I think it would be wise to wait until the legislature reconvenes and we find out whether the senate will give us any relief. But our hopes are not very bright."

The mayor added that the city will meet its Jan. 31 pay roll tomorrow with 90 per cent scrip and 10 per cent cash.

Ship in Distress; Coast Guard Speeds to Rescue

HONOLULU, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Itasca left here under forced draft tonight to aid the freighter Horace X. Baxter, adrift and leaking with fuel exhausted, about 800 miles northeast of Honolulu. The ship's plight was made known in a wireless message to the Grace Brothers' agent here. With a million feet of lumber aboard the Horace X. Baxter is bound out of Seattle for Honolulu. It will take the Itasca nearly three days to reach the position of the distressed ship.

SWITCHMAN GETS $33,750 FOR LOSS OF LEG IN YARDS

An out of court settlement of $33,750, said to be the largest made in a personal injury suit in Cook county, was made yesterday with Charles F. Guhl, 38 years old, of Terre Haute, in his suit against the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad. Attorney William Wallace McCallum, representing Guhl, announced that a settlement had been reached as selection of a jury was started in the court of Judge Frank H. Hayes of Morris, who is sitting in the Superior court. Guhl, a switchman, lost his left leg Sept. 6, 1933, when two freight cars collided and knocked him to the ground in the Terre Haute yards. He sued in Illinois, the legal residence of the railroad corporation. Guhl is a war veteran and the father of two children.

CHARGE AIR MAIL WIRE EXPLOITED COL. LINDBERGH

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Federal Bar Association of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut today made public a resolution condemning Charles A. Lindbergh's airmail protest to the President along with "the motives behind such message."

The resolution accuses certain aviation interests of exploiting Lindbergh "for publicity purposes in an undignified, disrespectful, absurd, and presumptuous attempt to discredit the President of the United States, and to turn public opinion against the President, the postmaster general, and cause of the cancellation of air mail contracts."

Passenger Pilot, Injured in Kentucky Crash, Dies

Danville, Ky., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Joe J. Waldron, 30 years old, of Cincinnati, American Airways pilot who crashed Monday at Bryantsville, died today. Waldron's three passengers were hurt, but not critically.

Evanston Acts to Merge Its 3 School Districts

A move to consolidate the three school districts in Evanston was started by the Evanston city council last night. The council adopted a resolution authorizing Mayor Charles Bartlett to appoint a committee to discuss the proposition with the school boards. Evanston's grade schools are in two districts, District 75 and District 76. The high school is in a district by itself. Board members are elected by the people.

ARMY AIR CORPS FLYING MAIL IN BITTER WEATHER

First Chicago Ship Hops for the West.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

The first Army Air Corps plane to carry the air mail from Chicago airport roared away toward Omaha and the Pacific coast at 7:03 last evening in the face of a biting cold wind and sub-zero temperatures in the upper air. Similar inaugural flights were being made in the south and west during the evening, while a blanket of fog kept army and commercial planes land bound at Newark airport, New York.

The departure of the first army mail plane at Chicago airport was a colorful spectacle as the pilot, Lieut. Herman A. Schmid, taxied the Curtiss A-12 attack plane [Cyclone motor] up to the operations office of the army mail service and shook hands with Lieut. Col. Horace M. Hickam, zone commander.

Good Luck to Pilot.

"Here's wishing you luck, son," Col. Hickam said, as he slapped the young airman encouragingly on the back.

"I'll get the mail through all right, Colonel," Lieut. Schmid replied. He climbed into his cockpit, smiled as photographers' flashlights boomed, waved into the glare of news reel lamps, and then whirled his plane and took off in a roar. He carried sixteen sacks containing 200 pounds of mail.

Lieut. Schmid landed at Omaha at 10:45 p. m., only 15 minutes behind the schedule despite unfavorable flying conditions. At Omaha the plane was to be refueled and flown on by another pilot to Cheyenne.

An hour and a half later Lieut. Walter K. Burgess took off in a Douglas BT observation plane [Wasp motor] for Kansas City, on the first leg of the mail flight to Dallas, Tex. His departure was almost unnoticed by the few who remained on the wind-swept runways of the airport. Lieut. Burgess carried 71 pounds of mail. In his wake followed a Boeing transport plane of United Air Lines, carrying the last load of air mail taken from the airport by a commercial operator. It was bound for Cleveland.

Another Goes to Cleveland.

Lieut. George F. McGuire took off at 9 p. m. in a Curtiss O-39 biplane [Conqueror motor] for Cleveland, with 384 pounds of mail. By this time the mail departures had lapsed into a routine consisting of piling the mail sacks into the rear open cockpit of the army biplanes, the pilot signing a receipt for the mail and taking off.

Lieut. Beirne Lay left the airport at 11:45 in a Douglas O-38 biplane [Wasp motor] with a load of mail for Nashville, Tenn. There another pilot was to take the ship on to Jacksonville.

Lieut. W. B. Hooten, 3d attack group, in a Curtiss attack plane [Cyclone motor] left the airport at 4 a. m. today for Omaha. He carried 450 pounds of mail.

The first eastbound army air mail plane to arrived in Chicago landed at the airport at 1:50 a. m. today. It left Omaha with Lieut. Carl R. Storrie at the controls at 10:40 o'clock last night, 25 minutes late, and carried 286 pounds of mail taken from an eastbound commercial plane. It was due here at 2:05 a. m. Lieut. Storrie in his Curtiss attack plane [Cyclone motor] thus cut 40 minutes from the scheduled flying time.

Col. Hickam had prepared for a rush of air mail on the initial flights of the air corps out of Chicago, and had a half dozen extra planes and pilots held in readiness until word came from Newark airport that fog was holding all planes in the east.

Heavy Fog in East.

"We expected stamp collectors to load us down with 'first covers'," Col. Hickam said. "Also, we had no idea what the mail volume would be, since we are operating only this one transcontinental route for the present. A letter sent air mail from Key West, Fla., to Los Angeles, will have to fly through Chicago."

According to schedule, the first army air mail flight in the United States was to have started from Newark airport at 3:35 p. m. yesterday, but it was canceled a half hour before departure time when fog rolled in from the Alleghenies and made flying impossible. The first plane was to fly to Miami. Last night at 9:30 a plane was scheduled to take off for Chicago, but it, too, was canceled because of bad flying weather.

The sun was shining in Kansas City when the first army mail plane to take off left the ground at 3:55 p. m. en route to St. Louis and New York. The plane was piloted by Lieut. Thomas L. Mosley. He carried only 39 pounds of mail in the fast Curtiss attack plane [Cyclone motor].

Plane Leaves Miami.

At Miami, an army biplane carrying 321 pounds of mail with Lieut. W. M. Reid at the controls took off at 7:49 p. m. [E. S. T.] for New York via Jacksonville, Richmond and Washington.

Another army mail plane, flying from Atlanta, Ga., to Richmond to intercept the plane from Miami and add more mail to its load for New York, was damaged in landing at Greenville, S. C. The pilot, Lieut. E. T. Gorman, was unhurt. The mail was sent by train to Charlotte, N. C., where another plane was waiting to carry it on to Richmond.

At Salt Lake City the first mail to be flown by the army left the ground at 9:11 p. m. (Chicago time) for Los Angeles in a bomber flown by Lieut. R. E. Griggs. Flying weather between Salt Lake City and Cheyenne, on the transcontinental route, was reported bad. Commercial planes bound east were held at Salt Lake City. Lieut. John C. Crosthwaite, in a heavy bomber plane, after battling in vain to get "over the hump" of the Sierra Nevadas, returned to the airport at Oakland, Cal.

Forced Down by Fog.

Lieut. S. W. Shepherd, flying from Boston to Newark airport in an empty plane with orders to fly mail back to Boston today, was forced down near Stratford, Conn., by fog. Fog also canceled army air mail departure scheduled from Los Angeles, where two army planes not connected with the air mail service were forced down after trying to penetrate the low hanging blanket.

At the headquarters of the army air mail service in the war department in Washington officers who have been working long hours during the last week were disappointed that bad weather did not allow the entire army mail operations to go into effect as planned. They said their organization had been perfected.

Postoffice officials in Washington viewed the situation philosophically. They said they had requested the army authorities to exercise every precaution in flying the routes assigned to them and not to attempt the impossible. Representative McSwain [Dem., S. C.], chairman of the house military affairs committee, said that if the air corps exercises caution it will make an excellent record.

Accidents First Concern.

"The accident rate during the air corps operations rather than the percentage of trips completed on the dot, during the first stages, will be the primary concern of the public," he said.

Chicago is the headquarters of the central zone of the army air mail network, under command of Col. Hickam. In this zone are the services between Chicago and Cheyenne, Chicago and Dallas, St. Louis and Kansas City, and Memphis and Fort Worth.

Showboat Is Moved from the Chicago River

The showboat Dixiana, ordered out of the river by city officials, as it was towed under the Clark street bridge yesterday on trip to Diversey avenue on north branch. Removal was delayed until yesterday by the ice in the river. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Drama on the Move

The showboat Dixiana was pushed away from its berth at Dearborn street yesterday by two tugboats which guided it up the north branch of the Chicago river to a private docking place, adjacent to the Diversey parkway bridge. On deck to direct the voyage was Master Jacob Weller, vice president of the company which built the Dixiana, who lives aboard in bachelor's quarters.

Meanwhile before Judge William E. Helander in the Municipal License court the city dismissed charges of failure to have a license allowing the boat to dock downtown, and of having interfered with the dumping of snow in the river. Despite the new privately owned docking place, the syndicate owning the Dixiana must still obtain city permits for the operation of the floating theater and cafe.

The showboat was towed into the Chicago river last October. A series of revivals of old fashioned melodramas is planned, beginning with "No Mother to Guide Her."

VOTE APPROVAL OF SULLIVAN AND HOLLY AS JUDGES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The senate judiciary committee today voted approval of the nominations of Philip L. Sullivan, former Cook county Circuit judge, and Attorney William H. Holly of Chicago to fill vacancies in this federal district court for northern Illinois. The two were named by President Roosevelt last November.

Their selection spells a divided victory for the regular Democracy and the progressive wing of the New Deal.

Judge Sullivan is a regular Democrat and has proved a loyal supporter of J. Hamilton Lewis, senior senator from Illinois. Attorney Holly, though listed as a Democrat, has been more noted for his liberal ideas. He is a former law partner of Clarence Darrow. Mr. Holly is said to be the choice of Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, Progressive Republican, though he also received Senator Lewis' approval after the senator rejected several other candidates proposed by the senate radical group.

City Employes Get Pay for 2 Weeks in November

Pay checks totaling $1,900,000 for the last two weeks of November were being distributed yesterday to all city employes. City Controler Upham said that the pay day was made possible by collection of delinquent taxes, license fees, and the sale of a small quantity of tax warrants.

START MAILING TAX BILLS TO COUNTY TOWNS

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $268,979, making a total of $106,956,568 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Feb. 19.	$ 23,869	$ 34,931
Uncollected	15,210,331	40,746,460
	1930.	1931.
Feb. 19.	$ 67,086	$ 143,084
Uncollected	64,551,231	62,048,833

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $15,831.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday began mailing out the 1932 tax bills to the thirty Cook county townships outside Chicago. At the same time Assessor J. L. Jacobs announced that four branch offices have been opened where taxpayers may file their 1933 personal property schedules.

The offices are at 1111 Farwell avenue and 2500 Lunt avenue for Rogers Park taxpayers; at the Ridge Park fieldhouse, 96th street and Longwood drive, for those residents of Calumet and Worth townships within the city limits, and at the Norwood Park fieldhouse, 5801 Natoma avenue, for residents of Norwood Park, Maine, Niles and Leyden townships within the city.

COMPLETE QUIZ OF J. L. JACOBS ON '31 ASSESSMENTS

Attorneys for the Chicago Real Estate board yesterday completed their cross-examination of Assessor J. L. Jacobs in the hearing before County Judge Jarecki on the board's petition asking a 15 per cent reduction on the 1931 real estate assessments of the 438,000 homes and small flat buildings in the county.

Robert Holt and Daniel S. Wentworth, counsel for the board, alleged that the assessment was fraudulent and discriminatory against the small property owners. Mr. Jacobs denied these charges and explained the factors, such as heating equipment and other furnishings, which were taken into account in arriving at the assessed valuations.

ISLAND AIRPORT PLAN IS HEARD BY PWA BOARD

City Asks $8,500,000 Downtown Project.

Plans for an island airport which would make possible the delivery of passengers and mail near the loop were laid before the state advisory board of the Public Works administration yesterday.

John Wentworth, chairman of the airport committee of the Chicago plan commission, presented the city's application in detail, with an elaborate collection of specifications, charts, maps, and letters of commendation. The project has the support of the commerce, postoffice, war, and navy departments of the federal government as well as private air lines.

Will Cost $8,500,000.

The proposed site of the airport island is 1,600 feet east of Northerly Island, which would be between Roosevelt and Cermak roads. The cost of the entire project is estimated at $8,500,000.

The project would be self-liquidating, paying for itself in forty years, according to estimates of passenger travel supplied by the department of commerce. Operation would be similar to that of toll bridges, a charge of 50 cents being made for each incoming and outgoing passenger. The port is designed solely for passengers and mail. No freight would be handled.

Mr. Wentworth declared the construction would furnish continuous work for 4,200 men for eighteen months, more than two-thirds of them directly. He was assisted in the presentation by Hugh E. Young, chief engineer of the plan commission, Alfred Shaw, member of the commission's airport committee, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman.

A Great Attraction.

The toll phase of the plan brought a query from Carter H. Harrison, chairman of the advisory board.

"This doesn't mean that free access would be denied the public," he inquired. Assured that it did not, Mr. Harrison asserted the airport would be one of Chicago's greatest attractions, like a park.

"But this is no park," broke in F. J. Stern, engineer for the board in the absence of Joshua D'Esposito.

"No," retorted Mr. Harrison, "not as a place to play ball, but to see airplanes in action. This would make it a decided advantage in pleasure for the people as well as for the business of Chicago."

Aid to Mail Delivery.

"We have the word of the department of commerce that this would do more for aviation than any one thing that could be done in the next year or two," said Mr. Wentworth. "The government wants the mail delivered nearer the postoffice, and if the government wants to give private companies a break after canceling the mail contracts, here is the chance.

Charles M. Moderwell, regional director of the PWA, pointed out that it takes passengers longer to reach the municipal airport than flying time to Cleveland, Detroit, or St. Louis.

This was expected to be the last project of importance to be passed on by the advisory board before it goes out of existence Feb. 28. The board has 150 more proposals to be considered, according to Mr. D'Esposito, who will continue as state engineer. His staff also will be retained, since that branch of work "has scarcely begun." Only ten of 85 projects approved by the board are under construction, he said. Approvals are expected to total 100, with expenditure of $70,000,000 involved.

SOVIET MAY BUY 2½ MILLIONS OF WRIGHT MOTORS

Vaughn Tells House of Negotiations.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The soviet government, it was learned today, is now conducting negotiations with the Wright Aeronautical company for the purchase of some four hundred high powered airplane engines at an aggregate cost of approximately 2½ million dollars.

Testifying before the house naval affairs subcommittee in connection with alleged exorbitant profits on army and navy contracts, Guy W. Vaughan, president of the Wright company, declared that already some $400,000 worth of plane engines have been ordered by the Russian government, of which $200,000 worth have been delivered.

In the last five years, he said, Russia has been his company's best foreign customer for plane and marine motors, having taken about 3 million dollars worth during that period.

Orders Tax Data Supplied.

Meanwhile President Roosevelt issued an executive order directing the bureau of internal revenue to furnish the naval affairs committee with the income tax returns filed since 1921 by private aircraft and engine companies doing business with the navy department.

The President's order, issued at the request of the committee, included holding companies and other affiliates of the plane and motor builders.

Mr. Vaughan's disclosure that the government of soviets is preparing to purchase a new 2½ million dollars worth of the famous "Wright Whirlwind" plane motors was made to newspaper men following the committee session. Whether other engine companies have similar negotiations under way with Russia, or whether large contracts for American planes are being sought by the soviets, was not ascertained.

Sharp Drop in Profit.

The Wright company executive denied during his testimony before the committee that the profits realized on naval work were exorbitant. He presented figures showing that since 1928, Wright has realized an average net profit of slightly more than 7 per cent on the engines constructed for the navy department.

In 1928, he said, the company made a profit of 44.1 per cent under navy contracts; in 1929, the profit was 30.6 per cent. But in 1930, it suffered a loss of 28.1 per cent, and in 1931 the profit amounted to only one-fourth of 1 per cent. In 1932, the profit was 1.6 per cent, and last year it jumped slightly to 9.3 per cent.

Testimony by naval officers before the committee during the last fortnight has indicated that the Wright company's profits have been much smaller than those of its principal competitor, the Pratt Whitney Aeronautical company. Only the efforts of the navy to keep two airplane motor manufacturers in the field, it was said, have kept the Wright company alive in competition with Pratt Whitney.

Navy Gets Price Edge.

In this connection, Mr. Vaughn told the committee that the navy's course in permitting Pratt Whitney a large profit in order to keep the right company in business was a good thing because the greater volume of motor manufacturing done the cheaper would be the price of the engines.

Mr. Vaughn denied that the Wright company has charged more for naval engines than for similar motors sold to commercial concerns. On the contrary, he said, the price of a direct drive "cyclone" engine supercharged to 700 horsepower, is $5,994 to the navy, as compared with a list price of $6,799. The same type motor is sold to foreign governments for $5,895 and $6,705, plus a 10 per cent export charge, he said.

LINER OF AIR BREAKS RECORD IN CROSSING U. S.

Takes 13 Hrs. 4 Min. with Passengers, Mail.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Shattering all records for commercial air planes and shrinking the air transport map of the United States by about six hours, a Douglas monoplane of Transcontinental and Western Air hurtled out of a leaden sky and landed at 1:20 p. m. at Newark, N. J., today, 13 hours 4 minutes 20 seconds out of Los Angeles.

The "City of Los Angeles" brought the last load of transcontinental air mail before the army takes over the mails.

Carries Passengers, Too.

The all metal liner, carrying a load which comprised twelve, and part of the way fourteen, persons, several hundred pounds of mail, air express and baggage, averaged 203 miles an hour elapsed time from coast to coast.

It made stops at Albuquerque, N. M., Kansas City, Mo., and Columbus, O. Its average speed in the air was better than 210 miles an hour. Best previous time, in a racing plane, was 10 hours 5½ minutes. Best previous transport time was 19 hours.

Official at Controls.

Jack Frye, vice president of T. & W. A. in charge of operations, was at the controls of the plane when it took off from Grand Central airport, Glendale, Cal., at 8:56 p. m. Pacific coast time. He flew it to Columbus, O. There D. W. [Tommy] Tomlinson, assistant to President Richard W. Robbins and chief test pilot on the line, took over.

Occasionally taking over the controls were Capt. Edward Rickenbacker, H. Gay [Andy] Andrews, veteran pilot; L. G. Fritz, and Paul Richter, eastern and western divisional superintendents.

NEWSPAPER CODE GUARDS FREEDOM OF PRESS IDEAL

Provides for Work Week of Forty Hours.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The code of fair competition for daily newspapers, signed by President Roosevelt last Saturday, to be effective Feb. 27, and made public today, safeguards the freedom of the press and includes a child labor provision substantially the same as that requested by the publishers.

It also provides for a standard maximum 40 hour week for clerical and mechanical employés with some exceptions, and sets up a newspaper industrial board to deal with certain labor controversies and disputes under the code.

In a letter to Gen. Johnson, recovery administrator, the President said he was not satisfied with the child labor provisions, and asked for a special report and recommendation on that subject in 60 days.

Asks Five Day Week.

At the same time he requested that publishers of newspapers with a circulation of 75,000 or more in cities of 750,000 or more instal a five day, forty hour week for "their staff of reporters and writers" in order to increase employment. He directed that a report on the five day week be made to him in sixty days. Gen. Johnson, who will make the study, said he understood this request applied to all writers, meaning desk men, headline writers, and editorial writers.

The conditions attached to the signing of the code by the President, as embodied in the executive order of approval, were:

"1. The determination of hours and wages for news department workers shall be made not later than sixty days hence.

"The government members of the code authority shall give particular attention to the provisions authorizing minors to deliver and sell newspapers and shall report to the President not later than sixty days hence."

President's View of Issue.

The President held that the clause on liberty of the press was "pure surplusage." He declared that nobody assenting to a code waived any constitutional rights and added that "the recitation of the freedom of the press clause in the code has no more place than would the recitation of the whole constitution or the Ten Commandments."

The President added:

"The freedom guaranteed by the constitution is freedom of expression and that will be scrupulously respected—but it is not freedom to work children or do business in a fire trap or violate the laws against obscenity, libel and lewdness."

The "freedom of the press" provision is Article 7 and states:

"Those submitting this code recognize that pursuant to section 10 [B] of the act the President may, from time to time, cancel or modify any order approving this code, but in submitting or subscribing to this code the publishers do not thereby consent to any modification thereof, except as each may thereto subsequently agree, nor so they thereby waive any constitutional rights, or consent to the imposition of any requirements that might restrict or interfere with the constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press."

Child Labor Provisions.

The child labor provisions which were attacked by social welfare workers and opposed by the department of labor, allow publishers to engage children of sixteen years of age who are able "without impairment of health or interference with hours of day school" to deliver newspapers and to sell newspapers, "provided that no such person shall be employed in street sales between 7 p. m. and 7 a. m. from Oct. 1 to March 31 or between 8 p. m. and 7 a. m. from April 1 to Sept. 30."

Children of fourteen may be employed part time for not more than three hours a day between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. in other services, but not in the manufacturing and mechanical departments.

Harbor Tug Jammed in Ice; Guard Boat Coming to Aid

After the Chicago Harbor tug No. 4 became stuck in thick ice at the Hyde Park crib yesterday, Capt. Jack Smith, who is aboard with a crew of four men, put in a call for aid, which was transmitted to the United Coast guard ship Escanaba at Grand Haven, Mich. The Escanaba will go to the aid of the tug this morning on orders of Capt. H. R. Searles of the coast guard.

France Fears Albert's Death Saps Lines Against Germany

PARIS, Feb. 19.—(AP)—France, her flags at half staff, mourned today the passing of King Albert of the Belgians, and her statesmen felt the shiver of apprehension lest that passing might mean a weakening of the united allied front against Germany.

Official quarters let it be known that they hoped Crown Prince Leopold, upon his accession to the throne, would not permit a change in the Belgian stand against Chancellor Hitler's demand for rearmament.

Already France has strengthened fortifications in the Rhineland, fearing that the Belgian defenses, which once melted before the onslaught of the kaiser's army again are weaker than necessary.

Opinion of the whole, however, is that the future King Leopold III. will follow closely in his father's footsteps.

The newspaper Paris-Midi said: "Already the sound rearing given Prince Leopold and his young intelligence—ripened prematurely in the sufferings of the war—give great hope."

Louis Barthou, foreign minister, told the chamber of deputies:

"The immortal memory of King Albert will tighten the secular union between the two peoples which the same invasion, the same resistance, and the same victory transformed into brotherhood."

The American club canceled its Washington's birthday dinner and Ambassador Jesse I. Straus canceled the luncheon he had planned for the ambassadors and ministers of both Americas Feb. 22. Because of King Albert's funeral, Thursday will be a day of national mourning in France.

BELGIAN SOLDIERS IN WAR SALUTE DEAD HERO KING

Albert's Body Taken to Royal Palace.

Received by Cabinet.

Twenty minutes later the king's body arrived at the royal palace, passed between two khaki uniformed lines of grenadiers and was received, as tradition required, by ministers of the Belgian government.

Tomorrow, from 8 a. m. until 7 p. m., and on Wednesday from 8 a. m. until noon, the people of Belgium will file past the king's body.

Carefully emblamed, Albert looks perfectly serene. Only his hands, folded over an ivory cross, are bruised. So is one check. His head is bandaged to hide the wound he received when he fell.

The body will be taken to the St. Gudule cathedral Thursday for formal services.

On Friday Belgium will crown her new king. The red velvet throne, heavily gilded, will be placed in the chamber of deputies. The 32 year old Leopold III., the nation's fourth sovereign, will take his place on the throne. His mother, the dowager queen; his consort, the new queen, and the rest of the royal family will be in front of Leopold.

Oath of 24 Words.

All ministers, all dignitaries of the kingdom, all deputies and senators will be present. The queen will not have a throne, as this is not the custom in Belgium. The dowager queen will receive special honors.

A simple oath of 24 words will make Crown Prince Leopold the new ruler. He will speak these words:

"I swear to observe the constitution and the laws of the Belgian people and to maintain the national independence and the integrity of territory."

The new king will then deliver a brief address from the throne. Leopold III. will withdraw to the royal palace a half hour later, where he will receive an address from parliament.

Friday will be excepted from the six months of national mourning because a king must not begin his duties in sorrow.

Have Confidence in Leopold.

Most of the people of Belgium have confidence in Leopold.

"Fascism will be impossible under Leopold III.," a dignitary close to court circles said today. "Just as his father was the strongest backer of the democratic constitution of his country, so Leopold will be. Fascism, whether Flemish or French speaking, will have no chance under him. Neither will violent methods of communism.

"In fact, it is known that all three Belgian parties, Catholics, Liberals, and Socialists, will rally around Leopold even though the Socialists are theoretically republican.

"Socialist parliamentarians will walk in the funeral procession Thursday and Socialists will hail the new king at the coronation on Friday. Black crêpe veils even the Socialist red flag in the workers' suburbs of Brussels."

Impressed Son with Neutrality.

King Albert, according to this informer, instilled in his son the principle of strict neutrality.

"A king had best stay above all party conflicts," he often told his son.

Political changes are to be expected, mostly in the colonial field. Leopold recently made the following declaration regarding how he wished the Belgian Congo—80 times larger than the mother country and the chief rubber field of the world—to be governed:

"We have so far developed the Congo as most colonizing countries have done by the exclusive initiative of capitalistic enterprise, and by considering the native as simply a means of production. When I consider that we have created an increase in the number of industries there and have undertaken ever bigger public works requiring ever greater effort on the part of native labor, I find we have not taken into account social and hygienic consequences which had to result therefrom.

"Hitherto the future of the Congo has been considered as being based uniquely on the prosperity of private enterprise. A new method is necessary."

Leopold now desires to turn the Congo natives into economically free and independent farmers and halt the founding of new industries in the colony. He bases this colonial reform on a personal study of the Philippines and other colonial territories.

5 REPUBLICANS ON HUNGER STRIKE IN JAIL AT CORK

CORK, Irish Free State, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Thomas Barry, Republican leader, and four followers have gone on a hunger strike in the jail of this city, which by history knows much about such affairs.

Terrence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, died following a long hunger strike during the days of the Sinn Fein trouble with Great Britain in 1920.

Barry, Michael and Cornelius Crowley, brothers, and Peter Karney and Stephen O'Neill refuse to eat because their jailers will not treat them as political prisoners, which would give them a few more liberties. The five were jailed after participating in a firing squad salute over a brother Republican's grave.

STANDARDIZING PAPER IS WRONG, EXECUTIVES SAY

Decry Ebb of Initiative in NRA Regime.

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Standardization of paper and pulp products under the NRA is "a step in the wrong direction," speakers said today at the joint meeting of the American Paper and Pulp association and the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry.

H. J. Miner, general sales manager of the Munising Paper company of Munising, Mich., asserted that standardization was destroying personal initiative and aggressiveness in the paper industry.

"Under the NRA setup there is a very preponderant belief that Mr. Roosevelt is going to run the business for us," he asserted. "We believe that all we have to do is to sit quiet and be good boys."

Miner said that standardization, instead of bettering quality, "often leads to mediocrity and the lowering of quality to meet the price of competitors."

Sees "Chinafied Nation."

"Today the mill that gets the best results is the one that degrades its products to the lower class," he said, advocating instead standardization of the methods of testing and of materials used in production.

J. H. Slater, general manager of the Escanaba Paper company of Escanaba, Mich., said he agreed and that standardization would cause the United States to become a "Chinafied nation."

Ernest Mahler, vice president of the Kimberly-Clark corporation of Neenah, Wis., said the three evils of the paper industry were overproduction, price cutting, and "upping the grade."

"No Chinese war has anything to do with it," he asserted. "Nothing is more welcome to the paper manufacturers than standards and tests of fair values."

Order Committees Named.

A majority of the 300 men and women present raised their hands in assent to a proposal by Allen Abrams, president of the technical association, that standardization committees be named for each of the 24 classes of paper and pulp manufacturers. Definite action was postponed.

The meeting was one of forty sessions held in connection with the annual meetings of the two associations and of the National Paper Trade association of the United States, an organization of wholesalers.

KANSAS CITY DRESS FACTORIES DEMAND REVISED DRESS CODE

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—A promise of relief for the millinery and silk dress industry of Kansas City caused the rescinding of an order to close eight factories whose owners said they could not operate under existing NRA codes.

The cancelation was made by C. H. Lyon, chairman of the Associated Millinery Industries of Kansas City, who received a telegram from Hugh C. Johnson, NRA administrator.

The Johnson telegram, addressed to Conrad H. Mann, president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, said:

"The special millinery board has ruled Kansas City might apply for special consideration regarding the wage schedule if the present arrangement proved discriminatory."

LIEUT. MOSS AND PAT ROCHE WILL RUN FOR SHERIFF

Last minute filing of petitions of candidates in the April 10 primaries failed last night to produce any of the thrills that sometimes have marked these occasions.

Less than forty petitions for county and sanitary district places were filed at the office of County Clerk Sweitzer which was kept open until midnight for the late comers. Among the last filings were those of Pat Roche and Police Lieutenant Stewart Moss for the Republican nomination for sheriff. Roche is former chief investigator for the state's attorney's office. Moss is author of the official manual of the Chicago police department.

Otto E. Aken filed for the office of county superintendent of schools. Following the death of E. J. Tobin last March, Aken was chosen superintendent by the county board. When the Democratic organization slated Noble J. Puffer, an assistant to the superintendent, to run for the office, Aken discharged him.

At the office of City Clerk Brady, which closed at 5 o'clock, eighteen Republicans and five Democrats filed against the slates of the regular organizations for Municipal court judgeships just before the deadline. Among names recognized here were those of two former judges, Joseph L. McCarthy and George B. Holmes, and Ross Lee Laird, former assistant state's attorney.

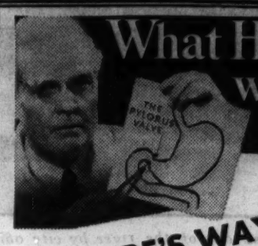
What Happens Inside when you take a Laxative?



NATURE'S WAY—a gentle flush

Most medicine laxatives work by irritating the delicate membranes of the digestive tract—lose their force when taken regularly. Pluto Water is not a drug or medicine-laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives results in less than one hour.

Pluto Water is gentle, effective—but speedy. It promptly opens the pylorus valve—permitting the flush to enter the intestines without anxious hours of waiting. The proper dilution —one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water—is practically tasteless. Take it whenever sluggish—and end that laxative habit! In two sizes: Splits (8 ounces)—large bottles (3 times the quantity). At all druggists.

Figures that Speak

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company presents figures from its Annual Statement for 1933 and makes comparisons which show how the Company has carried on during the five difficult years since 1928

THROUGHOUT a period of almost unparalleled world-wide depression the institution of Life Insurance in America has furnished an example of achievement that wins admiration wherever it is understood.

Between January 1st, 1929 and January 1st, 1934, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which insures the lives of more than 25,000,000 persons—nearly one-fifth of the total populations of the United States and Canada—paid to its policyholders and their beneficiaries more than Two Billion Dollars ($2,000,000,000).

During the same period, its policyholders contributed, through their premium payments, toward the increase of more than One Billion Dollars ($1,000,000,000) in the assets held for future distribution to themselves and their beneficiaries.

After payment, during that period, of more than Four Hundred and Fifty Million Dollars ($450,000,000) by way of dividends to policyholders, the Company's surplus was increased by more than One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000).

These figures, of one company alone, are striking evidence of the reliance which the people of the United States and Canada place on the security and protection of life insurance.

Life Insurance is the most effective and satisfactory means of providing for the future of one's self and one's dependents.

LAUNDRY TRADE WAGE CUTS TOLD AT RACKET TRIAL

State Claims Added Funds Went to Capone.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Prosecution testimony in the racket conspiracy trial before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court yesterday moved into the second phase of the alleged conspiracy. This was the reorganization of trade practices in the laundry industry, accomplished in the summer of 1932 by Attorney Aaron Sapiro, one of the defendants. Heretofore the state's evidence has concerned the cleaning and dyeing industry.

The salient point of the laundry reorganization was a new wage contract with Local No. 712 of the Laundry and Dye House Drivers' union, by which members of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association, which employed Attorney Sapiro as counselor, were to pay their drivers a wage of $30.50 a week and commissions. Nonmembers of the association were asked to pay the old rate of $40.50 a week, with commissions of a somewhat lower scale.

Revise Price Scale.

At the same time that the new wage agreement was negotiated Attorney Sapiro rewrote the by-laws of the owners' association, providing for price fixing in the industry and setting penalties for members who cut prices below the minimum fixed. To obtain the lower wage scale a laundry owner was required to join the association and subscribe to its price fixing rules, and also to pay $1 a week for each truck which he used.

This fund, the laundry owners were told at the time, was to be turned over to the drivers' union and was to be used for the purpose of organizing operators of hand laundries. These hand laundries, which had the laundry sent to them washed at power laundries and then finished it themselves, were cutting prices at the time below the scale of the power laundries.

Contend Capone Got Fund.

It is the contention of the prosecution, however, that this fund, amounting to thousands of dollars weekly, reached the hands of members of the Capone gang, and financed violence and sabotage in the industry. Meetings of laundry owners at which the Sapiro plan was presented were described yesterday by Homer G. Nichols, president of the Bon Ton Wet Wash laundry, 6718 South State street. He was a member of the association.

Unconnected glimpses of the laundry situation had been given the jury before, principally in the wiretapping testimony of Clarence L. Converse, federal investigator, and in the federal grand jury testimony read to the jury last week.

Nichols' responses to the questions of Assistant Prosecutor Thomas Dodd Healy, however, gave the first account of the setting up of the Sapiro plan, and also contained the first direct mention of Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th]. Ald. Nelson, a defendant, represented the union in the wage negotiations.

Cites Squires Objection.

"Ald. Nelson said," according to the witness, "that Dr. Squires thought it wasn't legal to collect the dollar a week [on the wagons]—that it was just another way of covering up racketeering."

Other objections to the legality of the Sapiro proposal were made at the same meetings, held on July 8 and July 13, 1932, at the Palmer House, Nichols said. After the plan had been presented by Attorney Sapiro and T. Henry Klein, president of the association, who also is a defendant, Nichols said, these objections were voiced at the first meeting by former Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court, and at the second by Edward R. Litsinger, attorney and former political leader. Both represented a group of independent laundry owners, who later complained to State's Attorney Swanson regarding the alleged discriminatory wage contract with the union.

Both Olson and Litsinger, the witness testified, gave the opinion that turning the $1 a week per wagon over to the union might lay members of the association open to charges of criminal conspiracy. That is one of the charges in the present indictment.

Tells Price Differential.

Another witness, Donald W. Sessions, Chicago executive of the Baxter Laundries, a national concern with several local plants, told how precedent of the wage differential to association members was followed by a price differential granted by the association members to hand laundries which agrede to join the organization suggested for them under the Sapiro plan.

This organization was the Cook County Hand Laundry association. Questioned by Assistant Prosecutor William E. Crawford, Sessions described a meeting late in November, 1932, at which Attorney Sapiro told a dozen power laundry owners that their association had agreed with the hand laundry association that members of the latter group were to pay 3 cents a pound for wet wash done in power plants and 4 cents a pound for flat which agreed to join the organization work. The price to unorganized hand laundries was kept at cents a pound for wet wash and 5 cents a pound for flat work.

Credit Guaranteed.

In return for the price differential the hand laundry association guaranteed the credit of its members.

Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber lost a fight to read to the jury an editorial printed in THE TRIBUNE on Sept. 1, 1932, critfcising the union's wage differential contract with the laundry owners' association.

The editorial entitled "Terrorism in the Making," charged that such a contract had as its object the creation of a monopoly, and that such a monopoly could be protected only by violence. The prosecutor did get before the jury, however, a statement which Miss Elizabeth Shoemaker, 619 Linden avenue, Winnetka, former publicity representative of the laundry association, drew up in answer to the editorial.

Acts for Kaplan.

Miss Shoemaker testified she did this at the instruction of Attorney Morris I. Kaplan, counsel for the organization, who is a defendant.

It quoted a letter which Attorney Sapiro had written a short time before to officials of the White Bear laundry, 2936 Belmont avenue. Attorney Sapiro denied that a strike called on the White Bear plant by the drivers' union had been for the purpose of forcing the concern to join the association, and said that the union only, and not the association, was concerned in the matters over which the strike was called.

In his wiretapping testimony, however, Agent Converse described a conversation on Aug. 6, 1932, between Attorney Kaplan and George Knott, vice president of the union and a defendant, in which Kaplan allegedly said:

"The White Bear is running wild. You'd better close them up tomorrow."

Knott replied that he had other business on the next day, and it was agreed that instead of calling a strike, he should send the officers of the company to see Attorney Kaplan, Converse testified.

DE PRIEST LOSES FIRST TILT OVER CAFE RACIAL BAR

Denied Hearing by Rules Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Round one of the congressional grudge fight between Chicago's Oscar De Priest and North Carolina's Lindsay Warren went today to the southern Democrat whose edict barring Negroes from the house restaurant started the fireworks.

In the rôle of referee the powerful rules committee of the house rejected De Priest's request for a chance to explain why he believes Chairman Warren's house committee on accounts has no control over the restaurant at the capitol.

Mr. De Priest entered the ring as the champion of his race, still indignant at the recent refusal of restaurant attachés to serve his Negro secretary, Morris Lewis, and the latter's son. Mr. Warren is standing staunchly for the traditions of his native southland, determined that none but whites shall have their meals in the house restaurant.

Though the chairman won the nod from the rules committee, today, it was generally conceded that the referee wasn't as untrammeled by prejudice as he might have been.

Questions Warren's Authority.

The all powerful rules committee, dominated by southern Democrats, declined to grant Mr. De Priest a hearing on his resolution for an investigation of Representative Warren's authority over the restaurant. The rules committee is chairmaned by Representative Edward L. Pou, dean of Mr. Warren's North Carolina delegation. Except for the few northern Republicans on the committee, Contestant De Priest's only supporter on the majority side was his fellow Chicagoan, Adolph J. Sabath.

The De Priest-Warren feud grew out of the recent refusal of house restaurant attachés to serve Lewis. Since then Lewis has had meals repeatedly in the restaurant, but always in company of the Chicago congressman, who, as a member, cannot be excluded.

Order Still Stands.

The order barring Negroes still stands, and Representative Warren has declared it will continue to stand as long as he has anything to do with it. Mr. De Priest is seeking through his resolution to prove that Mr. Warren has nothing whatever to do with it.

Although the action of the rules committee was described as a temporary refusal to grant Mr. De Priest a hearing at this time, it had the effect of pigeonholing the resolution for this session of congress.

HOUSE TO SPEED BILL FOR MONEY RELIEF TO DESERVING DIPLOMATS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Early aid for foreign service employés who have suffered financial hardship because of currency depreciation was promised today when the house rules committee granted privileged status to the McReynolds bill authorizing the President to compensate such employés for the loss encountered in foreign exchange.

Representative S. D. McReynolds said he proposed to call up the bill as soon as the tax bill, now under consideration, is passed, probably on Wednesday or Thursday. A fund of 7 million dollars for the relief of the foreign service employés was proposed in the state department supply measure, but was stricken out when a question of parliamentary procedure was raised.

MOTORISTS WITH OLD TAGS FACING ARRESTS TODAY

Plate Purchasers Swamp Chicago Office.

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicago police are under orders to start arresting motorists this morning who are without 1934 license plates and city windshield stickers. There are approximately 350,000 automobiles in the metropolitan area still carrying 1933 numbers.

The Chicago office of the secretary of state, at 120 South Ashland boulevard, was swamped yesterday in an eleventh hour rush for licenses. Some waited in line for more than an hour to get their plates. Approximately 10,000 were sold.

May Sign Own Bonds.

The rush followed Commissioner Allman's arrest order, issued on Sunday. It provides that drivers without proper state and city licenses shall be taken to the nearest police station and required to post a $10 cash bail or its equivalent in each case, making $20 bond necessary for the man with neither the state nor the city 1934 license.

At the commissioner's office it was said that violators able to identify themselves satisfactorily but without money for bail will be permitted to sign a personal recognizance bond. Others will be jailed pending arraignments in the police courts.

The overflow at Secretary Hughes' Chicago office indicated that it will require several days, maybe as much as two weeks, of capacity business to equip all automobiles with the new licenses. The arrest order was preceded by a week of a warning from Commissioner Allman and from Secretary Hughes. Under the statute the taxes were due on or before Jan. 1.

Police Make Suggestion.

The police commissioner's office suggested one method of escaping prosecution but not annoyance for those who have failed to buy their license plates and were unable to crowd into the secretary of state's west side office yesterday. The stub of a postoffice money order addressed to the secretary's Springfield office will be accepted by the police as evidence that the license fee has been paid.

J. J. Nash, chief of the license bureau at Springfield, said mail applications can be filled in three or four days after receipt of a money order. Application blanks may be obtained at THE TRIBUNE public service offices at Dearborn and Madison streets and in the Tribune Tower or at automobile clubs or from the secretary of state's office.

Tenant Is Found Slain; Police Seize Landlord

Grover Cline, 41 years old, an unemployed machinist, was slain in a passageway at the side of the flat building in which he lived at 831 South Laflin street late yesterday afternoon. His killer fired two barrels of a shotgun into Cline's head and chest. Cline was still holding the leashes of two dogs that he had been taking for an airing at the time when neighbors found him.

Hours later police arrested Andrew Guerriero, 45 years old, owner of the flat building where Cline lived, and questioned him about the murder. He denied any knowledge of it. Police said the two men had quarreled earlier in the day about rent that Cline owed Guerriero.

State Wine and Liquor Stamps Ready Tomorrow

Wine and liquor stamps required under the new state liquor law will be ready for distribution tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by J. M. Braude, associate director of the state department of finance. They will be available in Springfield and at the Chicago office, 30 North La Salle street.

G. R. SCHAFFER AND WIFE HURT IN AUTO WRECK

G. R. Schaffer, advertising director for Marshall Field & Co., was bruised and shaken and his wife received possible internal injuries Sunday night when their automobile skidded on a wet road and plunged over a 20 foot embankment near Manchester, Tenn., 30 miles northwest of Chattanooga. They are due to arrive here this morning on the Dixie Flyer. An X-ray examination will then be made of Mrs. Schaffer at the Presbyterian hospital.

Schuyler Brandt, 35 years old, 2301 Park place, Evanston, a manufacturer's agent, died in the St. Francis' hospital in Evanston yesterday of injuries received Saturday night. Four other persons were injured when the car in which Brandt was a passenger collided with another at McCormick boulevard and Howard street in Niles Center.

Physicians at the South Chicago hospital yesterday found it necessary to remove the right eye of Jean Olson, 4 years old, who, with her twin sister, was thrown through the windshield of a car driven by their mother Sunday. Jane, the other twin, received cuts on her face. Mrs. Olson, 35 years old, 8459 Phillips avenue, the mother, stepped on the brakes of her car to avoid striking a crowd of churchgoers and the machine skidded into a telephone pole.

The death of Brandt yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll for 1934 to 179.

Nicholas Lombardi, 19 years old, 2956 Wallace street, was ordered held to the grand jury by a coroner's jury yesterday on a charge of manslaughter. On Saturday night Lombardi's car fatally injured Edward Hennessy, 42, of 539 West 37th street, at Union avenue and 37th street.

DON'T BLAME YOUR GROCER

IN fairness to retail grocers throughout the country, we feel called upon to make a frank statement to the housewives of America.

During recent months thousands of you ladies have experienced difficulty in obtaining two new varieties of Heinz Homestyle Soups—Cream of Mushroom and Noodle Soup. This has not been your grocer's fault. We are to blame. Here are the facts:

We had made a few varieties of soup for many years, when we decided to expand our line. We didn't do this overnight. It came as the result of unusual and interesting recipes evolved by our chefs over a long period. Today there are sixteen varieties of Heinz Soups.

The new varieties of Heinz Soups met almost instant success—made good on thousands of tables. But when we added the last two—Heinz Cream of Mushroom Soup and Heinz Noodle Soup—something unexpected happened. These two soups took the country by storm. Grocers reported amazing sales. Thousands of letters poured in. At this same time, sales of our other varieties of soup doubled and trebled.

This presented a problem. Tremendous demand could not be met by merely installing additional equipment. Long ago we learned that good soup must be made in small batches—slowly simmered so that the delicate, elusive vegetable and meat flavors are retained. All the ingredients must be painstakingly selected and the spicing and seasoning done with utmost care. It is a slow, meticulous process by which Heinz chefs uphold traditional Heinz quality. So we honestly have not been able to catch up with the demand for these two soups until now. Two shifts have been working in our kitchens for months to supply you. Hereafter we believe you'll be able to obtain these soups at most grocers.

Many grocers have had numerous shipments of Heinz Cream of Mushroom Soup and Heinz Noodle Soup—but it is hard to keep them in stock. So it is possible that you may have experienced occasional difficulty in obtaining these two varieties. We regret this—but trust that this statement will explain the reason and remove from your mind any thought that your grocer has been negligent in his service to you.

So many dealers have been blamed by housewives for failing to stock these two new soups that we felt called upon to explain the true situation. We have known your grocer for many years. No one works harder or more conscientiously to serve you. His interest is a natural and sincere one. He would gladly have kept these two soups in stock if he could have obtained them. So don't blame him. It's our fault. Blame us for our stubborn, old-fashioned ideas about quality—and for our pride in anything that bears our name.

GROWERS RIPEN FRUITS AT WILL BY GAS CONTROL

Chemists Alter Seasons by New Technique.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Fruit ripened by gas, the sprouting time of bulbs and seeds changed by chemicals, the blooming of flowers controled by artificial stimulation, exemplify some of the ways in which the industrial chemists are seeking to turn time in its flight for agriculture and roll the seasons backward or forward, as it were. And the era of depression has been the period in which greatest advance seems to have been made in commercial use for the products of the research laboratories.

Bananas and tomatoes are now being ripened on a large scale by use of ethlyene gas, and so are oranges and grapefruit. The process has been rapidly growing in use during the last two or three years.

The Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation, which recently won an award from Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering for achievement in chemical engineering in the process industries, is advancing the application of synthetics to plant life.

Rather Ancient at That.

During the depression the corporation kept its research laboratories running full tilt, with the result that where in 1929 it was regularly marketing twelve major compounds, it now offers almost five dozen chemical compounds. Marketing of ethylene, "the magic gas," is only one of its smaller activities, but it is of marked interest to grower and consumer.

Ages ago the ancient Chinese ripened hard pears in rooms filled with the fumes of incense, and in more modern times fruit raisers years ago knew that matured green fruit could be ripened by fumes from a kerosene stove.

A decade ago, in 1923, Prof. R. B. Harvey and associates at the University of Minnesota and scientists in the federal bureau of chemistry and soils isolated the gas which caused the ripening and coloring of the green fruit.

It was ethylene, a colorless gas of faint pleasant odor. This gas speeds the natural coloring process by breaking down the green pigment, or chlorophyll, allowing the natural colors of mature fruit to appear.

Harmless to Vitamins.

When exposed to the fumes of ethylene, a green tomato turns red all over, the green banana yellow. The chemists say the ethylene also destroys, by oxidation, the bitter element in unripe fruit and increases the sugar content by speeding up the action of the "enzymes" which change starch into sugar.

As to vitamins, the chemists say the ethylene has no effect upon the content; vitamins which increase with ageing continue to increase with the ethylene treatment, while those which rely upon exposure to sunlight for development remain present in the same proportion, none being destroyed, while the food value of the fruit or vegetable is not reduced.

As a commercial proposition, the technicians say, the process enables growers and handlers of fruit to watch the market and put the product out in its ripened stages at the most opportune time. The process has been used by some agencies in Chicago and other central markets for the last few years in the ripening of bananas and tomatoes. The last two years during the depression a marked increase in use is reported.

Use in Refrigerator Cars.

There is a restriction on citrus fruit, use of ethylene for ripening oranges and grapefruit being confined to places where grown in Florida and California. They are ripened, then shipped, the method giving better control over marketing problems.

The ethylene is marketed in steel cylinders holding 28 pounds of gas, or approximately 380 cubic feet.

Fruits or vegetables are treated in closed chambers to prevent the ethylene from escaping, or in refrigerator cars in transit or even in tents for small operators. The speed of the process, the technicians point out, saves handling, storage space and spoilage, while results are uniform, and the product hits the market when prices are best. Jobbers and dealers have been chief early users, but in the last year or two the process is reported to have had rapid growth among growers.

Usually the fruit is treated twice each day, the room being ventilated before each application because the fruit or vegetables are "breathing" and need oxygen. On the farm the cylinder of ethylene is placed on the outside, with a pipe running into the sealed chamber. A gauge measures the amount, the heaviest dosage required for any product being one part of ethylene to 1,000 parts of air. Lights, fires, and smoking must be remote from the sweating room.

Cost Proves Trifling.

The fruit or vegetables require to be mature, although green. Where it takes twelve to fourteen days to ripen tomatoes in air in the usual way, with ethylene the ripening takes only six days, thus effecting great saving in time and reducing loss through decay. With bananas the process also cuts the ripening period in half.

In Florida, Texas, California, and Arizona citrus growers are able to color their fruit in four to five days, although some samples may take two weeks. It is not always necessary to carry the ripening all the way through. Citrus fuit can be given a start and the full coloring left until the fruit is in transit or in storgage, for the fruit will continue to color.

As to cost, a carload of bananas, it is said, can be ripened for about 40 cents.

Celery is being blanched by the gas process. Where the grower formerly had to hill the stalks with soil or shade them with board or paper, the celery can be given the gas treatment and in from six to twelve days, its chlorophyl or green coloring matter will have been destroyed.

Thus in northern states the celery can be allowed to grow in the fields until just before the first frost, and can then be blanched in storage cellars or in refrigerator cars. It is one reason, perhaps, why nowadays the consumer on pulling a celery heart apart no longer finds dirt or cinders.

Tropical Foods Possible.

On melons, apples and pears, dates, persimmons, pineapples, the ethylene treatment is being used. Pineapple canners are widely using the process to get uniform raw material.

The chemists point out that the gas treatment opens possibilities for the marketing of mangoes, papayas, custard apples, jujubes, and other less well known tropical fruits, which are not largely shipped into the north because they are subject to spoilage. Picked green and ripened in the gas chamber, new markets are expected to be opened for these fruits.

In breaking the dormant period of bulbs, ethylene is now being used. With gladioli, treatment with ethylene advances growth 25 to 30 days. Dahlia tubers and cuttings of canna and treated in the same way—the growth is not hastened but two to four buds are produced on each root.

Growers are now beginning to break the rest period of potatoes and by the chemical process are able to advance sprouting seven to fifteen days. Various chemicals have been experimented with and three methods of treating the tubers have been studied, the dip, vapor, or soak methods.

In addition the scientists for years have been experimenting with the effect of electric light on the flowering of asters, dahlias, sweet peas, poinsettias, and other blooms.

At Purdue university the experiment station has been busy with artificial stimulation of plant blooming, and in the university greenhouses the flowers that bloom in the spring have been made to blossom in winter, and vice versa. Commercial utilization is reported growing among florists, especially during the depression period.

STATE CWA CHIEF PREPARES SLASHES IN COUNTY QUOTAS

Revised Civil Works Administration quotas for Illinois counties were being prepared yesterday by Frank D. Chase, Illinois CWA director, under the demobilization program of Federal Administrator Harry L. Hopkins. The federal administrator has ruled that workers in the state for the pay roll period beginning Friday are not to exceed 77,000 and minimum wages are to be reduced from 50 to 30 cents an hour in some communities.

Director Chase said the first reduction in Cook county will be one of 5,000 and in rural areas of 18,000 workers. There are now 100,000 workers on the county's pay roll and the same number at work on downstate projects.

Upon receiving the instructions from Washington, Director Chase ordered each county CWA administrator to appoint a committee of at least three, including himself, to consider all projects in the county as affected by the demobilization order. These committees are to work out the plans for demobilization in their counties.

FINDS AUSTRALIA READY TO BUY AMERICAN GOODS

Chief Barrier Is the High Rate of Exchange.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 19.—There are 160 factories in Australia manufacturing products of American brand for a population of 6,730,000 on a continent but slightly larger than the United States.

These products range from American brands of tooth paste to batteries. They also include the manufacture by American methods of chemicals, electrical goods, shirts, medicines, cosmetics, and automobile tires. Assembly plants for American automobiles are also important factories in Australia. There are also laboratories for the printing of motion picture positive prints from imported American negatives of Hollywood films.

There is American machinery not only in the Australian factories manufacturing American brands of goods, but also in numerous manufacturing plants making Australian products.

Pays to Build Own Plants.

Thus one can readily understand that American goods have such a strong hold on the Australian market that it must pay many of Uncle Sam's business interests to build their own plants in the antipodes. They prefer to manufacture for Australian consumption rather than to risk the recurrent danger of losing a market perhaps by possible arbitrary or retaliatory tariffs at times against "foreign goods."

The last two years of disastrous monetary exchange against the American dollar, coupled with prohibitive tariffs in Australia, have practically stopped imports into Australia of goods made in the United States. At one time in 1932 exchange between the two countries was so severe that an Australian would have had to pay 2 pounds in Australian currency to buy what was normally only worth 1 pound and then pay a handsome duty on the purchase besides.

Racial sentiment goes a long way in guiding Australia's purchases of goods overseas. In the last two years Australia purchased many articles from England that hitherto had been purchased in the United States and other countries. However, much trade may have followed the flag; it must be acknowledged that trade follows the best price. Australia's increased trade with Japan the last two years bears out this statement.

Begin to Buy More Goods.

As soon as the dollar began to upset the high rate of exchange and bring the dollar value of goods closer to the British and Australian pouad, then Australia began to buy more goods, particularly motor cars, in the United States. She did this despite British preferential tariffs under the Ottawa tariff agreement.

The whole kernel of this international trade problem right now rests in the stabilization at an acceptable rate of exchange between the American dollar and Australian currency.

Australia has recovered from the depression. Her wool crop this year has already surpassed last year's figure and will reach a record. It will surpass the record clip of $300,000,000 in 1927. Australia lives off the sheeps' backs and the prosperity clip is significant of that country's definite recovery. Australia's financial position has improved materially. The budget operations of state and federal governments are well controled. Her gold output has more than doubled in the last two years. She is selling more dairy products, skins, hides and ores abroad than ever before. Consequently, Australia is establishing credits in London by favorable balances of trade.

Spending Power Increased.

The foregoing indicates that Australia's spending power has materially increased. Her cities and towns are similar to American cities in that they have gasoline filling stations, "cash and carry" stores, shops similar to Woolworths, up-to-date coffee shops, soda fountains and other Americanized retail systems serving the public.

What is it, then, that America can sell more of to Australia?

An industrial research into not only the necessities Australia must have but also into semi-luxuries suggests these items as only part of what the United States could sell to Australia:

Low priced electric refrigerators for operation on 240 volts, certain kinds of special radio tubes as only ordinary standard tubes are now manufactured here, special glass and nickel for the manufacture of radio tubes, pulp for the making of crude paper if America can supply a pulp with "breaking strength" as good or superior to that now supplied by Scandinavia, machinery and chemicals for the manufacture of paper as Australia has five paper making mills, fashion goods and plates to supply the Australian demand for American fashions in dress, mercerized cotton yarns as nearly all of Australia's cotton requirements are now supplied by England, farm tractors and motor cars, sulphur, stationery, electric light and power units for farms, and strange as it may seem, soft lumber despite Australia's vast forests which do not, however, supply as uniform a soft wood as can be obtained from the United States.

JIMMY WALKER ERA HIT BY LA GUARDIA IN CASINO DEAL

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The Central Park Casino, scene of high and expensive revelry since Sidney Solomon leased it in the days of Mayor Walker, was called on to justify its existence today.

A letter from Robert Moses, commissioner of parks, indicated that the Casino was too plutocratic a playground for the La Guardia administration.

Its operations are unsatisfactory to the city and the commissioner of parks," Mr. Moses wrote. The Casino might better be utilized for a popular priced restaurant and resting place for persons who go to Central park for their recreation, he suggested.

Referring to the agreement of Feb. 6, 1929, under which the Dieppe corporation, Sidney Solomon, president, took over the building and transformed it into a silk hat rendezvous decorated by Joseph Urban, Mr. Moses said:

"The license and privileges granted under said agreement are not being exercised, as provided in the agreement, to promote and increase the public enjoyment, use and convenience of Central park. The prices charged for food, refreshments, entertainment and other facilities afforded there are exorbitant and make it impossible for the general public to avail itself of its use."

CANADIAN CHIEF TO PUSH ON AFTER U. S. TRADE PACT

Bennett Asks Commons to Approve Policy.

BY GEORGE SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 19.—Prime Minister Bennett of Canada in dramatic fashion in the house of commons tonight asked parliament to go on record approving his course in seeking reciprocal trade arrangements with the United States.

Speaking on a resolution by William Duff, Nova Scotia Liberal, demanding that his government "reopen" reciprocity negotiations with the United States, the prime minister moved an amendment that the government "continue" efforts to this end.

Conservatives Assert Selves.

The prime minister establishes by his amendment, passage of which is assured by the Conservative majority in the commons, that Canadian-American reciprocal trade negotiations have not ended, but are continuing; that the Canadian government desires a Canadian-American trade pact, and that the Conservative party does not propose to have its "kudos" usurped by any Liberal reciprocity amendment.

Bennett intimated that Canadian-American reciprocity negotiations begun in Washington in April last year had been delayed in consummation by President Roosevelt's failure to obtain tariff bargaining authority from congress last session.

"There are indications," Bennett said, "that that authority is expected in this session of congress, and I hope negotiations for a trade agreement with Canada will be undertaken forthwith.

Asks Understanding.

"Any trade agreement that is arrived at between the United States and Canada must be based upon an equitable understanding of conditions in one country by the other, and might I remind members of this house that this is the parliament of Canada and not the congress of the United States, and this parliament has no authority to legislate on tariff matters in the United States."

Bennett said that since the Washington reciprocity parleys last year with President Roosevelt "informal conversations have been continued and several methods of improving trade relations between Canada and the United States have been carefully examined."

SENATE OF IOWA PASSES LIQUOR MONOPOLY BILL

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The Iowa senate today passed the administration state monopoly liquor bill, 29 to 20. The final vote came late in the day following an afternoon of heated debate.

Senators voting against the bill were Ashenbrenner, Beardsley, Beatty, Booth, Calhoun, Carden, Coykendall, Dose, Elthon, Hopkins, Hush, Husted, Klemme, McArthur, Nelson, Patterson, Pendray, Stanley, Tripp, Wenner. Ritchie was absent, all others voting for the measure.

As passed the bill provides for state liquor stores from which all hard liquors will be sold by the package to persons holding individual purchase permits. A five man commission is provided to regulate the stores and $500,000 appropriated to set up the new system.

No provision is made for any form of local option. The bill will now go to the house for action on the changes made by the senate.

SELL BIG STILLMAN RANCH IN TEXAS TO SUBDIVISION GROUPS

Brownsville, Tex., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The Stillman ranch, 40 miles north of here, last undivided section of the one time extensive James Stillman estate on the border, has been sold and is to be cut up into farm lands, it was announced today.

The 22,000 acre tract of land has been sold by the Santarosa, Inc., company formed to liquidate the tract to more than 25 individuals and companies for subdivision and development.

The Stillman estate here formerly included more than half the townsite of Brownsville and extensive farm holdings, all of which have been sold by heirs of the James Stillman who started his fortune here 80 years ago.

The Stillman ranch sold for approximately one million dollars.

YOUR GROCER WILL HELP YOU KEEP HEALTHY AND HAPPY

Delicious Cereal Promotes Regular Habits

The right kinds of foods form the very basis of health. You need nourishment for strength and energy. And you need "bulk" to prevent common constipation.

Otherwise, this ailment may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy. You can correct it, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN adds generous "bulk" to your daily menu. Tests show this "bulk" is similar to that found in leafy vegetables.

Inside the body, the fiber of ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

ALL-BRAN is also a good source of vitamin B and iron.

Isn't it safer—and pleasanter—to enjoy this food in place of taking patent medicines?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will overcome most types of common constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook into fluffy muffins and breads.

Remember, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is all bran with only necessary flavoring added. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NEW YORK LIFE
INSURANCE COMPANY

A MUTUAL COMPANY FOUNDED IN 1845
INCORPORATED UNDER THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK

89TH ANNUAL STATEMENT, DECEMBER 31, 1933

To the Policy-holders and the Public:—

The service of a life insurance company is measured, largely, by its returns to policy-holders and beneficiaries. By this standard the New York Life accomplished more in 1933 than in any other year since it began business in 1845.

In this year of stress, in addition to making many policy loans, the Company paid the enormous sum of $255,977,483 to policy-holders, beneficiaries, and annuitants.

It closed the year with Assets amounting to $2,010,943,112, the largest in its history, valued as prescribed by the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners. The Company's total Liabilities were $1,896,651,321.

Its surplus funds reserved for general contingencies amounted to $114,291,791.

In the interest of conservatism, the Company voluntarily set up in its liabilities two special contingency reserves as follows: $21,014,507, which is the difference between December 31, 1933 market quotations and the values carried in Assets of stocks, and of bonds in default, bonds of companies in receivership, and bonds which for any reason are not carried in Assets at amortized value; and $7,500,000 for deferred mortgage interest collections, which are larger than normal due to the general economic situation.

The Company also set aside a reserve of $48,038,244 for apportionment of dividends during 1934, a sum sufficient to provide the same regular annual dividend on each individual policy as was paid in 1933, except on term insurance policies.

Of special interest was the increased demand for annuities. Many men and women, desiring to secure a fixed income for life and relief from investment worries, placed their capital in annuities providing a guaranteed life income. The total so invested was $20,662,386, a larger amount than in any other single year.

The total insurance in force represented by 2,672,876 policies was $6,869,268,269. The total new paid for insurance was $378,669,800.

The following table shows the diversification of the Company's Assets as reported to the Insurance Department of the State of New York and valued as stated above:

Canada Urged to Force U.S. Ships to Pay Canal Tolls

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 19.—Peter McGibbon, Ontario Conservative, stood alone in the house of commons today urging a resolution aimed at United States shipping, which now enjoys free use of Canadian canals. He demanded imposition of canal tolls. Canadian-American treaties were cited by Premier Bennett, who warned that the proposed tolls "would create a situation which Canada did not desire."

MR. WALLACE'S RETREAT INTO THE WILDERNESS.

Secretary Wallace's prospectus on the planned American future is a message of despair. It assumes, contrary to experience and sound reasoning, that the country has reached its heights and that the decline must be managed to avert disaster. The secretary of agriculture, studying his surpluses and observing the idle industrial plant, can reach only the disheartening conclusion that America must submit to a permanent curtailment of activity. Therefore it must take land out of cultivation and reduce its tariffs to let in goods from abroad in order that it may sell abroad.

Mr. Wallace admits that the managed economy must hurt both agriculture and industry, but hopes that in spite of general injuries there can be a sustained aggregate of well being. At least the worst will not happen, he thinks, if the middle of the road policy be adopted.

White civilization in its evolutionary processes will not sustain the secretary of agriculture. Fortunately his forecast ignores the forces and instincts which govern progress and enable human civilization to change and better its status. Man alone can change his conditions, and in civilization he always does so.

Mr. Wallace's pessimistic predictions may fall in the midst of gloom, but it happens that from the various sciences are coming many indications that instead of a recessional there is about to be another of the great forward movements. No greater mistake could be made than to assume that the needs and wants of the American people have been satiated. The opposite is true. It is even more true of other parts of the world. In spite of the great advances of civilization in recent years people have not yet begun to realize the possibilities of life. The truth of that is applicable to their housing, their transportation, their recreations, education, and diversions, to nearly all things pertaining to their comfort and well being.

For realization more appliances are required, the products of invention and industry. Engineers, technicians, chemists, producers, etc., foresee the line of this development. The future is taking form in the varied experiments. The change which has taken place in the last twenty-five years or so does not mark the end of the advance but the beginning of it. The world of tomorrow may be as different from the world of today as that of today is different from the world of yesterday.

The new type of railroad train now taking to the rails may be only a prototype of the new development, but it has made its appearance. Housing, whether the private home or the apartment or office building, is not a closed pattern. It may be all outmoded soon, antiquated in its services and wholly insufficient for the requirements of a modern householder who knows the comforts and healthfulness of air cooling, better heating and designs of greater beauty and utility. The world was remade by the telephone, automobile, airplane, radio, etc., but it did not stop there. The remaking is going on. Men have the impulse and they have the ability to better themselves. Their industries are founded upon the impulse and the ability.

It is true that this is the civilization of private enterprise and not of the planned society. If Mr. Wallace is to fit his prospectus into the planned society he may be right in anticipating the recessional because the advances have been made in an order of society which he and his associates in the new directorate reject. Governmental control is static. It seeks a uniformity and then seeks to maintain it. It fixes, stabilizes and holds. It does so because of its limitations. It can repress but it cannot create.

In the planned society there is no incentive to make changes and improvements. Burocracy is innately hostile to change. Private initiative is inherently hospitable. Burocracy finds its triumphs in the status quo; private enterprise in new accomplishments. Mr. Wallace, assuming that the ordered society of governmental management is fixed upon the United States, would then assume that the problem is to slow down without crashing, that every one must be hurt a little in order that many may not be hurt a great deal. If destiny as he sees it were inexorable, his prophecy might be too true, but his first assumption can be discarded.

The planners may retard the development which otherwise would come more quickly to carry civilization ahead, but the probability of their ultimate victory over the desires and forces of people accustomed to a better and freer way of life may be denied. The planners, being wrong, cannot prevail. What they are trying to shackle will be too strong for them. Otherwise we might all be forced to concede the danger if not the inevitability of Mr. Wallace's retreat into the wilderness.

POLITICS AND GOVERNMENT.

It is to be expected as a matter of routine spoils politics that District Attorney Green, being a Republican appointee, must be replaced by a Democrat, although Mr. Green has demonstrated the highest qualifications. He is certainly one of the most competent district attorneys the United States has ever had in this district, if not in fact the most competent. He is fully informed in the duties of his office and in existing conditions, and even if he were succeeded by a man of the same caliber, which is very unlikely, there will be a slowing down at this important stage of the campaign against crime until his successor has learned the ropes. Yet it would seem he must go in order that some other lawyer may be rewarded for his or his backers' party activities or bribed to work for some faction or influential individual and partisan.

This is practical or spoils politics in general operation, though conspicuously illustrated in this instance. Virtually every public employé is selected for similar reasons.

This is one important reason why all public enterprises are extravagant and inefficient, and to the American people who have to pay the price of government extravagance and inefficiency it is a conclusive reason for their determined resistance to the reckless extension of government activities now proposed and carried out at headlong speed. Spoils politics is finding in its coöperation with impractical theorists and power seeking burocrats an opportunity unequaled in our past history.

THE BATTLING ROBINSONS.

It is never quite certain which is David and which is Goliath, but they are both Robinsons, one of Indiana and the other of Arkansas, in this corner the Republican Arthur, in that corner the Democratic Joseph, and as Mr. Garner, presiding over the senate, might say, both members of this club. They sleep with their boxing gloves on and for them to see each other is to tangle.

They are probably very fond of each other. They have battled so much they take a veteran's interest in each other, and the other Conscript Fathers are getting the ringside habit, which is more orderly than participation in a battle royal. When tempers rise out come the Robinsons swinging from the floor and the other senators can watch the fight and cool off.

In recognition of these constant services it would be fitting to provide Arthur and Joseph with water buckets, sponges, and handsome dressing gowns, and Mr. Garner with a stop watch and bell.

At one place along the Appian way there are mounds which the Roman archeologist will tell you are the graves of the three Curiatii of Alba Longa and the Roman Horatii who as champions of their tribes fought to the death as a substitute for a general mêlée which might have been obliterating. Indiana Robinson is the three Curiatii, Arkansas Robinson is the three Horatii and they live to fight another day.

THE REPARATION RACKET.

Just as a matter of curiosity, we occasionally analyze the reports of the interstate commerce commission as they reach us in batches from the government printing office. The objective is to obtain an idea of the principal causes of complaint against our present system of railway rates. The last consignment of printed reports covered cases decided principally on Oct. 10, but carrying dates as late as Oct. 25, and are twelve in number. Eleven of these asked reduced rates and reparation, while one sought a modification of railway packing requirements. Nine were decided in favor of complainants and in every instance reparation was granted. Two asked for reparation and it was denied.

We had hoped that Mr. Eastman would recommend an immediate change in the law to put a stop to the reparation racket if for no other purpose than to lighten the docket of the interstate commerce commission and give its members an opportunity to do some constructive thinking. So long as the reparation power remains with the commission this condition is going to continue, for what shipper will not take a nine to two chance of getting his rate reduced? The benevolent law is not only going to reduce his shipping cost for the future but also provide for attorney's fees and remuneration for his reparation experts —and possibly a little more.

The power to grant reparation should be immediately taken away from the interstate commerce commission in accordance with its own request. If a shipper has been unreasonably damaged by excessive freight rates he can obtain retribution through the courts on production of competent evidence.

Editorial of the Day

THE OLD DEAL AND THE NEW.
[Hokah, Minn., Chief.]

Turn back the pages in your history and see why governments were instituted among men—see what governments were started for. Were they ordained to furnish work for the people? No. Were they intended to give men work? No. Governments were established to protect people in their pursuit of a living. This attitude toward government was recognized in this country until the crash of 1929, when the howl went up from the so-called "progressives" for President Hoover to help those who fell in the crash. There had been crashes before, and nobody had advanced the idea of having the government step in to help. But a bright thought took hold of the progressives, ever alert to put Hoover in a hole. And, with the aid of the Democrats who under Jouett Shouse's nefarious leadership were ready to "smear Hoover," the campaign of government help was so well maneuvered that the people began to expect help. After every other calamity people had wiggled themselves out of their difficulties; now they expected the government to do the wiggling for them. A new era had set in. A new thought had been given birth. When the people, by their own act of living beyond their means, came suddenly up against the stone wall with a bang, it must be the government that would bind their wounds, tie up their heads, take them to the doctor, pay all the bills, and keep their families while they were recovering. Very fine! A new system of government had been inaugurated, and the bleeding began. Every possible way of extorting money from the government was resorted to. Almost over night poor old Uncle Sam was converted from a protector into a Santa Claus who would pass out the Christmas presents right and left for the asking. And what have we today? A people whose whole attitude toward government has changed. We have a citizenry that, instead of helping itself in an emergency, lies helplessly on its back and calls for grandpa. And it will take years of argument to get rid of this perverted idea of the function of government.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"AND WHAT'S THE RUMPUS all about?" asked Giles upon parade. "To lay you off, to lay you off," the greasy camp cook said. "For they're cuttin' down CWA; the easy money's spent; it was fine while the darn stuff lasted, but now it's gone hell bent. No more we'll pat the ground with spades, or count leaves on the trees, no more we'll ride around in trucks, or herd the bumblebees. For they're cutting down CWA, the brain trust says we're through; this stunt was all right for a while, but they've thought up something new."

AN ENGLISH NOVELIST lecturing on our shores announces she will discuss the novel of today, "what it is accused of and what it is trying to do." I know what it's trying to do; it's trying to make you think the heroine was a regular hussy and not let the reader find out until the last chapter that she's really a nice girl at heart, kind to her folks and that she writes a good hand.

"IT IS WELL KNOWN that I am a Republican!" declares C. Arthur Bruce in resigning from the lumber code authority. Spoken like a man! Let Republicans take off their green whiskers and their smoked glasses and come out in the open. Somebody ought to go around in the wild mountain recesses where they're hiding out and announce there's no bounty offered on 'em any more and the open season for shooting 'em is closed. Let the Republicans step right out and admit it and nobody will harm them. And they might get good jobs in museums and side shows.

SONNET LII.

(Monument.)

I wonder: has He given you eyes to see the monument that love and you raised up?
I gave to you in all humility
a little thing more bitter than the cup and you refused, with pride and charming grace, to see the thing in all its ugly light, but stood above me, reading in my face
what lay there for your hate, or your delight.

I wonder too: how was the lesson learned that left no trace upon your level brow?
You, naked in a fire, were not burned;
I cannot understand. I wonder how.

I waited, trembling, the little while you shaped a thing of beauty with your smile.

I BRAGGED SO MUCH last week about the lovely June weather we have in winter in Chicago that I've just got to come right out and admit that Sunday was somewhat—well, Sunday there was, as the poets say, "A touch of autumn in the air." It was what one might call coldish. And there was a little snow. But, of course, freak weather will happen now and then in the best of summer resorts. And as they say in Loz Onglaize when the weather goes haywire, "Goodness, we've never seen a day like this before in forty years!"

AND THE NEWSPAPERS are still baranguing their readers to tell what twelve books they would like to have with them if they were cast away on a desert island. But people aren't cast away on desert islands any more; we're all out of desert islands. Nowadays we're more liable to be cast away into a desert auto, given a long ride and then cast away into a desert basement and the only book we need is a bank book. Besides if one had twelve books he couldn't enjoy them very much with a mean faced gangster sitting by him and poking him in the ribs with a gun and saying: "Lissen, party, if yer folks don't kick in before nex' Mundy it's a goin' ter be jest too bad!" But it's nice to revive memories of desert islands; they must have been such enjoyable places. Of course roving bands of cannibals might land on the island now and then, but cannibals, with all their faults, are really much nicer mannered than kidnapers.

MINERALS IN THE BODY.

MINERALS are important ingredients of the human body, ranking with water, fats, carbohydrates, and proteins. The body of a normal man weighing 150 pounds contains about two pounds of calcium. About one-seventieth of the total weight of the body is due to the calcium content.

The mineral ranking next to calcium in quantity and weight is phosphorus. The body contains nearly a pound and a half of that chemical. Much of the phosphorus present is in combination with the lime.

Third in quantity among the minerals is potassium, of which there is nearly one-half a pound. Of sulphur there is about six ounces; of sodium, three and one-half ounces, and of chlorine a similar quantity. The amount of magnesium is a little more than an ounce.

Another important mineral is iron, but not much of that is required—only about forty-five grains. The iodine content of the body is very much lower—only one-half a grain—but that mineral is a necessity, nevertheless. In addition, minute traces of fluorine, silicon, manganese, and copper are found.

The amount of calcium required daily by an adult doing ordinary work is about 15 grains, about 12 grains of phosphorus, and about one-quarter of a grain of iron. The amount of iodine needed is very small—only about one-twelfth of a grain in a year. The amounts of fluorine, manganese, and copper required are even smaller. We get these minerals in our diet and the average man gets as much of each as he needs.

The amount of lime in the body is large and there is so much wastage that we will not get enough in the diet unless there be intelligent choosing of foods. The foods richest in lime are milk, cheese, and the various foods into which these products enter. Other lime rich foods are nuts, greens, all kinds of grains, provided the outer parts are used; all cereals, flours, pastries, and breads made from whole grains.

Phosphorus is even more important than calcium for many of the body processes, including the maintenance of good teeth. Speaking generally the good lime foods are generally rich in phosphorus.

The body needs 15 to 20 grains of table salt a day. Eating this amount, a person retains in his tissues about as much salt as is needed to keep nutrient materials flowing from the blood to the tissues, and to keep waste flowing in the opposite direction. The amount of salt the body normally contains will hold in the tissues about one gallon of water—the amount necessary to keep the tissues of about the right consistency. More water than that causes a little swelling of the ankles or puffs under the eyes or dropsy. The average man, guided by his taste, will eat about 150 grains of salt a day—ten times his need.

CHILBLAINS.

Many correspondents have sent in suggestions for relief of chilblains. Here are some of them:

Mrs. H. E. H.: Put some powdered alum in warm water and bathe the feet thoroughly. One or two applications should cure and keep from getting frost-bitten again.

A. N.: I lost chilblains years ago by substituting cotton hose for woolen ones in the winter time.

A. C.: Paint the feet with tincture of iodine after they have been bathed in warm water.

J. E. T.: When I was a boy I used to scratch my feet until they bled. One day my father, who was an engineer, came home with a recipe given him by his brakeman. He sent to the meat market for a lard pail filled with beef brine. He put this on the stove and heated it and had me soak my feet in it at the highest temperature I could stand. I do not remember whether this treatment was repeated, but I do know that I have never been bothered since. That was nearly forty years ago. I keep my feet dry, but wear silk hose the year round.

NOT ALWAYS.

K. S. writes: 1. Is an operation necessary for piles?
2. Is the operation dangerous?
3. Are piles inherited?

REPLY.

1. No. Many cases require no treatment. Some require nothing more than regulation of habits. Some need operation.
2. No. However, accidents have been known to happen.
3. No.

BLISTERS IN MOUTH.

T. J. S. writes: What is the cause of blood blisters in the mouth? Under the tongue? I am 48 years old. Blisters have occurred about three times in the last year. I never had them before. I have one today under the tongue three-quarters inch long and one-half inch wide. I live with an aunt who has them constantly. Are they catching?

REPLY.

This is an effect rather than a cause. You should have an examination to discover the cause. Among the possibilities are scurvy, errors in diet, metal in the mouth, smallpox. Contagion is not probable.

DISTRIBUTING ESTATE.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A dies, B, his widow, is left all his estate by will. C is appointed executor by Probate court. 1. Can an executor appointed by court procedure purchase an estate that he is executor of? 2. There were ten children in the case. Have they no voice inasmuch as property was left to widow in will? 3. When said executor purchased this estate several of the children were under age. He approached each one as he or she became of age and asked them to sign off their rights to this property. Why was he doing this if the property was left to the widow in the will? 4. We are advised that this case is one of conspiracy and fraud on the part of the executor, as he seems not to have performed his duties as such. What is your opinion? 5. Can we prosecute this party even though this happened a number of years back. A. G.

1. Ordinarily an executor or other court officer should not become the purchaser at a judicial sale which he is handling. In special circumstances the court might approve the executor's purchasing assets where there was a complete disclosure of all material facts, but the court might, on the other hand, insist that he should first resign as executor.
2. No.
3. Conceivably there was some basis of question as to the validity of the will. Obviously we do not have the facts before us.
4. We are not in a position to say.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

INADEQUATE SEWERS.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—Will it be possible to have the sewers in our neighborhood cleaned? We have lived in our present location for twenty-four years and have never had any trouble with a flooded basement until last year, at which time, whenever it rained, we, as well as our neighbors, have had considerable water in our basements. Will it be possible to have the CWA do this work? A. C. A.

The main sewer serving the premises in question is a 12 inch main. It is in good condition, but during a rainfall of more than ordinary intensity it, and the system it is part of, proves inadequate to run off the increased volume of water. Relief sewers are planned to remedy such conditions, but they cannot be installed at the present time. This class of work does not fit into the CWA program. The chief purposes of the CWA is to put the maximum number of employés to work on projects calling for a minimum of expenditure for equipment, tools and materials. Sewer construction would largely reverse this purpose because the expenditure for equipment, trucks, castings, and tools would nearly equal the expenditure for labor.

GEORGE E. McGRATH,
Superintendent, Bureau of Sewers.

ALIMONY SETTLEMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I paid my wife a lump sum [settled in court] about three years ago. 1. Could she reopen the case? 2. I haven't a job or any money. R. B.

1. It is the legal theory that there is a public policy behind alimony payments. Hence the courts do not regard themselves as conclusively bound by a private agreement of the parties. A lump sum settlement can on proper proof be reopened.
2. On these facts it does not seem likely that anything would be done.

From Across the Sea

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—In England the cost of living is going down.

It has been going down steadily since 1925, figures given out by the ministry of labor show, and even during the last month has gone down 1 per cent.

The only price increases on record in the last twelve months are in milk, which has gone up a half cent a quart, and bacon, which has risen 4½ cents a pound. Both of these products are now controled by government marketing schemes. It is significant that they are the only ones in which price increases are noted.

The only other item in which there has been any increase is rents. This is due, it is explained, to the so-called decontrolling acts, lifting the restrictions imposed on landlords and allowing them to charge what the traffic will bear.

The Ministry of Labor Gazette contains some striking figures showing just how far the cost of living has fallen. The index figure for clothing is now 85, compared with 90 at this time last year and 130 in 1925. The cost of fuel and light has also diminished. Retail prices of coal dropped from between 30 and 35 [the index figure] to from 70 to 75, while gas has gone down from 50 to 45 and lamp oil from 20 to 15.

The greatest drop in living costs was recorded in 1930 to 1931. It is calculated that living costs in 1933, as compared to 1914, show an increase of about 42 per cent. In 1925, when the steady rise that began during the war and continued in the post-war years came to a halt and the drop began, the cost of living was 76 per cent above the pre-war level.

Here is what the English housewife pays now for various staples compared with what she paid in 1914 and 1925:

	Today.	1914.	1925.
British beef [ribs]	$0.22	$0.20	$0.27
Leg of mutton	.28	.21	.41
Bacon	.26	.22	.36
Milk	.13	.07	.13½
Butter	.29	.29	.56
Tea	.45	.37	.60
Eggs [each]	.04	.02½	.06
Potatoes [7 lbs.]	.10	.09½	.20

These prices are compiled by investigators of the ministry of labor, who call at representative shops all over the country.

DENIAL FROM WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—My attention has been called to a Washington dispatch in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of Feb. 12, under the heading, "Resignation of Currency Chief Seen in Offing." Assuming that this story was published in good faith, you will be interested to learn that it is almost completely inaccurate.

In repeated interviews Mr. J. F. T. O'Connor has stated that he is not interested in becoming the Democratic candidate for governor of California. It is true that great pressure has been brought to bear upon him to accept the nomination by many of the leaders in California, and many of the newspapers have advocated his becoming a candidate. The fact that he has no interest in the gubernatorial race has been printed frequently in various newspapers, and if your correspondent who wrote the story is an active newspaper man he could hardly have been in ignorance of these published statements. Mr. O'Connor was not a candidate for his present position and declined it on two occasions. He did not desire to leave his law practice in Los Angeles, but accepted the controlership at the earnest request of the President.

The statement that there is "an open breach" between Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Mr. O'Connor is untrue. I know that Mr. O'Connor has the highest regard for Mr. Morgenthau, and I know that the feeling is reciprocated. At the recent press conference Secretary Morgenthau, when asked if Mr. O'Connor was to quit as controler of the currency, replied: "That question is so silly that I will not even answer it." In his speech at the American Acceptance council annual dinner in New York City on Jan. 29, 1934, Controler O'Connor said: "Mr. Morgenthau approaches his problems with great deliberation. He has a mind which quickly analyzes a situation and the ability to carry through a conclusion once determined. It is a pleasure to be associated with him in the work of the treasury."

The reference in the Feb. 12 article to me as Controler O'Connor's "personal press agent" is incorrect. I am director of publicity for the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, and my only source of income is from that corporation. I have given factual information to the press regarding the activities of the controler's department, but all such data were given to all newspapers, including THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Such releases are approved, before being released, by Mr. Herbert E. Gaston, who assists the secretary of the treasury. When Mr. O'Connor first took office, newspaper men complained that they were not getting enough information about the activities of the controler's office, and, at the suggestion of the newspaper men, I have attempted to give them factual information.

The article referred to says that I deny the charge that information has been sent exclusively to coast newspapers. This is pure imagination, since I have never been asked the question by any one, and, consequently, could not have denied it.

It is equally untrue that Mr. O'Connor has aroused hostility by his efforts to "dislodge officials of the Deposit Insurance corporation in behalf of his political satellites." He has made no such efforts. He has no better friend than Walter J. Cummings, and if your correspondent would take the trouble to read the speech the controler made when Mr. Cummings resigned and his reference to his associates on the Federal Deposit Insurance board he would readily see how untrue every statement was.

W. KENNETH HAYNS,
Director of Publicity, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

ENLIGHTENMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—In THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE of Feb. 11 there are two items which stand in glaringly sharp contrast. The first, under the captain "Chinese Museum Opens Campaign on Superstition," reports that China, a country in travail from disruption and invasion, is turning to the realities of life, to the foundation of established scientific facts for guidance, and is turning its back on superstition. Evidence of this is found in the exhibits of the Peiping Educational museum.

The second item announces that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is about to open a feature, thereby lending its tacit endorsement, for the dissemination of superstition: "Tribune Graphic Section to have horoscope page—Astrological feature begins next Sunday"—baseless, irrational superstition cloaked and clouded in a routine and ritual of pseudo-science to give it the false semblance of authority, companion of the black arts. Confusing, misguiding verbiage, mummery, chicanery attend it.

Whether of the twain, this Chinese museum or THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE stooping to lend its authority to the folly and charlatanism of astrology, shows more enlightenment?

PHILIP FOX,
Director, the Adler Planetarium.

THE REPORTER, AS USUAL, WAS RIGHT.

New York, Feb. 8.—In reply to criticisms of THE TRIBUNE'S report on the address by Dr. Clayton S. Rice of Billings, Mont., at the Congregational and Christian national boards' dinner in the Stevens building restaurant Jan. 26, in connection with which my name as publicity secretary of the denomination has been mentioned, may I state that Dr. Rice considered the report good? He is in New York at the present time and I have discussed the report with him. It is to the credit of THE TRIBUNE'S keen sense of news values that it reported what some of Dr. Rice's hearers apparently did not catch, namely, his charge that the competitive spirit strongly prevails among the denominations in the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America and in its affiliated organization, the Home Missions council. Dr. Rice spoke as superintendent in Montana and as president of the Council of State Superintendents of Congregational and Christian Churches.

QUESTION.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Would it be asking too much to inquire whether the fire that destroyed the worthless old barn on President Roosevelt's farm occurred before he became a humanitarian or did he return the $4,000 which he received for the loss of the barn to the fire insurance company? F. H. C.

OPENING THE FAIR EARLY.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Urge the legislature to authorize opening A Century of Progress Exposition not later than April 28; then the school children, recessing for the week of spring vacation, can attend, and will mightily advertise the big show. [They might be admitted at a special price]. Better a month earlier for a start than extension into winter. A half million children attending the Fair for a week would surely awaken Chicago people, and indirectly the larger public. C. C. DEAN.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

U. S. AWARDS DSC TO REED LANDIS FOR WAR HEROISM

Shot Down Ten Enemy Ships; Ranked 6th Flyer.

Belated recognition of the war exploits of Reed Landis, United States aviation ace, came yesterday with the announcement from Washington that he had been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action.

Capt. Landis, son of former Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, was given official credit for shooting down ten German planes during the war. This record placed him sixth in the list of American war aces.

Blame Delay on "Red Tape."

Capt. Landis' friends maintain that the official red tape which forced him to remain on the ground during the final month of active fighting in the war, and, at another time, left him "lost to the records" for several months, kept him from receiving the decorations to which he was entitled during the war.

A lieutenant when he entered the war, Landis was assigned to the British air corps and in April, 1918, joined the 40th squadron of the English air forces. While serving with this organization he achieved his record of shooting down 10 enemy planes. Then a slip-up in the records left him and other Americans who were assigned to the British army unpaid and "lost to the records" for several months.

Elevated to Captaincy.

On Sept. 15, 1918, he was commissioned as a captain and was transferred to the United States air corps. Another official error brought a delay in the transfer of planes and other fighting equipment from the British base to the new station of Capt. Landis and his command.

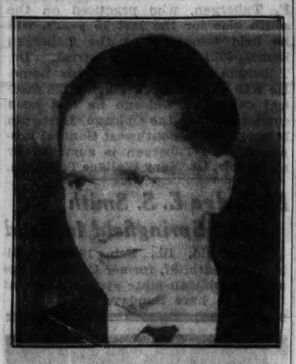
Finally becoming impatient of the delay, Capt. Landis and his men went to England and flew the planes across the channel to Orly, the receiving depot in France. Another failure of the record department to function brought further delay and kept the new Landis command from taking the air before the end of the war.

Official Citation.

The belated citation for the D. S. C. was as follows: "Reed Gresham Landis, formerly captain, 148th United States aero squadron attached to 40th squadron, Royal Air forces, British Expeditionary forces, for extraordinary heroism in action. During a general engagement west of Brieve on Aug. 12, 1918, he singled out an enemy plane and shot it down. While on patrol over Lens on Aug. 13, 1918, he engaged four enemy triplanes and one biplane in decisive combat, and, despite the numerical superiority of the enemy, he destroyed two of their planes and forced the others to withdraw.

"On Aug. 19, 1918, while leading a patrol of five planes he encountered and unhesitatingly attacked eight enemy Fokker scouts, one of which he shot down. During the combat several other enemy planes joined the action from above, and, observing one of these attacking a member of his patrol, he climbed up under it and firing at point-blank range shot it down."

HONORED BY U. S.



Reed Landis, awarded Distinguished Service Cross yesterday by war department.

STATE RESTS AS WIDOW KENNEDY GIVES HER STORY

Planned to Rewed Doctor, She Asserts.

Greenwood, Miss., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Defense attorneys for Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, charged with murder in the strange death last August of Dr. John Preston Kennedy, moved unsuccessfully for a directed verdict of acquittal late today when the state rested its case.

The state rested as the trial went into its fourth week after putting on the stand its climax witness, the pretty 33 year old divorced wife of Dr. Kennedy. She testified that she and her former husband were about to be remarried when he was stricken with a strange ten-day fatal illness.

The witness named Dr. Dean, charged with murdering Kennedy with a poisoned whisky highball, as "the other woman" in the Kennedy marital troubles.

Assertes Charges Unproved.

On cross-examination, she testified her divorce grounds were "cruel and inhuman treatment," explaining she meant Dr. Dean and her relations with Preston."

When District Attorney Arthur Jordan announced "the state rests," defense Attorney A. F. Gardner moved for a directed acquittal, claiming the murder charge had not been proved. Presiding Judge S. F. Davis heard brief arguments before overruling the defense plea.

The defense contended that the reputed dying statement of Dr. Kennedy charging Dr. Dean with poisoning him "was incompetent and has been discredited" and that the state had failed to show Kennedy was poisoned, or if poisoned, whether the potion was self-administered or administered by others.

Talks About Insurance.

In explaining her divorce petition, Mrs. Kennedy said she had not mentioned Dr. Dean in it "for my daughter's sake."

She said her husband's insurance policies payable to her provided no double indemnity would be paid if death was caused by poison "whether taken voluntarily or otherwise," but admitted under cross-examination she had discussed suits for double indemnity with attorneys.

Referring to her testimony that she had gone to Panama last August for a planned re-marriage to her husband, Defense Attorney Dick Denman asked if she had saved the letters she said her husband wrote her there.

"I tore them up," she said.

Carries Bomb and 7 Guns; Held on 3 Police Charges

William Runge, 33 years old, 3114 North Harding avenue, a bartender, was charged with obliterating the serial numbers on a revolver, with carrying concealed weapons and with disorderly conduct last evening by police who seized him several days ago as an aid of the George Roy Baker gang of labor terrorists and robbers. When Runge was arrested by Lieut. Ralph Cheney in a saloon at 3518 Armitage avenue, he was found to be carrying seven revolvers, a bomb and 150 rounds of ammunition in a brief case.

JAPAN'S CABINET PERILED; PARTY CHIEF QUITS DIET

Unrest Grows as Fascists Hunt Leaders.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 19.—The fate of the Japanese cabinet hung in the balance tonight as the result of the resignation of Keisuke Mochizuki, one of the outstanding leaders of the Seiyukai party, from the lower house of parliament.

It is generally felt that Mochizuki's action will precipitate the disruption of the Seiyukai party. Mochizuki is a former cabinet member and one of the pillars of the party.

It is admitted that this action and the likelihood that Premier Makoto Saito will be forced to ask for the resignation of Ichiro Hatoyama as minister of education will seal the cabinet's fate and pave the way for the entrance of a semi-Fascist régime. Leaders who are capable of creating such a government, however, are not in sight. This adds to the public unrest.

Probe China's Use of U. S. Loan.

TOKIO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Reports that a portion of America's $50,000,000 cotton and wheat loan to China is being used in the expansion of Chinese airdromes at Foochow and Amoy will be the subject shortly of Japanese diplomatic representations to China, it was learned today.

A Japanese foreign office spokesman said Akira Ariyoshi, minister to China, had been instructed to ask the Nanking Nationalist government to confirm or deny the reports.

In the event of confirmation, the spokesman said, Ariyoshi will warn China that such use of foreign funds violates China's pledge not to employ borrowed money in military establishments along the Fukien province coast.

The spokesman said that many reports concerning Fukien air bases had reached Tokio "from Japanese consuls and agents in other departments of the Japanese government."

One of these, he asserted, was that "officers of an American gunboat lying off Foochow during the recent disturbances [in Fukien province] went ashore and inspected proposed airdrome extension plans."

Koki Hirota, foreign minister, told the house of peers Feb. 6 that Japan was endeavoring to learn whether a secret treaty exists between the United States and China which obliges Americans to assist in China's aviation development.

No Inquires to U. S.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Japanese government has made no inquiries through the state department whether the United States and China have a secret treaty which obligates Americans to assist in China's aviation development, or whether any portion of the $50,000,000 cotton and wheat loan made to China has been used for expansion of Chinese airdromes.

If such inquires do come, it will be assured that the United States enters into secret treaties with no nation and that the $50,000,000 loan was for the properly regulated purchase of American cotton and wheat.

Reveal Secret Marriage of Virginia Dixon

Couple Tell Parents, Leave on Honeymoon.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WE HAVE romantic news of a startling nature with which to head our column this morning, the announcement of the marriage of Miss Virginia Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Dixon of 2410 Lake View avenue, to Howard Buhse of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maximilliam Buhse of St. Paul, Minn.

The young couple were married some time ago but kept it a secret from every one until Sunday, when they notified the mothers and fathers and then left immediately for a honeymoon in Palm Beach. They are motoring south and will spend about a month with Mrs. Buhse's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. Parker Bryant, at their home at Lake Worth. The Bryants were married last April and have been living in Florida ever since.

Mrs. Buhse and Mrs. Bryant [Betty Dixon] made a joint début in the winter of 1929-'30 after the former had finished at Westover and the latter at Dobbs Ferry. They are the second and third of the Homer Dixons' six children, the others being Mrs. Woodberry S. Agar Jr. [Katharine Dixon], Miss Ethel Dixon, who made her début a year ago; Lucia and Homer L. Jr., who both are still in school.

No details as to when or where the wedding took place were obtainable yesterday but one bit of information that we learned by hearing the bride's aunt, Mrs. Paul Walker, call the bridegroom by name, we will pass on to those who don't know him. His name is pronounced as if it were spelled Boo-say.

Miss Beatrice Kirk Returns from New York.

Early yesterday afternoon Miss Beatrice Kirk returned from a three weeks around of gayety in New York with her mother, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, ready to complete the plans for her early spring wedding to Capt. C. Ross Cuthbert.

Miss Kirk and Capt. Cuthbert are to be married at 4:30 the afternoon of April 14 in a very simple ceremony in the drawing room of Mrs. Kirk's country home at 1000 East Illinois road, Lake Forest. Only 30 relatives and intimate friends will witness the ceremony and attend the reception following the service.

Mrs. Lawrence Williams [the former Barbara Kirk] will be her sister's only attendant. Bruce Harvey of New York and London is coming from the east to serve Capt. Cuthbert as best man. After their marriage Capt. Cuthbert and his bride are to have a spring honeymoon in England, returning in June to make their home at least temporarily in Chicago.

Seaver B. Buck to Lecture Here.

The alumni and parents of students at the Berkshire school are preparing themselves for an interesting week-end. Seaver B. Buck of the school is arriving in town Friday to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson —Mr. Wilson is a trustee of Berkshire —and to speak that morning at the Boys' Latin school and that night at the Berkshire alumni dinner, which will be held in the polo room of the Ambassador East.

Mr. Buck is going to be a very busy man during the three days he is here, for between his talk Friday morning and his speech that evening at the alumni dinner, which will be illustrated by movies of the school, he will meet many alumni and parents of Berkshire students at a tea Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are giving for him in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress—Mr. Fentress is also a trustee of the Berkshire school—will be Mr. Buck's host and hostess Saturday and Sunday. Saturday afternoon they are giving a tea for him and the next day he will return east. Joseph King is the third of the three Chicago trustees of the school.

Luncheon Sunday for Cornelia Otis Skinner.

Mrs. John L. Cochran and Mrs. Richard Bentley are issuing invitations for a luncheon Sunday at the Casino for their Bryn Mawr classmate, Cornelia Otis Skinner [in private life Mrs. Alden Sanford Blodget], who arrives Sunday morning to open her week's engagement Monday night at the Selwyn theater.

Several Bryn Mawr graduates will have an opportunity to renew acquaintance with Miss Skinner at the luncheon party, but more of them will see her again when they take their places back of the footlights Monday night for her opening performance of "The Loves of Charles II." The Bryn Mawr College club of Chicago has taken over the theater that evening for the benefit of its scholarship fund.

Some time shortly after this gala night in the theater Mrs. Cochran expects to get away to the west coast for a short visit with her mother and father, Dr. and Mrs. Murray P. Brush, who are now living at Covina, Cal., where the California Preparatory school of which Dr. Brush is headmaster, is located.

Before she comes home Mrs. Cochran will also stop to see Mr. Cochran's mother, Mrs. Ellicott Evans, who has gone from her home in Santa Barbara to winter in Tucson.

Tots Will Model at Fashion Show.

Four future daughters of Wellesley will probably steal the limelight as well as much of the applause this afternoon when the Chicago Wellesley club holds a bridge, fashion show, and tea for the benefit of its scholarship fund in the gold coast room of the Drake. These small tots are going to model the latest in sub-sub-deb wear.

The senior of the little mannequins will be 12 year old Mary Kay Howard,

Milstein Again Shows Skill as Sincere Artist

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Nathan Milstein, the violinist, has been coming here for two seasons as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and is billed for other appearances with the orchestra in about a month. His recital at Orchestra hall last night was therefore both a summing up and a forerunner of why he is one of the important figures in the musical world today.

His value is less that of the brilliant virtuoso than of the sincere musician, and that in spite of the fact that there is apparently nothing in the way of display to daunt him if he cares to enter upon it. It would seem, however, that he prefers to play sonatas by Handel and Beethoven wherein fireworks are at a discount than to dazzle his hearers with pieces where they are not.

He did one thing last night, however, that few violinists have undertaken in public. It was to play the Bach Chaconne, which occurs frequently enough, to be sure, but to include with it four other movements from the Partita in D minor. This was a performance that only as great an artist as Milstein could contemplate.

After a journey through so rarefied an atmosphere it was well to come closer to mundane things in music, so for the second part of his program he played shorter pieces, one of the Paganini Caprices, his own arrangement of one of the Chopin Nocturnes, the dance from de Falla's "La Vida Breve," and others of like nature, and all with the same mastery and exquisite finish that he had put on the preceding and more elaborate compositions.

The Monte Carlo Ballet Russe will give its first American performance of de Falla's "Three Cornered Hat" at the Auditorium tonight. With it will be Schumann's "Carnival," which has not been seen since the Diaghileff company did it, and the fiery dances from "Prince Igor."

The Southern Woman's club will present a colonial tea and musical in the House on the Roof of the Hotel Sherman Thursday afternoon. Hazel Eden and Neppie Melton, sopranos; Emery Darcy and Leonard Huber, baritones; Marie Fulcher, violinist; Marie Hartung, cellist, and a quartet from the Little Opera company will give the musical program. A costumed group of dancers will be seen in the old fashioned minuet, and Jean Shumway and Ellis Morgan will offer a feature dance.

Professor Deplores Immaturity of Coddled Youth of America

A contrast between the "coddled and information pumped" American youth and the mature, idealistic European youth, was described by Dr. Abram Leon Sachar, professor of history at the University of Illinois, in an address before the education department of the Chicago Woman's club yesterday. During his discussion of "Overdoing the Youth Problem," Dr. Sachar voiced his opposition to the American custom of segregating its youth from the important social, economic, and political tieups of the day.

Whether because of bitter suffering or more intense political problems European youth movements are characterized by sincere dedication to an ideal, Dr. Sachar explained. "Some have found their ideals in communism, Fascism, or Nazism," he said, "but, nevertheless, they are well organized and regarded as a tremendous influence in the nation's affairs."

Thinking About Vacation Trip

Perhaps it is the prospect of a trip to California via New York and the Panama canal that is bringing this cheery smile to the lips of Miss Anne Byron Smith. She and her mother, Mrs. Harold C. Smith, and her sister, Miss Betty Smith, are leaving soon after the first of March to be away about five weeks. They are taking a car with them so that they can motor home from California, perhaps stopping off in Phoenix for a week or so on their way east. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Flowers Again Adorn Hats of the Springtime

BY RHEA SEEGER.

It's so long since you selected a pet chapeaux trimmed with flowers that you gasp when you see the newest straw effects you'll be smart and wear as soon as possible . . . cunning dipped creations with a fluted section wickedly plaited over the right eye and anchored with a bouquet of very realistic field flowers. The straw is a brilliant red and the nosegay is composed of daisies, cornflowers, a poppy or two, and some green spikes of grass or funny leaves.

It is, indeed, a long time since the best lids boasted this feminine adornment, so make the most of it, all you discontented darlings who have tired of tailored and prim simplicity.

You can't overlook the navy blue and yellow color combine unless you are frightfully color blind . . . everything from hankies to handbags has this new springy influence of a streak of yellow which in this instance does not mean any particular fashion cowardice, unless you totally ignore the duet.

Fluttery, frank canary shades of yellow fashion blouses that are tucked perkily under the snug, snappy silhouette of a navy blue suit jacket. Quantities of bright yellow scarfs are getting a good new neckhold on all kinds of navy blue costumes. Everywhere you shop you'll see this yellow light of smartness. Yellow sweaters, yellow gloves, yellow bands and belts, yellow bouquets for your tailored suit lapel, and all the refreshing costume accents you can manage should be this saffron hue if you would be a block or so ahead of the big parade.

All yellow straw hats seem a bit giddy in print, but are sartorial successes with dark suits and wool street ensembles. Try them and see for yourself the swank of this fresh spring shade.

LADY going away for a rest. You ARE excited about going away, aren't you? we said to a friend who was leaving town that evening for the south.

Certainly; if you don't get excited yourself about going away, nobody else does, she answered logically enough.

She was reclining on a chaise longue, and Tillie, the pedicure who comes to the house, was tinting her nails. [Not such a dark color, Tillie. Don't you think that shade is a little violent for the south?] Louise, who speaks only French, was busy in the adjoining room folding dresses and packing bags. [Louise, don't muddle that paper so loud while I'm talking over the telephone.] A maid came in with a box.

My dressing gown. Paul made it, and it's exactly like the one Greta Garbo wears in "Queen Christina." See? It's made of double satin. Isn't it divine?

She held up a tailored robe of white satin, and it was exactly like that one Garbo wears in "Queen Christina."

THERE are evening gowns in that bag, and sport clothes in that one, and negligees and lingerie in that one, and shoes in that one, she continued. That's my hat box, and that one is filled with the latest victrola records. I've taken all my best evening dresses too, because, although I'm going for a rest, you never know . . . And, my dear, I've practically bought out the drug store. Two of everything. Small sizes for the train, and big ones for after I get there. Although I suppose I could get more there if I needed it . . . And that little bag has a traveling cushion and blanket inside it. Isn't it darling? I've got my own bed linen, too.

Darling—this to her husband who entered the room—will you get out a bottle of sherry for me to take on the train? And I think I'll wear the white freesias and keep the orchids to wear when I arrive. They'll keep, since the stems are in that tube of water.

HELLO! O, hello, angel. It was sweet of you to telephone. I'm thrilled to death over going. . . . I can't. I'm having my feet done. I've had a frightfully busy day. Some last fittings, and a facial, and my legs zipped and my hair done . . . Yes, I'm going for a rest. Do come to the train.

She hung up the telephone.

Louise, don't forget to put in my traveling clock and that picture frame. And the little pottery horse . . . No, I'll carry the horse right in my hand. It pleases me to have the little horse right with me.

Do you have to go, darling. Isn't it thrilling! Mary has wired several exciting people she knows to say I'm coming . . . O yes, I'll get a grand rest. I've simply got to. Do try to come to the train, won't you? Alice is coming, and Tom, and Edith. It'll be fun . . . O, I'm going to do nothing but rest.

"Ten Minute Alibi" Offers First Rate Cast.

"TEN MINUTE ALIBI."

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Murder mystery dramas, as a rule, are inferior in ingenuity and plausibility to murder mystery fiction. They are, in general, the work of hacks rather than gifted builders of persuasive plots. But the new one that came into Chicago's view last night at the Erlanger theater, under the auspices of the American Theater society, is different. You can confess that it is your hobby without a sense of shame.

"Ten Minute Alibi" is the play's title, and it comes from the London stage, where melodrama is taken seriously, by way of New York, where it has been one of the hits of the current season. It is a neat, workmanlike, interesting presentation of the facts of a murder case in which the slayer is the hero. It is, moreover, effectively acted by a first rate cast.

This play is a novelty in several of its aspects. First, it exhibits the commission of the murder twice—as a dream, and, with variations of minor detail, in reality. Second, the murderer is not depicted as a master mind, capable of inventing a crime that will defy the best talent of Scotland Yard, but as a nervous, overstrained young man who finds the technique for his slaying in dreams from a drugged cigaret—given to him by his future victim. Third, the criminal is represented as having performed a useful service to the world in ridding it of a despicable character, and goes free in defiance of the accepted standards of law and order.

Scotland Yard—or one of the two efficient representatives of that detective bureau who investigate the crime during the last act—becomes aware, at the end of the play, that a guilty man is escaping. This revelation is the surprise of the play, and is a touch too plausible, too realistic, to be called a trick. It is, however, one of the points that reviewers should not disclose. I may hint, however, that it is concerned with a clock striking the hour of six. Count the strokes, you customers of "Ten Minute Alibi," and get a kick.

The character so enjoyably killed—with his own pistol which wears a Maxim silencer—is engaged in the traffic of taking affectionate girls on illicit honeymoons to Paris, and then selling them to the Argentine Republic. In other words, he is a white slaver who fulfills every worry of the league of nations. He is about to turn a young modern named Betty into his particular kind of merchandise when her own true lover, a poor barrister, steps into the picture, bent upon stopping the white slave traffic at any cost.

Thus the dreamed murder of the first act; the actual murder of the second act, with nervous aberrations from plan that the last night's audience regarded as comedy; and the futile police investigation of the last act. That latter episode, I may add, is particularly good of its kind. The officers' intelligent treatment of the clews, coming nearer and nearer to a solution, creates taut suspense.

The central rôle of the sensitive and haggard slayer is admirably played by Bramwell Fletcher, a seasoned English actor now in his first season on the American stage. The debonair seducer and panderer is crisply acted by Sebastiano Bragglotti. Reynolds Denniston is an important last act character as a baffled bulldog of Scotland Yard.

Two weeks hence "Double Door," one of this season's crop of dramas in New York, will be offered as the fourth play in the American Theater society's season at the Erlanger.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924.

CARD VALUATION.

SINCE bidding is essentially an attempt to find out how many tricks you may hope to take in the eventual play of the hand, we must value high cards in terms of tricks.

P. HAL SIMS.

When opening the bidding one seldom knows for sure whether one will be the declarer or play the hand in defense. At this stage it is therefore vital to count as trick winners only such cards or combinations of cards as can be depended upon to capture tricks in either case. These we term "primary tricks." Other values are termed "secondary values]" or "protective intermediates."

Primary tricks are high cards which should be able to capture the first or second lead of a suit.

Table of Primary Tricks.

Two tricks. Ace king of the same suit.

One and a half tricks. Ace queen of the same suit.

One trick. [1] An ace or [2] king queen of the same suit.

Half trick. A king accompanied by or more smaller cards.

Not more than two primary tricks can be counted in any one suit, because if the opponents play the hand the third round will probably be trumped.

Valuing the Queen Jack Small Combination.

You are probably accustomed to counting this holding as a half trick under all conditions. With this I disagree and at certain periods of the bidding I give this holding rebid or secondary value only.

I feel that it is unsatisfactory to give the same value to this combination as a king in either first or second hand, because:

[1] In itself it is useless for slams. Should the ace of the suit be located in partner's hand there is still no assurance that a trick will not be lost in the suit.

[2] This so-called half trick may prove extremely disappointing in defense. Against a high suit contract the third round of our queen-jack suit is likely to be trumped.

It is very risky to double a game no trump bid through reliance on this holding as a stopper. The declarer will often be able to clear and keep leading his long suit and so squeeze your protective cards out of you, forcing a fatal discard to keep another suit guarded.

When Valued as a Half Trick.

[a] If your partner has already passed little danger exists that he will carry the bidding too high, thinking he has located a king.

[b] If you are making an overcall.

[c] If you are giving a response bid. Certain reservations apply to this.

Reasons for Giving Queens and Jacks No Primary Trick Value.

Jacks and jack-tens are accorded no primary trick values, even in combination with higher cards, that is, A J or K J. I do not underrate the importance of these cards in the play of the hand, even in defense, but I consider it unsafe to include them automatically in the original bid. They do not supply the quick control which the original bid must provide if your partner is to feel safe in bidding a slam or doubling the opponents through reliance on the soundness of your bid.

I look on them as strictly secondary values. Be assured, however, that their helpfulness is not overlooked. The nature of my partner's response will enable me to judge the usefulness of these low honors and to incorporate them in my subsequent bidding, without risk of disappointment.

For the same reason a queen with two small cards carries no primary valuation. I cannot expect it to reinforce a high card in my partner's hand and thus produce a trick until he shows me that he holds some face cards; it is therefore only a secondary value.

Good Morning!

You remember—for who could forget!—King Kong, the monster ape discovered on a south sea isle and transported to New York, which he wrecked? Well—King Kong had a wife or a girl friend who had loved him not wisely but too well. UNLESS, on that weird bit of rockbound land and jungle jutting from the ocean, a Kong occasionally—like Topsy—"just growed." To elucidate:

Robert Armstrong, who [as Robert Denham] in the first Kong picture discovered and stage managed Papa Kong to the grief of both, returns to the island, there to meet a little chip of the old block. A chip 12 feet tall, to be sure, but as compared to his sire, still a chip.

Denham, sailing the seven seas in a trading schooner captained by the man with whom he had first visited the island, is lured there again by a sailor's assertion that it contains hidden treasure.

The sailor is a rogue, as events prove in no time. He has killed an old circus man who, with his daughter, had conducted a small show on the island where the picture opens. The girl appeals to Armstrong for protection . . . later we find both her and the sailor aboard Denham's vessel.

Hilda hides in the hold till the boat is well under way. When finally discovered, it's too late to put her off.

Helstrom incites fear of the island and its inhabitants in the hearts of the crew. . . . Mutiny. . . . Three men and a girl in a life boat are finally beached on the isle. . . .

And then their adventures start. Strange animals, throwbacks to the mammoths of another age, stalk them. Kong's little boy, rescued by the visitors from quicksands, becomes their savior, watch dog and tag-a-long. . . .

And so and so. . . .

This is the sort of picture that the child in all of us loves. Big men, youngsters and some women I know chuckled whole heartedly as it unreeled, and the last were not too blase to feel a pang of sorrow as—never mind!

The "King Kong" sets were re-utilized for this movie, and the huge manufactured animals seem surprisingly real. A love story of sorts unreels, but it's of incidental interest. Acting's oke.

See you tomorrow.

Film Actors in Crash on Indiana Highway During Snow Flurry

Several motion picture actors, members of a group making a national good will tour by automobile, were shaken up yesterday afternoon when one of the machines collided with another car in a snow flurry on the highway near Valparaiso, Ind. The caravan automobile in which Anna Q. Nielson and Antonio Morino were riding overturned, but they escaped with minor bruises. Two other machines in the caravan struck the wreckage but were not damaged. In these cars Mary Carlyle, Roscoe Ates, and Ben Turpin were riding.

The wrecked machine was taken to Valparaiso, where repairs will be made. Miss Nielson and Morino boarded a train for Milwaukee while the rest of the thirty automobiles in the caravan continued to that city.

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring, though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce and uses this as an excuse to oppose their marriage. When Barbara determines to marry Rance regardless, her father has a stroke. Barbara fears he'll kill himself deliberately.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

A FINAL EMBRACE.

Barbara tried to withdraw her hand from her father's grasp, but as he clung to her she began to tremble, overcome by the wildness in his eyes.

"Then you want me to die! You both want me to die!" he cried, infuriated by her resistance. "You want me to die so that you can go to him."

"Father!"

"Well, then, yes, I'm going to die, going to die to save you, do you hear! Yes, to save you! For when I'm dead, when he's killed me you can't—no, no, never, not with my curse upon you—"

Barbara wrenched her hand away with a shriek. The nurse running in found her in hysterics and Brawne with blazing eyes, gibbering, half out of bed.

Barbara rushed down the stairs and out of the house. She stumbled and caught at the trunk of the great elm, leaning against it as she gazed in horror up at the lighted window. The shadow of the nurse passed and repassed. For a moment of abject weakness she stood shivering with the memory of her father's terrible words racking her brain. The window was open and she heard his voice shrill and inarticulate mingled with the sharp calm commands of the nurse. Then she turned and fled blindly. When she recovered herself she was in the garden by the pool. She crouched down beside it, sunk her arms into the healing cold of the waters and bathed her hot face.

"I can't fight any more," she said out loud. She was trembling all over, prey to sudden recurring counteractions. She continued to bathe her forehead, with numb mechanical motions, until she could regain the calm necessary to go and meet Gregory. The moon was full and bright above her. The night still, without a flutter in the trees. She stretched out on her back, her hands beneath her head and lay gazing up into the luminous eyes of the night, until a certain unearthly detachment came to heal the disorder of her senses. She remained thus an hour perhaps and then rising crossed the gardens and went by the river path to meet her lover.

"Everything was as I wished it to be. Remember that."

He heard her coming and hurried to meet her.

"Barbara."

"How late you are tonight."

"Yes."

"Bad time?"

"Delirious again."

He looked at her intently.

"You aren't telling me the truth. You never do."

"What's the use?"

"What torture to wait here helplessly and know what you're going through!"

She took his head in her hands and gazed deep into his eyes.

"And you, dear?"

"I? I don't count. But you—have you got the strength, the courage?"

I have strength," she said quietly. Her hands still held his, her eyes still searched his face.

"O, my dear," she cried suddenly, "what I am making you suffer! And it's all wrong, wrong and inhuman."

"Inhuman, damnably, incredibly inhuman!"

She saw the fear in his eyes, drew her arms about his neck and raised her lips. He trembled at the touch, crushing her body into his arms, blotting it out against him to still the despair in his heart, thinking:

"Sooner or later, he'll beat me—he'll wear her down sooner or later—beat me!"

Suddenly she drew her lips from his and throwing back her head, cried:

"O, my dear, my dear, you'll never know how I love you!"

Her arms were firm about his neck. Her eyes were so near that only they were clear in the blurred outline of her face. He took a quick, deep breath, tried to loosen her arms.

"My darling, be careful! I—I can't stand much more—"

Her arms tightened. She began to laugh, that low, strange laugh that excited every sense within him.

"Barbara!"

"Hush. Nothing matters but us."

Her lips closed over his again, warm and trembling, and he had a sensation that her body soft and pliant was twining about him, moulding itself to his, enveloping him. All at once he flung back his head.

"Good God, what torture!"

Her head back, gazing at him out of her great deep eyes, never loosening her grip on him, she said:

"My beloved—my husband!"

He caught her to him with a cry and in the supreme moment of their passion he had a fierce, primitive sense of victory.

"I've beaten him, beaten him! She's mine now!"

Lying together under the black lacery of the trees, the river singing at their feet, they saw the moon go lumbering down behind the crisp hills. Twice he had whispered:

"You must go back now, dearest—"

And each time she had laughed her low laughter, drawn her arms around him and answered:

"Not yet, O, not yet."

The grays of the dawn were filtering in when at last he raised her up and said gently:

"Now really—we must."

She leaned against him, his hand on her cheek, her eyes shining and unfathomable. Her lips moved.

"What?" he said, bending over.

"Yours!" She turned her head back and upwards, flinging her arm out to draw his lips down. "Everything was as I wished it to be. Remember that!"

She turned in his arms and caught him to her in a final obliterating embrace. Then tearing herself away, her head down, she went running from him. He watched her go as long as he could see her and then went blindly back, stumbling along the path, victory surging in every fibre of his being. He had won her. She was his. Nothing now could defeat him!

When Barbara came into the hall, the clock by the stairs was ringing the hour. She went into the great parlor and sat down, her hands clasped between her knees, rigid and staring. Long moments staring into the fireplace where no fire was. The wan light of the struggling dawn was in the room. Nothing moved inside or out of doors or within her. Neither the night nor the day about her, but the sense of an arrested hour. Blankness and the uncolored vista of long rebellious years ahead.

When she rose, her face was set and stern. She went stiffly up the stairs and into her room, where the nurse was dozing in the armchair. She touched her on the shoulder.

"Go now. Get some sleep. I'll watch."

The nurse started up. A creaking sound came from the bed in the other room.

Don't Discipline Child Each Time He's Criticized

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"I haven't been awfully patient with my little boy," writes a mother. "That is, I try to be—but when somebody says something detrimental then I scold him the next time he acts cute or talks cute."

I always feel sorry for the boy or girl of any age whose mother feels that she has to respond with correction or punishment to every criticism that grownups make.

No child can please everybody, especially if the whole family is constantly watching him. What one doesn't mind another will. One may believe in a child having perfect manners, another may think children should be quiet, another may require instant obedience to all grownups, and another expect little legs to run innumerable errands.

Let the child slip up on any of these and there's always, in such a family, some one ready to make a critical or sarcastic remark, expecting the child's mother to correct him in deference to this somebody's idea of perfect behavior. No child can please everybody if he lives in that kind of atmosphere. And any mother who feels bound to regard those criticisms is going to become a scold.

Worth than that, she is going to alienate her child and start behavior troubles. And still worse, she is going to make her child feel that she is not loyal to him—which is the truth.

We owe just as much loyalty to our children as we do to grownups. The sense of our loyalty gives them a feeling of deep security. Mothers should take a firm stand when they are confronted with a complaint chorus and refuse to be blown about like a weather vane. They should do as a navigator does—decide on their destination, map a course, and stick to it.

It is needless to say that that course should be guided, not by stubbornness, but by affection and intelligence and an understanding of the child.

Braggarts Are Out of Place in Any Group

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Bill likes a girl a lot except for one thing, on which he would like advice about a cure. Bill doesn't call her so, but we gather that she is one of those painful bores, the braggart. She talks about her family, and how socially important they were. Past tense, you notice, for the girl and her family are now down to rock bottom. She puts up a pretense about where she buys her clothes, liking to drag into audience ears the names of big dress houses, where formerly, no doubt, she was a patron.

The fault is not the silly bragging, but the idea that people care a whoop about her rich relations, or her former dress shop status. Who, among her friends, does care? It is so much smarter to let people find out such things about one, if it matters, and to let people appreciate one more for depending upon one's own gifts. Anyway, the latter form of behavior is more in keeping with the day, with each and every individual more or less on his own and generally more. Outside of our most select social circles, the family escutcheon is not one-half so important as the individual herself. And, even in these circles, the young members appear to be revolting in an intense desire to be out and on their own. All of which shows the futility of bearing down heavily on an audience with important names, or important shops of any kind. There just isn't any audience for the sort of thing any more.

Besides, it is fun to be able to stand on one's own, to be able to buy good substitute frocks for less money, to face life as it has to be met in reduced, financial circumstances, as if it were a venture and not something to mourn over.

And, speaking of bragging, another male correspondent recently regretted girls' way of dragging in important places of entertainment she attended. This puts an awful crimp in the spirit of the youth who is doing the best he can with what he has. Since they're all kind of sensitive, better proceed with young men on the theory that what he has to offer is just about the biggest and best to be had anywhere.

Let's Dedicate Dressy Cookery to Prosperity

It's Worth a Tasty Toast at Any Time.

BY MARY MEADE.

I know we're dreadfully out of practice, but let's have a prosperity party for a change! There have been too many depression parties by far, and, anyway, who's to say that these vibrations we've been hearing lately aren't signs that we're on the first slope of the upgrade?

But if you don't think that's enough excuse call it a President's party and we'll give George himself a birthday celebration on this coming Thursday.

The keynote? Red, white, and blue announce themselves to be the conventional colors. But then, we used to think all Christmas trees were green; so, pray, don't let your style be cramped by mere etiquette. And after all, butter balls with parsley tufts make admirable cherries — and who cares that they're yellow instead of red? Hatchets of any degree of viciousness, wigs, knee breeches, shoe buckles, and, of course, the unforgettable and storied cherry pie are all applicants for your kind consideration.

Or since this is a prosperity party why not combine the place card with the favor idea by affixing one of George Washington's own two-centers by its gummy corner on the place card? Most practical!

Should the day call for afternoon refreshments, especially if youngsters are on hand, what do you know about sprightly gelatin trimmings for a brick of ice cream? Round it up out in the fastness of the kitchen, then sail in with it on a tray, ice cream brick intact and bulwarked by plates of snappy cookies, and punch or coffee. The brick simply sits down coolly on a platter while you apply cherries and hatchets cut from thin sheets of trembly red cherry gelatin. Use less water than usual in making the gelatin, giving it a firmer feel. Pattern these cherries and hatchets neatly about on the ice cream brick, adding stems to the cherries with bits of angelica or with green gelatin.

But if it's to be Washington bridge luncheon instead, what would you say of this menu?

BRIDGE AT A WASHINGTON PARTY.

Cherry Cluster Salad
Dainty Hatchet Sandwiches
[Minced Stuffed Olive, Celery and Mayonnaise Spread]
Cherry and Vanilla Ice Cream
Washington Mountains
Coffee

Cherry cluster salad looks like just what it's name implies—a cluster of cherries coyly settling in ruffles of lettuce. To prepare for six people blend half cup of chopped nuts with half cup of mayonnaise. Arrange lettuce on six plates and on each drop a spoonful of nuts and dressing. Have ready six half peaches, carefully dried with a soft towel. Place one on each mound of nuts, round side up. Now soften a package of cream cheese and gently spread this all over the rounded sides of the peaches. And lastly, open a can of Royal Anne cherries, cut them in half, and stone. With these half cherries get busy and cover the whole surface of the be-cheesed peach and you'll be convinced that you have before you a cluster of yellow-green cherries all ready to eat!

The ice cream dessert may be plain or somewhat complicated, but best keep it conservative, since it's to step out with such elegance as one meets in

WASHINGTON MOUNTAINS.

1 egg white
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup chopped nuts
⅛ cup chopped candied cherries
⅛ cup shredded coconut
1 cup dry flaked rice cereal
¼ teaspoon almond extract

Separate the egg and beat the white with the salt until stiff. Add the sugar gradually, beating steadily. Now change from a beater to a wooden spoon and fold in the nuts, cherries, coconut, and cereal. Stir in the extract gently and then drop the mixture by spoonsful onto a well greased baking tin. Bake in a moderate oven [375 degrees F.] for 10 minutes, or until firm.

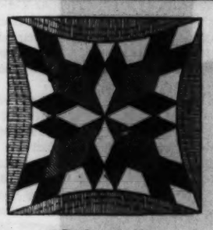
Quilt Uses Motif of Diamond Patch Popular for Years



CORONATION.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Diamond shaped patches were employed in the medieval ages as decoration and, when this beautiful quilt pattern was first pieced in 1930, these same diamond patches were doubly popular. The original "Coronation" was pieced in tan and dull red, set together with white. It was blessed with many names, such as "King's Crown," "Washington's Own," "Potomac Pride," and the "President's Quilt." "Coronation" seems to be most suitable, and by all odds the most popular.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Chicago Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn, and Tribune Tower.

New Type Curling Iron May Bring Marcel Back to Favor

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One of the busier and better hairdressing salon proprietors was commenting the other day, on the decline of marcel popularity, this in favor of finger waving. The reason for this is in line with yesterday's topic on makeup, the desirability, now, of striving for softness, unartificial effects in makeup.

The finger wave, unquestionably, gives the more natural and soft wave. That is, hairdressers on the whole seem better finger wave operators than marcelers. Here and there you run across one expert with the waving iron who can get the natural, loose, large wave. But so many heads emerged from the curling iron treatment, with artificially ridged and stiff-fish looking indentures in the hair that, as said, finger waving threatened to supplant the other form of wave treatment. Of course, too, the permanent waves' better response to the finger waving is seen in its greater popularity.

I believe there is a move on foot to restore marceling to its former popularity, but practiced on a new plan of wave and softness. I hope it does come to pass that marcels can be gotten in a hurry which will conform more often to the emergency need. For marcels are quicker of accomplishment, and would be preferable to many, in order to escape the drier heat, although in the latter medium, manufacturers are anticipating the objection of many women with the construction of more comfortable machines.

One of the marcel ideas, promising natural and informal hair beauty, which is experiencing popularity, is the croquignole marcel. This wave takes no longer than the ordinary marcel, and only has to be pushed into place as is a croquignole permanent. The more it is combed and brushed, the more natural it appears, I am informed. It is supposed to last from one shampoo to another. With bleached and dyed hair this type of wave has to be handled with expert care. A special marcel iron is used in this type of wave, with an intricate little spring set between the handles, which indicates just how much "spring" the hair requires.

One thing you can depend on is that heads have to be marceled or finger waved and kept as thoroughly groomed looking as nails. Otherwise, one appoints herself of the grade Z female squad.

the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Howard of Winnetka. The others will be Carolyn Kuehnle, the 8 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Kuehnle Jr., also of Winnetka; Marjorie Church, who is the Ralph E. Churches' 5 year old daughter [Mrs. Church is president of the Chicago Wellesley club], and 3 year old Mary Uehling, whose mother and father are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Uehling of Highland Park.

Vassar Alumnae Will Meet Today.

Not to be outdone by their Wellesley sisters the north shore alumnae of Vassar are going to meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arden B. Lapham, 309 Davis street, Evanston, for a program and tea. Mrs. Lapham will entertain her guests with a talk on her rare collection of early American glass. Mrs. Ronald Kimball will assist Mrs. Lapham as hostess.

There was a constant influx of callers yesterday at Mrs. Henry Hoyt's residence on Church street in Lake Forest. This charming matron was celebrating her 85th birthday and, although she wanted to keep it very quiet, her many friends remembered and dropped by to extend congratulations and good wishes. Mrs. Hoyt makes her home with her daughter, Miss Edith Hoyt.

Miss Dorothy Stirling of Winnetka and Mrs. Arthur W. Rogers of Evanston have arranged for the Mary C. Wheeler alumnae luncheon, which is being held today at the Casino, Miss Mary Helena Dey, who is headmistress of this school in Providence, R. I., is here for the luncheon and will give a short talk at its conclusion.

Attend Theater Society Opening.

The opening night of the American Theater society's new play, "Ten Minute Alibi," attracted a large and smart audience to the Erlanger theater last night and every one as he left was glad the young murderer's ten minute alibi had satisfied the Scotland Yard inspector. It was a very swank opening with silk hats and ermine coats much in evidence.

A few familiar faces in the audience belonged to Miss Louise Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, the Gilbert Scribners, the James H. Douglases Jr., Mrs. Welch Dickinson, Dr. Giuseppe Castruccio, Miss Alice Roullier, Miss Frieda Foltz, Shepard Vogelgesang, Miss Barbara Graf and Charles Connell, the Paul Walkers, the John Merrells, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Adams, and Mr. and Mrs. Ferre C. Watkins.

Many Parties for Ballet Members.

In keeping with its stage success is the social success of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. There isn't a day this week that the members are not invited to a round of luncheons, teas, and suppers . . . as many as their calendars will allow.

Yesterday afternoon the Drama league entertained at tea for the troupe at the Cordon club, inviting also the members of the cast of "The Curtain Rises." It was an interesting cosmopolitan gathering with the wives of several of the consuls presiding at the tea tables.

Prof. Samuel Harper came to the rescue of Col. Di Basil, the director general of the Monte Carlo company, translating his Russian remarks for his audience. Sonia Radina, in Russian costume, sang a group of Russian folk songs, accompanied by Rena Harrison.

Mrs. Louis C. Sudler announces that the fourth of the Emerson house benefit entertainments will be postponed from next Sunday to Tuesday night, March 20, because there is a probability that Princess Rostislav will have to be out of the city next week-end. She is to lecture on "Pages from My Memoirs." The postponed lecture will be in Orchestra hall instead of in the Blackstone theater.

Four Leave Today for Vacation In West.

A foursome setting out today for a vacation in the west is composed of Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Franklin B. Hussey, Mrs. Allen Watson, and Mrs. Americus F. Callahan. The first three are getting off the train at Phoenix to spend several weeks at the Arizona-Biltmore, but Mrs. Callahan is going on to Pasadena to visit Mrs. John H. Hardin at her winter residence there.

Mrs. Clyde M. Carr left Chicago Saturday for a holiday in Phoenix. When she returns at the end of a month she will open her Lake Forest home.

Mrs. Edward W. Pardridge arrived at home yesterday morning from a month at the Biltmore and the snow and cold weather that greeted her made her decide that she would take the Arizona bound train again just as soon as the business matters that called her home are attended to. "I was there a month and every day was a perfect one," she said yesterday afternoon and added, "all of Chicago is there, it seems."

The Bryan S. Reids are on their way to Useppa island, where they are going to spend the next fortnight. After they leave the island they are going to Palm Beach, Miami, and other Florida places, visiting friends. They will be at home the end of the month.

Second Session of Bridge Tourney.

At 11 o'clock this morning in the Woman's Athletic club the second of a series of seven duplicate bridge hands will be played. Miss Helen McNair has a table for the whole series, and among the other members who are playing in this tournament, which is under the direction of Mrs. Richard F. Peyton, are Mrs. George J. Jaeger, Mrs. William N. Pelouze, and Mrs. G. A. E. Kohler.

The Junior Friends of Art have chosen today for their annual gallery tour of the Art institute. Before the tour at 3:30, to be conducted by Mrs. Anita Willits Burnham, the group will gather in Fullerton hall to hear a lecture on "The Importance of Subject Matter" by William M. Ivins Jr. Mr. Ivins is the curator of prints in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

The North Shore auxiliary of the Chicago Maternity center, organized a year ago to give financial and personal service to the center on Newberry street, will hold the first meeting of the new year at 1 o'clock this noon at the Shawnee Country club. After the officers' reports and the election of new officers there will be a musical program. Mrs. Ralph E. Heilman is now the president.

Two Luncheons on Foreign Relations.

The Chicago Council on Foreign Relations is having two luncheon meetings this week, one tomorrow and the other on Saturday. Both will be at the Palmer house. Dr. T. Z. Koo will be the speaker tomorrow and his subject will be "China and Japan: 1934." "Our Latin-American Policy" will be discussed on Saturday by Hubert C. Herring, executive director, the committee on cultural relations with Latin-America.

Officials of A Century of Progress have called upon the Junior league to help find names for the new foreign village section of the Fair and the Midway which is being transplanted to Northerly isle.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the White House tonight after an absence of several days in upper New York state and at her home in Hyde Park, N. Y. She was accompanied on her trip by Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr., wife of the secretary of the treasury, who returned here with her by train. They made the other part of the trip by motor.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson left last night for Palm Beach, Fla., to be the guest for a few weeks of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Barklie of Philadelphia.

HERE'S NEW HEALTH FOR YOUR LIVER

Now banish bad breath, pimples, constipation; feel like a million!

That tired, drowsy feeling in the morning, that "dark-brown" taste in the mouth—if you would banish them and win back buoyant health, don't expect relief from salts, mineral oil, or candy and chewing gum laxatives.

For such remedies only move the bowels. While chances are you're one of the thousands suffering from sluggish liver which does not yield sufficient bile—causing pimples, blemishes, headaches, bad breath and a general run-down feeling.

What you need is something which acts thoroughly but harmlessly upon the liver. And in Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets you will find that "something" which stimulates the bile flow.

A successful substitute for calomel, these famous tablets are compounded of pure vegetable ingredients, and have been praised for years by millions.

To get and keep the bile flowing freely—correcting constipation, skin troubles, and win back that "fine-and-dandy" feeling of youth—go to your druggist for Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets today. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Paris Gives Its Sailor Hats Wide and Rolling Brims

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—French milliners, reacting from too many halo, tiara, and other off the face hats, are promoting the rolling sailor in a big way in their Palm Beach shows. These sailors all have rather wide brims that are rolled up either part way or all around, and they're worn cocked on one side of the head rather than forward or back.

Such sailors are usually made in pastel colors, and they are just ravishing. They indicate a springtime vogue for pastel colored hats to match pastel colored accessories.

The Maria Guy rolling sailor shown in two views at the top of our sketch is made of smoky pastel blue antelope felt. It has a shallow crown that is draped down to greater shallowness at the left side, where the brown ribbon band ends in two ears. The brim rolls slightly all around.

The Rose Descat rolling sailor, shown in two views in the lower part of the sketch, is made of pale pink straw, and though the brim is turned way up at the back it is also rolled up slightly in front. A ragged quill of black and a narrow black velvet ribbon band trim this hat.

Prepares to Produce Five Shorts in Hollywood.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Frances Tauchar, who spent most of her life as a resident of Chicago and Cicero, Ill., and a beauty shop at Clifton Park avenue and 36th street, Chicago, is a new addition to Hollywood's independent film producers.

To test her aptitude in the field of box office showmanship, Mrs. Tauchar—better known here as Mme. Tauchar—is rehearsing a stage cast in a skit which she plans to tour American and European cities.

"I will have John Miljan, who, like myself, is a Jugo-Slav by race, and Henry Armetta with me," she said. "While on the road with this skit I shall be going ahead in other directions, having plans made to produce five motion picture shorts in Hollywood. A crew will be going abroad for us at the same time, for it is our plan to erect a motion picture studio in Jugo-Slavia and produce stories there next year."

Mme. Tauchar said her financial backing "is amply taken care of." "I am putting in a little more than one-half myself, and I have another financial backer," she explained. She said she has succeeded in convincing the Hollywood film figures with whom she has conferred as to the financial and artistic possibilities of her enterprise.

The funds on which Mme. Tauchar has drawn to organize her film concern came largely, she said, from an inheritance which, much to her surprise, she received in 1931 while living in Chicago. She became the heiress of a fortune from her mother's uncle, Anton Klemec, who died after building up a fortune with macaroni factories in Milan and Trieste.

The five short reel films she has contracted to make in Hollywood are to be in English, but her films abroad will not be in English.

"We shall 'dub' titles for our Italian and Slav audiences into the films made here," she says. "In going into motion pictures I am aiming principally at the foreign market. I hope to take Mr. Miljan abroad with me. He is almost a national hero to the Jugo-Slavs."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We've always liked to fuss with meals—almond, oatmeal, even bran—as skin beautifiers, because they're nice, bland cleansers that are kind indeed to the sensitive skin. We never could guess why more women didn't use them.

Recently there came a prepared meal on the market that we fell for pretty hard. It's treated with herbs and plays the leading role in a rather dramatic little treatment for oily skins. It is used in a paste, with either a cream of medium consistency or a special herbal lotion serving as the mixer. In either case the paste is an efficient little blackhead chaser when properly used.

The skin must be immaculately cleaned before the paste is applied. If the blackhead condition or the oil flow is not really excessive, cream may be a better mixer of the two to use. One can put a generous dab of cream in the palm of one hand, then work in the meal with the fingers of the other, making a paste sufficiently spready to go on easily. The meal mask may be left on as long as you like; we're inclined to think these face treatments are good things to apply while bathing.

If the oil is excessive the meal's companion in the paste making operation had best be the special herbal lotion, which with the meal is proving its worth by its popularity on many of Chicago's cosmetic counters. Its principal aim is refinement of skin texture. Add lotion to the meal until a paste is attained, then spread upon the skin. It can be rubbed in vigorously where blackheads are showing. When you're ready to remove the paste use a cleansing tissue, taking it off as thoroughly as possible. Then with a piece of cotton saturated in a mild astringent lotion go over the face again to close the relaxed pores and complete the removal of the paste.

If the blackheads are frequent visitors or stubborn the treatment may be given a couple of times a week.

German Composers Adopt Nazi Efficiency to Boost Music Art

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Nazi efficiency will be injected into the musical life of Germany and great reforms will take place, it was announced today at the convention of the National Composers' league, presided over by Richard Strauss.

The composers were informed that German musical genius can be raised to even greater heights than it is now by Nazi discipline and the application of Nazi principles.

An extensive organizing campaign will be undertaken at once.

"AN EYE TO THE FUTURE — AN EAR TO THE GROUND"

—this describes General Motors' policy, a policy by which the public is given what it wants in better cars year after year, and yet is safely protected against ill-timed or dubious experiments out of the common sense of the common people

PROGRESS

IT IS no secret that the new cars of General Motors this season are riding the flood tide of popular approval.

We think they deserve to, being the ablest automobiles and the finest values we have so far been able to offer.

They are being acclaimed no less for their graceful streamlined beauty than for their healthful ventilation and gliding ride.

They represent progress, in every direction that contributes to the pleasure and usefulness of an automobile.

That the marked departures this year in our cars are sound and successful is only in part our achievement.

To a very substantial degree their source and perfection is the common sense of the common people.

Months before production, in more than a million letters sent to car-owners, we checked our designs against what the public wanted.

The results confirm once more that he travels farthest in the right direction who is willing to listen as well as to lead.

The three outstanding advancements in modern automobiles — NO DRAFT VENTILATION, KNEE-ACTION WHEELS, STREAMLINE DESIGN —are each and all General Motors contributions!

BY FRENCH LANE.

Was it somebody out on the west side or was it a south sider who remarked the other day "those north siders can't sock. They'll be set-ups in the Golden Gloves tournament of champions"?

The fellow who made the assertion didn't know what he was talking about. He probably doesn't even know that a mule can kick, either.

He wouldn't be making such loose talk this morning if he had joined the crowd which packed the Loyola university gymnasium last night to see the opening of the north side sectional Golden Gloves tourament. One hundred seventy-five boxers passed in review. They represented all weight divisions. Some were newsboys, others were college athletes, and there were butchers and bakers and the sons of rich men in the battle.

Knockouts Are Frequent.

Did they know how to spin over an Old Mary Ann?

During the first three and one-half hours 69 bouts were decided. Forty-four of them resulted in knockouts. The same sort of biff, bang, bing milling continued until midnight when the last of the 99 battles was staged. More than 65 per cent of all the struggles had ended in knockouts.

It isn't any wonder that the thrill struck spectators planned to get a few useful winks of sleep today and be on hand at the second session of the north side sectional meet tonight. The session starts at 7:30 o'clock and will continue until well toward midnight, for 100 second round and quarter-final battles will make up the program.

Veterans Fight Tonight.

The north side championship will be determined tomorrow night in the same arena and at the same time the boys on the south side start fighting for the titles at White City.

M'GRAW GIVEN EVEN CHANCE IN FIGHT FOR LIFE

New Rochelle, N. Y., Feb. 19.—(AP)—John Joseph McGraw, one of the most dynamic figures of baseball history and for 30 years the fiery manager of the New York Giants, lay seriously ill tonight in a New Rochelle hospital suffering from uremia, or kidney poisoning, but with at least an even chance for recovery.

Three doctors signed the latest bulletin, issued shortly after 6 p. m., as follows:

Talks with Visitors.

The only amplification of this statement came from Dr. Chapman, who said McGraw had talked coherently during the day with those who visited him, was not suffering much pain and had not, as erroneously reported earlier, lapsed into a comatose condition.

Dr. Chapman said it was not planned to issue any further bulletin until 9 a. m. tomorrow. No explanation was made as to the reasons for calling in Dr. Keyes, who was consulted after issuance of this morning's bulletin, at which time it was reported McGraw had experienced a restless night and that his general condition was "not quite so good."

Doctor Leaves Hospital.

Dr. Chapman left the hospital late tonight, leaving word that he was to be called if there was any change in the patient's condition.

It was learned definitly that McGraw had not at any time during the day sunk into a coma or even a semi-comatose condition. The "stuperous" condition referred to in the 6 p. m. bulletin was explained as being due possibly to medicines which have been administered to him. In a general way, it was believed that the baseball veteran was at least fighting an even battle.

Mrs. McGraw, who spent the morning at the hospital, and Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, who visited his associate for an hour this afternoon, both appeared optimistic.

Wants to Visit Training Camp.

"From what I have been given to understand, Mr. McGraw's condition is serious, but he has an even chance to pull through," Mr. Stoneham told the Associated Press. "We had made an appointment downtown for today before he was taken to the hospital, and I chatted with him about his prospects of going south as soon as possible. He is anxious to visit the training camp of the Giants at Miami Beach."

McGraw, who will be 61 years old next April 7, was taken to the hospital three days ago. His health has been uncertain for the last few years, although since he stepped out as manager of the Giants in June, 1932, he

Injured Wrist Is Good as Ever, Stanley Hack Reports

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

News that put a smile on the face of President William Walker reached the Cubs' offices in the Wrigley building yesterday. One portion of the welcome tidings came from Stanley Hack, the young man who was purchased at a fancy price a couple of seasons back on the theory that he would prove a big league third baseman. The other portion was submitted by Bud Tinning, the fat boy of the squad, whose inclination to take on weight has threatened to ruin a possible brilliant pitching career.

STANLEY HACK.

Hack's case involves a wrist which was fractured late last season by a pitched ball. The injury was treated here and no unpleasant results were expected, but after returning to his home at Sacramento, Cal., the wrist began to stiffen. Doctors found it necessary to reset the broken bones and throughout the winter there has been considerable concern as to whether he would be available for work during the impending season. It now appears as if the $30,000 beauty has fully recovered.

Tests Wrist at Golf.

In his note to the office Hack mentioned that he had been playing golf steadily to determine whether the doctors were kidding him about his condition and has found that they didn't exaggerate. Despite his lengthy battles with the wee sma' pill the action of the balky wrist has been as free as prior to the mishap. At the time he was injured Hack was playing regularly at third base and doing things in a way that made him look worth every cent paid to the Sacramento club for his services.

Tinning, who is already in California awaiting the arrival of his mates March 4, claims he has shed so much weight that his own tailor wouldn't know him. Before quitting Chicago some weeks ago he had worked faithfully on his most bothersome problem and thereby lost 9 pounds. He tarried at Hot Springs, Ark., for more labor and was rewarded with a further reduction of 19 pounds.

Expect Release for Faber.

Urban Red Faber, the veteran White Sox pitcher who last Saturday announced his retirement from the game and later charged he made the move because of a salary cut, probably will be given his unconditional release by President J. Louis Comiskey. Faber, after a trip to Cascade, Ia., his old home, returned to Chicago last night and is expected to ask to be removed from the Sox roster. The 45 year old spitballer thinks he might be able to hook on with another big league club.

Faber, after reaching Cascade, claimed he quit because his salary was reduced from $7,500 to $5,000. President Comiskey declared yesterday that he was greatly surprised over Faber's belated statement pertaining to salary because the matter wasn't mentioned last Saturday when the pitcher appeared at the club's office and announced he was retiring. Comiskey told him at the time that he could return if he saw fit, but in view of the subsequent unpleasantness the Sox owner now is expected to give the old fellow his outright release.

Receipt of Outfielder Evar Swanson's signed contract was announced yesterday at the Sox office. . . . Guy Bush of the Cub staff departed last night for California. . . . Riggs Stephenson, the Cubs' veteran outfielder, is already at Catalina island getting himself in trim before the real training grind starts March 4.

KID CHOCOLATE'S TITLE VACATED BY COMMISSION

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The state athletic commission today vacated the world's featherweight championship held by Kid Chocolate, Cuban ring star, because of Chocolate's failure to consider a challenge issued by Frankie Klick.

Announcement of the commission's action came after reports from Cuba indicated Chocolate had renounced his claim to the 126 pound title. Chocolate intends to enter the lightweight class.

Klick based his challenge on his nonchampionship contest knockout of the Cuban. Chocolate's loss to Klick followed soon after the Cuban's knockout at the hands of Tony Canzoneri, former world's lightweight champion. Chocolate has not defended his title since his bout here last year against Seaman Tom Watson, English challenger.

VINES DEFEATS COCHET; TILDEN WINS OVER PLAA

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines, youthful California sharpshooter, made it two straight for the United States professional tennis forces in the first of a Franco-American series of team matches tonight when he defeated his former Davis cup rival, Henri Cochet of France, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Big Bill Tilden posted the first victory when he won from Martin Plaa, 6-4, 6-3, 11-9.

Vines and Cochet both played erratic tennis, especially in the second and third sets, but Ellsworth gained the upper hand at such times as he could make his cannonball service effective and combine control with his dazzling speed off the forehand. It was a tennis slugging match from start to finish.

Two Big Moments.

The Californian's best moments were when he reeled off the last three games of the first set, two of them at love, and his streak of five successive games to clinch the final set and match. The service of both was so erratic that 17 breaks were scored in the four sets.

The paid attendance was 11,482 and the gate receipts $18,796.14.

Tilden, making his first appearance since finishing a cross country duel with Vines, ran the full scale of his stroking repertoire in taking the first two sets handily, but he was hard pressed throughout the third by the sturdy Plaa.

Americans Win Doubles.

Playing in the third and final match of the night, Tilden and Vines took the first set of the doubles from Cochet and Plaa, 6-1. The French pair won the second set, 6-1.

The Americans rallied to capture the third set, 12-10.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

FLORIDA PROSPERITY.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 19.—Miami, Miami Beach, Coral Gables, Hollywood, and Fort Lauderdale are harvesting a record crop, the greatest influx of winter residents and visitors since the land boom which collapsed in 1926. This influx surpasses in numbers the days of the national money boom of 1929. Merchants and tradesmen are smiling again. The grist exceeds all pre-season estimates.

By comparison, northern and inland Florida cities are not faring so well, according to reports here, but still are far ahead of recent years. St. Petersburg, on the west coast, a tourist Mecca, is filled. Tampa, one of the few commercial cities is far livelier than usual. We do not hear definitly of Fort Myers and Sarasota. Palm Beach, winter residence of socialites, still shows many boarded up mansions—boarded up when stocks and securities shrunk in the washing up process of the depression.

While the 1934 brand of residents and tourists are not spending in the old carefree way, money expended is more generally spread around, to the greater economic advantage of the communities as a whole. It is a diversification of the tourist crop, so to speak. Once only the best, or fancied best, would do. Now those to whom the New Deal is psychological rather than actual engage the best they can afford to pay for instead of the best to be had.

Perhaps many Wakers have heard that Florida is back to its once almost prohibitive expense scale. Such is not the case. Naturally the more exclusive hotels—exclusiveness gauged by cost basis—have tilted their rates, but still below the 1929 peak. They are filled. Many of them are American plan. The a la carte food prices are on a parity with the best hotels in Chicago and New York, therefore high to a majority of purses.

Yet there are many first class hotels, equally comfortable, more quiet, but less pretentious, where the charges only match those for similar service in any large city. It must be remembered, too, that Florida's season is only two or three months, in which maintenance costs for the whole year must be realized.

A great majority of visitors, however, do not wish to spend it all in one place. They seek comfortable rather than exclusive hotels and inns. Or they lease a bungalow or apartment, getting their own breakfasts, perhaps, and taking their other meals at numerous restaurants and tearooms.

Rentals for such accommodations are higher, often as much as 50 per cent higher, than a year ago. Frequent complaints are heard from those who had been told of the low costs a year ago. Those 1933 charges represented "distress" renting, when property owners were willing to lease for enough to help pay taxes. It was abnormal. Income received in rental was out of all proportion to the value of the property leased or the service rendered. It was the same condition that prevailed nationally in commodities and distress merchandise.

Whether present charges represent

Illinois lost further caste in the Big Ten basketball race by sustaining a 32 to 25 setback at the hands of Northwestern at Patten gymnasium last night. The defeat dropped the Illini into fourth place and moved the Purple into third place behind Purdue and Wisconsin.

It was a furiously fought game in which the lead changed hands four times. After Illinois pulled out in front, 24 to 22, with less than ten minutes to play, the Wildcats rallied to tie the score and went on to win.

Fisher Gets 16 Points.

Northwestern can attribute its victory to the stellar play of Lyle Fisher, who contributed 16 points, half of his team's total. He made four field goals and eight free throws. He marched to the free throw line 12 times and missed but four.

Although Hudson Hellmich controled the tipoff, the Wildcats usually gained possession of the ball by playing the Illini man to man. This strategy was especially noticeable in the second half, in which Northwestern time and again came up with the ball after the center jumped.

Kawal Is Injured.

The victory proved costly to the Wildcats, for they lost the services of Al Kawal, who suffered a dislocated left shoulder in the closing minutes of the game. The injury will keep Kawal out of the remaining two games.

PURDUE WINS, 47-30

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Minnesota once more claimed the Big Ten attendance championship here tonight when 13,600 fans jammed every available seat in the Gopher fieldhouse, but it was the Purdue basketball team which put on the show. After dazzling the Gophers, the Boilermakers moved a step nearer the Western conference title with a 47 to 30 victory.

Purdue put on about the fanciest exhibition of ball handling and passing that Gopher fans have seen in the fieldhouse. Not once did the Gophers threaten. Once they came within seven points.

The Boilermakers quickly ran the score to 20-8, then finished out the first half with a 24 to 12 lead. The normal The Wake cannot say. We'd expect them to be slightly higher a year hence if the New Deal does not explode before that time. Of course, a very marked increase of visitors, causing scarcity, could reach a point where it would cut down the winter migration of those not in the playboy or playgirl class. That is what chambers of commerce and merchants generally wish to avoid.

So in the present lack of accommodations for late comers—the season right now is nearing its climax—chambers of commerce in Miami, Miami Beach, and adjacent communities have asked all permanent residents to list any rooms they can spare to be rented to tourists. This is being generally done. Some wish the money, others consider it civic duty.

Except in the matter of rentals, which are not the greatest expense anyway, charges are not materially advanced. Restaurant meals, food and amusement—except at the night clubs—show an increase comparable only with what has occurred elsewhere through the nation. We have seen no inclination to "gouge" on the part of those catering to conservative visitors.

In real estate, "bargains" are being slowly cleared up. There is notable building activity—eight times that of a year ago in value—for Miami Beach homes.

Tributary communities are still absorbing the slack. Real estate men, those of the conservative type, expect gradual betterment. They do not anticipate a return of the boom prices, hopelessly fantastic, but do expect an increasing number of winter residents of moderate means who wish to enjoy the climate for from three to six months each winter.

This type of resident is considered more valuable and more stable than the playboys and playgirls whose patronage is dependent on business conditions or the prices of speculative stocks in Wall street.

There is concerted effort to convince owners of homes that six or even eight months is not too long for residence; to induce intending visitors to prolong the peak season. Just as one example, the Florida Derby, high spot of the Hialeah racing season, is not until March 17, a week later than a year ago.

Florida has every reason to be pleased with its 1934 best paying crop. In our opinion its present condition is more sound and likely to be more lasting than was the fictitious prosperity of its land boom or the prosperity of the national financial insanity of 1927-'29.

Threatens to Expose Evils at N. Y. Tracks

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 19.—(AP)—John J. Dunnigan, leader of the Democratic majority in the New York senate, told that body tonight he had facts about the racing industry that would "shock the nation" and pushed through a resolution calling for a report from the state racing commission on racing practices.

The New York senator criticized the recent report of the commission as "vague, incomplete, and inaccurate."

His resolution asked a supplementary report on numerous questions, among them whether the commission had ever investigated racketeering at race tracks and the practice of putting sponges in horses' noses to slow them down.

Charges Horsemen Trick Public.

The report of which he complained was less than 300 words long. It recommended a bill to legalize betting, warned that racing is "threatened with financial collapse," and said racing as conducted under the commission and the Jocky club in 1932 "received high praise from many quarters because of the caliber of sport offered."

Dunnigan's resolution called upon Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn to see that a "corrected" report is submitted.

He asserted that betting was carried on openly at all the tracks in violation of the law and that hundreds of owners and trainers had been detected "doping" horses and "practicing other illegal means to trick the public."

Says Hundreds Caught.

"I hesitate to name some of these prominent gentlemen, many of whom have been racing their stables for years on New York state tracks," he said.

"Over one hundred of these owners and trainers have pleaded guilty—not one of them daring to go to trial—and the preponderance of evidence against those waiting trial is so great that in all probability they will plead guilty.

"The country would not only be shocked, but the confidence of the people would be lost forever in racing, if it became known that these wealthy and highly respected persons were involved."

Stadium Signs Human Pretzel for Mat Show

Ray Steele, who was billed to face Hans Kampfer in one of the supporting bouts to the Browning-Joe Stecher wrestling match at the Stadium tomorrow night has withdrawn from the card. In his place the Stadium has obtained Sol Slagle who has earned the name of the human pretzel.

Slagle has developed a strange style of attack. Stiffening his knees, he bends his body at a right angle and charges into his opponent with his hands outstretched straight ahead. He appears to be going through some sort of calesthenics and it not only stops the show, but makes the other fellow hesitate an instant also. Then Sol comes to grips and usually finds himself with an advantage.

Slagle is the third eccentric performer who will do his stuff tomorrow night. George Zaharias, called the crybaby of the mat, faces Wee Willie Davis, a 235 pound Texan who declares he will make George shed real tears. Abie Coleman, who rivals Zaharias as a crowd agitator except that Abie awakens sympathy in the chests of his public, faces Everett Marshall in the semi-windup.

Central, St. Nicholas and Holy Rosary Sextets Win

Central, St. Nicholas of Tolentine, and Holy Rosary won last night in the Catholic Youth Organization Hocky league at the Coliseum. Central won from Evanston, 4 to 2; St. Nicholas defeated St. Anthony, 3 to 0, and Holy Rosary triumphed over Our Lady of Grace, 2 to 1, in overtime.

NORTH SIDE BOYS BEGIN QUEST FOR GOLDEN GLOVES

175 Boxers Swing Fists in Loyola Gym.

north side fans hardly knew who to cheer and who not to cheer. Novices provided all the fighting except for one open division middleweight encounter, which brought Robert Stolz, unattached, into action against Steve Golosinski. It was a whale of a battle for nearly four minutes. Then Golosinski let loose with a solar plexus punch that would have made Fitzsimmons proud and carried away the verdict as a result of a technical knockout.

The open division battlers will have their inning tonight, when such stars as Irving Goldstein, Bobby Iverson, Bernie Bowman, and others will see their first Golden Gloves action of the year.

Red Haired Jimmy Size, representing the Catholic Youth organization, was a terror in the 147 pound novice division. His first foe was Tony Cirone. Their first round had the crowd standing and cheering. They fought in the middle of the ring and any instant it looked as if one or the other would go down for the count. Neither faltered.

Size Scores Knockouts.

Size did some real slugging in the second session. He had Cirone down twice and won before the round ended on a technical knockout. Size came back later and knocked out Steve Elias from the Brody Athletic club. This one also came about in the second round.

Frank Zielinski was the best appearing of the heavyweights to display his wares. He didn't uncork a knockout blow, however, and was content to win his two scraps on decisions. He beat Jimmy Jackson in his first skirmish and came back an hour later to give Jack Petersen of the Northwest Athletic club a thumping.

The lightweight which looked best to the crowd was Hal Karch. He is also a novice. He knocked out Willard Lind of the Belle Plaine Athletic club in the third round of his first bout. He won on a foul from Ivan Green in the first round of his second match. He had slammed Green all about the ring before he was fouled.

DE PAUL WHIPS VALPARAISO FOR 12TH WIN, 38-28

De Paul university extended its winning streak to 12 straight games by defeating Valparaiso university, 38 to 28, last night at Valparaiso, Ind. Valparaiso took a 14 to 10 lead at half time by employing a fast breaking style of play.

De Paul started fast in the second half, and Barskis' ability on the pivot line enabled the Blue Demons to cash in on under-the-basket shots. Score:

NORTHWESTERN RALLY DEFEATS ILLINOIS, 32-25

Purdue Beats Minnesota Before Record Crowd.

Gophers bounced back in the second half opening and matched the Purdue scoring for a while, but then the visitors increased their lead.

Score 11, 10 and 9.

Just to show how consistent the Boilermakers were, Cottom led the scoring with 11 points, but Eddy, thanks to six free throws, was right on his heels with 10 and Lowery came up with 9. Baker was the Gopher's chief scoring threat, scoring 8 points with four baskets in the second half.

Previous to Saturday night, Minnesota held the crowd championship of the Big Ten with 12,904, in attendance at the Northwestern game in 1931. Iowa came back with 13,200 Saturday night, and Minnesota responded with 13,600 for a 400 gain. At 5 p. m. all reserved seats were sold and 800 additional seats were installed.

BADGERS WIN, 32-26

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Wisconsin whipped Michigan's basketball team here tonight with a last half attack which provided 17 points. The final score was 32 to 26, after the Wolverines had led, 16 to 11, at half time. Victory gave Wisconsin second place in the Big Ten race.

The Badgers were unable to get started in the first half, but after the intermission they got the range from midfloor. Three long shots by Capt. Rolf Poser pulled out the Michigan defense and the Badgers then started weaving their way through to score on short tries. A goal and two free throws by MacDonald clinched the victory after Michigan had come within two points of tying the score.

Michigan Takes 9-1 Lead.

Michigan started fast and in a few minutes had a 9 to 1 lead. Wisconsin pulled up, but at half time Michigan was five points ahead. The lead was stretched to seven points, the home team leading, 22 to 15, at one time in the second half, but here Wisconsin started and counted 11 points before Michigan was again able to score.

Poser and MacDonald, with eight points each, starred for the Badgers, while Dick Joslin, sophomore center, was the Wolverine leader with 11 points. Michigan was again weak on free throws, counting only 4 out of 12 tries. Wisconsin sank six out of 10.

IOWA, 29; INDIANA, 26

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Iowa's basketball team pulled itself out of the second division of the Big Ten standing tonight by defeating Indiana in the last two minutes, 29 to 26. The score was tied three times and the lead exchanged four.

After trailing during most of the second half the Hoosiers rallied and with two minutes to play grabbed the lead, 26 to 24, when Stout sank a long shot and Carter made a free throw.

Blackmer Clinches Game.

Barko tied the score 30 seconds later by making two chances from the free throw line on Carter's foul. Ivan Blackmer, reserve forward, clinched the game for the Hawkeyes by sinking an under-basket shot and Selzer concluded the scoring with a free throw.

After trading leads in the opening period the Hawkeyes came from behind to tie the score at 13-all at the half.

After play had been resumed the Iowans ran the score 20 to 14, their largest margin, but the Hoosiers came back to give 8,000 a nervous chill.

OHIO, 33; CHICAGO, 30

Columbus, O., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Chicago continued to rest in the Big Ten cellar tonight when Ohio State won its fourth conference game of the season from the Maroons, 33 to 30.

Ohio State took a lead at the first of the game, ended the half with a score of 19 to 10, and continued to hold a big advantage until more than half of the second period was gone.

Beitner Out on Fouls.

The Ohio attack and defense as well suffered when Beitner was forced from the game on personal fouls. At that time Ohio was leading, 28 to 17. But Wilson, who replaced him, managed to fill in enough points to keep Ohio State in the lead. A belated Chicago rally put the score up to 31 to 20 and again to 33 to 26. Then Haarlow dropped in a pair of free throws and Oppenheim pushed one in from under the basket to end the scoring.

Whitlinger and Haarlow were tied for scoring honors, each making 11 points.

Deny Football Rates Too High at Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The Rev. John F. O'Hara, C. S. C., vice president, and Elmer F. Layden, director of athletics, replied today to charges made by Henry S. Pritchett, president emeritus of the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching, that Notre Dame exploits its football teams for commercial purposes at the sacrifice of intellectual achievements.

Pritchett's case in point was the signing of a three year football contract by Notre Dame and Southern California. The games, involving a 2,000 mile trip each year by one team or the other, are examples of exploiting football for commercial purposes, he said.

"We believe," said Father O'Hara, "that he has started with a false assumption that highly publicized football is inimical to the intellectual interests of the university. We wish to reiterate that if we ever found it to be the case we would drop football without a moment's hesitation.

Cites Attainments of Teachers.

"The present report asks for information on the advancement of intellectual pursuits at Notre Dame. We have 20 priests, whose theological studies are completed, studying for advance degrees in six universities. During the last decade, advanced studies have been pursued by our priest-teachers at Vienna, Rome, Oxford, Paris, and Madrid in Europe and at the University of California, California Institute of Technology, Catholic University of America, Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Chicago, John Hopkins, and other universities in the United States.

"The record of Notre Dame in protecting its lay professors during the depression has perhaps been unique. Although student attendance has dropped 600 during the last two years, no professor has been dismissed and no salary has been decreased as a result of the depression; on the contrary, the usual advances in salary, due to promotions, have been made.

"It will interest the Carnegie foundation to hear that of the $4,000,000 increase in the material plant at Notre Dame during the last 12 years, only 20 per cent is devoted to athletic purposes," said Father O'Hara.

Answers Criticism of Series.

Dr. Pritchett criticized Notre Dame and Southern California for signing a three year contract "to exploit their football teams for commercial purposes," saying "that it is a far cry from the devotion of the fathers who founded Notre Dame and of the earnest men who labored to create a university in southern California."

Father O'Hara commented as follows:

"Aside from the fact that the University of Southern California furnishes decidedly worthwhile competition, we have a large alumni group on the Pacific coast. I doubt if another school in the eastern half of the country has so large a proportion of its alumni and old students resident in that important section of the country. And if our interest in this game were largely commercial, the university would yield to the heavy pressure that is exerted every time Southern California comes east, and play the game in Chicago where the number of spectators would be 70,000 or 80,000 larger than it is here."

Layden said there have been similar natural rivalries between other schools that have been arranged at least three years in advance, pointing out that Notre Dame has met Southern California for eight years.

Americans Meet Hawks Tonight on New York Ice

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The drawing power of the Chicago Blackhawks will be tested again at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night when they tackle the New York Americans in a game which, for intensity, should rival yesterday's Hawk-Ranger contest, which was witnessed by 17,000.

The New York team is more in need of a victory than the Chicagoans, who are practically assured of a place in the playoffs. Manager Joe Simpson's crew, however, must start winning in a hurry if they are to get a chance to play for the Stanley cup. At present they are half a game behind third place, which is occupied by the Canadiens, who are tackling the Toronto team tomorrow night on Montreal ice.

While the Hawks are playing the Americans here tomorrow and Thursday in Chicago, the division leading Detroit Red Wings will be playing the Bruins tomorrow in Boston and the Rangers Thursday in New York.

John McGraw Is Given Even Chance to Live

has continued many active associations. These only recently included a few informal after-dinner speaking engagements, in addition to his duties as vice president, director, and substantial stockholder in the National Exhibition company, which controls the Giants.

Bothered by Sore Throat.

McGraw's general condition was aggravated by a sore throat two weeks ago and he was prevented from attending the annual banquet of the Baseball Writers' association.

McGraw's retirement from the field of action, which he dominated for so many years, was swift and complete in 1932. The Giants were in last place at the time he turned over the helm to one of the men he developed, Bill Terry, and their subsequent improvement, followed by a sensational dash to the National league pennant and world championship last year, served to make New York fans nearly forget the old master.

Tears Up Contract.

At the time he stepped out McGraw had three and one-half years to go on a five year managerial contract, but he tore this up and retired, he said, chiefly because of the uncertainty of his health. Baseball observers concluded that McGraw's inability to put over another pennant winner, since the Giants finished a run of four straight years at the top in 1924, also played a part in his retirement.

LAYTON DEFEATS HOPPE, 50 TO 46, TO TIE FOR LEAD

Matsuyama Ends Schedule by Beating De Oro.

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Johnny Layton, 10 times champion, remained the master of Willie Hoppe tonight as he defeated the former 18.2 balk line king, 50 to 46, in 55 innings, to go into a tie with J. N. Bozeman Jr. of Vallejo, Cal., for first place in the world's three cushion billiards championship.

Three times the two veteran cue wizards have met in tournament competition since Hoppe deserted balk line competition in 1928, and each time it was Layton who finished on the long end of the score to ruin Hoppe's hopes of winning the only title he has never held.

Tonight's setback left Hoppe with a standing of six victories and three defeats with only two more games on his schedule. Layton and Bozeman stand at the top with seven triumphs in eight matches.

Opening and ending the game with brilliant bursts of scoring, Kinrey Matsuyama, Japanese star, completed his tournament schedule by defeating Alfredo De Oro, 71 year old Cuban, 50 to 18, in 38 innings. The victory left Matsuyama with a record of six victories and five defeats. De Oro, with one more game to play, has dropped eight of his ten matches.

The hopes of Welker Cochran, California cue star, to win his second successive championship were weakened today when he lost to Allen Hall, Chicago, 50 to 37, in 48 innings, in the annual tournament at Capitol academy. It was the defending champion's second defeat in eight games.

Augie Kieckhefer, another Chicagoan, won the other match on this afternoon's program. He defeated Tiff Denton, Kansas City veteran, 50 to 35, in 44 innings for his third victory in ten games.

It was Denton's last game in the tournament. He finished with a record of four victories and seven defeats. Kieckhefer had a high run of five in the fourth inning.

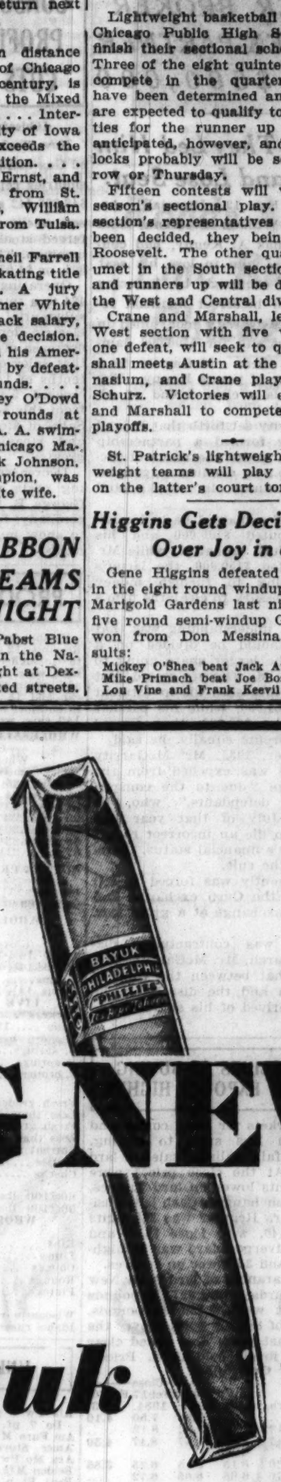
THE FIRST BIG NEWS IN 1934



Bayuk "PHILLIES" come to Chicago

• Bayuk's Guarantee

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

Bayuk guarantees that this cigar today—at 5 cents—contains the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper—the same fine ripe Domestic and Havana long-filler. It's the same identical cigar.

This is the Bayuk "Phillies"—reduced from 10c to 5c—that broke all cigar sales records in the East during 1933. For months—the demand for this cigar in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and other eastern cities was greater than the factory could supply.

Today—with production tremendously increased—it is possible to offer this famous cigar to smokers in Chicago.

The amazing success of Bayuk "Phillies"—at 5c—is no accident. It was made to give smokers the best 10c value in America—and they recognized it as such for years. It was the largest-selling 10c brand.

Experienced smokers tell us—and tell their dealers—that they get more real pleasure and satisfaction from Bayuk "Phillies" than from any cigar they've ever smoked—regardless of price.

N. Y. CENTRAL PLANS TO ISSUE TEN YEAR BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 19.—Assured of a $20,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the New York Central railroad prepared today to offer an issue of ten-year 6 per cent convertible bonds to stockholders to help finance the balance of obligations maturing May 1.

A meeting of stockholders to authorize a change in par value of stock into which the bonds would be convertible is expected to be called shortly. Agreement of the RFC was announced by Jesse Jones, chairman of the corporation, after protracted negotiations.

The maturing obligations include $48,000,000 4s, $4,500,000 Boston and Albany bonds and $6,500,000 equipment trust certificates.

The Central previously had been authorized to borrow $27,499,000 from the RFC and had received $25,078,737.

Changes in the laws of several states in which the Central is incorporated have been made in the last year or two, which would permit a change in par value of stock from $100 to a low par or no par value.

Application to the Interstate commerce commission will be necessary for approval of the issuance of new bonds and certification of the advisability of the loan from the RFC.

AUSTRIAN TRADE MISSION CONFERS WITH ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Plans for promoting trade between Austria and the United States were discussed at a conference at the White House between President Roosevelt and the Austrian trade commission headed by Dr. Otto Boehler.

Dr. Boehler said the committee would remain in Washington for about a week for conferences with government officials to discuss details of tariff and trade barriers, after which they would visit the leading industrial centers to discuss their plans with business men. He expressed the hope of laying the foundation for the enlargement of trade between the countries, and explained that after all preliminary work had been done, the matter would be handled through diplomatic channels.

Low and worsted dress goods were in demand and printed silks were ordered by the cutting trades. Sheer fabrics in all fibers were in better demand for spring than for some seasons past. HEAD OF TRADE LEAGUE RAPS PLANS FOR U. S. EXPORT-IMPORT BANK

Need for an export-import bank under control of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to finance Russian and other foreign commerce is questioned by George F. Bauer, chairman of the World Trade league.

Any financing that could be done by the government institution can probably be performed as well by existing private agencies if excessive barriers to trade are removed, he said, adding:

"Once a flow of two way trade is reëstablished through a reciprocal lowering of tariffs, the exchange of importers' drafts is a function that private banks are well equipped by experience to perform. No federal aid is required if this normal international trade is permitted.

"Centralization under a government agency of this kind is likely to lead to discrimination and arbitrary decisions as to what enterprises are to be helped with the taxpayers' money. Many will be disregarded altogether. The problem arises of how to control operations so as to avoid ultimate losses to taxpayers."

FREIGHT TOTAL GAINS FOR WEEK; ABOVE YEAR AGO

The North Western handled 23,368 cars in the week ended Feb. 17, compared with 22,428 in the preceding week and 20,502 in the like period of last year.

Cars handled by the Milwaukee road totaled 22,992 compared with 22,647 in the preceding week and 21,912 a year ago.

The Santa Fé handled 21,740 compared with 20,549 in the preceding week and 20,462 a year ago.

NEW DEALERS GET BLAME FOR UTILITY'S PLIGHT

New Yorker Protests in Wisconsin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Federal taxes and recovery programs were called partly if not wholly responsible for the condition faced by the Associated Gas and Electric company, New York, which is endeavoring to avoid receivership by issuance of debentures helping to refinance $260,000,000 of outstanding funded debt.

This was explained late today to the Wisconsin public service commission by Fred S. Burroughs, vice president of the company and a director of the Associated Gas and Electric corporation, a subsidiary, which is undertaking issuance and transfer of the debentures for the parent company.

Would Register Securities.

The occasion was a rehearing before the commission on the corporation's application for registry of the debentures with the Wisconsin securities division. Following a preliminary hearing the commission denied the application, forcing the corporation to make contact with its stockholders exclusively by mail.

Refinancing of the funded debt was decided on by the company when it appeared early in 1933 that there was a margin of only $4,000,000 of net earnings, Burroughs explained. Since revenues were decreasing and there was a possibility ohat further emergencies would have to be met, the company agreed on the plan in an effort to have the holdings of stockholders.

"There was no question as to the ability of the company to meet all charges under normal conditions," Burroughs said. "However, the situation was this, that if we failed to meet them it might lead to the break up of a system that is entirely sound. We thought if we could weather the depression the properties could get back to normalcy and recover."

Cites Federal Taxes.

The situation was complicated, however, by a 3 per cent federal tax reduring revenues $1,000,000, an NRA capital tax of 1-10 of 1 per cent forcing the company to pay an additional $1,000,000, introduction of an NRA code causeing a $1,250,000 pay roll increase, a further increase of costs of materials and supplies under the NRA estimated at $1,250,000, and emergency rate reductions in New York state totaling $2,000,000, Burroughs pointed out.

These increased costs would have more than eliminated the $4,000,000 margin. Faced with this situation, officials of the company attempted to effect a "miracle" to save the stockholders, most of whom are customers of utilities owned by the company, Burroughs said.

Fight off Receivership.

"We are doing everything we can to avoid receivership," he said. "If some one had asked me last summer I would have said it would be a miracle if we could avoid receivership. We ought to get a medal for what we have done a nd we'd like to see the Wisconsin commission approve the whole plan, because every one looks to see what the Wisconsin commission does."

Burroughs said the refinancing plan already is more than 50 per cent successful and that when it becomes fully effective there will have been a saving in fixed interest charges of about $4,000,000. Representatives of the company said they thought the commission should be told the purpose of the debenture issues before making a final ruling.

The commission was informed there are 2,900 stockholders in Wisconsin having securities of the company valued at about $6,000,000.

FORMER BROKER SUES EX-PARTNER FOR $500,000

Charges They Led Him to Err and Lose Seat.

New York, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Asserting that William F. Kenny and his son, Thomas A. Kenny, had conspired to cause him to lose his seat on the Curb exchange by inducing him to file an incorrect financial report, Joseph McGarrity today filed in Supreme court suit for $500,000 damages against them. McGarrity is a former partner of young Kenny. The older Kenny is a close friend of Alfred E. Smith.

Mr. McGarrity set forth that he and young Kenny formed a partnership in June, 1930, under the name of McGarrity & Co., to conduct a general brokerage business in stocks and bonds.

The plaintiff explained he had originally contributed $100,000 and his seat on the Curb exchange, while Mr. Kenny invested $150,000, the latter's father agreeing to furnish money whenever necessary to clear the firm's transactions.

At first the understanding was that the profits should be divided on a 60-40 basis, the larger share going to young Kenny, Mr. Garrity stated. But after he had increased his investment by another $61,000, while his partner reduced his by $20,000, they agreed to split the profits equally, he said.

In December, 1932, Mr. McGarrity continued, he was expelled from the curb exchange "due to the conspiracy of the defendants," who, he charged, in July of that year had caused him to file an incorrect report as to the firm's financial status, thereby violating the rule.

He subsequently was forced to sell his seats on the Curb exchange and the Produce exchange at a great loss, he alleged.

The firm was contractually dissolved last March, Mr. McGarrity said, contending that between the time of his expulsion and the dissolution he had been deprived of his share of the profits.

CONSOLIDATED GAS CO. PROFITS SAG ON RATE CUTS AND TAX BOOSTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 19.—The Consolidated Gas company of New York and subsidiaries report for 1933 net income of $48,896,442 after all charges and taxes, equivalent after dividends on the preferred stock to $3.31 a share on the common. This compares with $57,262,901, or $4.07 a share, in 1932.

Operating revenues decreased $9,710,484 to a total of $222,935,353. The most substantial loss of income was in the electric department, which showed a decrease of $6,767,732 despite the fact that sales of electricity increased two-tenths of 1 per cent. Sales of gas decreased 5.46 per cent and revenue from this source was $2,649,790 lower. Sales of steam increased 2.59 per cent and steam revenues were $128,990 greater.

Decreased rates and higher operating costs and taxes are blamed by George B. Cortelyou, president of the company, for the failure of the system to show improvement in general business.

EDISON EARNS CUT DIVIDEND BY SLIGHT MARGIN

Profits Fall as Tax and Costs Rise.

BY WILLIAM YATES.

Reduction of its quarterly dividend Aug. 1, 1933, to $1 a share enabled the Commonwealth Edison company to offset declining revenues and cover dividend requirements by a slight margin, the company's annual report, issued yesterday by James Simpson, chairman, and George A. Ranney, vice chairman, reveals.

GEO. A. RANNEY.

Operations of the corporation and its wholly owned subsidiary, Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation, resulted in net income after all charges and taxes of $7,408,655. This was equal to $4.56 a share on 1,623,464 shares outstanding at the close of the year, and compares with net income of $10,059,487, or $6.24 on 1,611,421 shares, in 1932.

Gross Revenues Fall.

Gross operating revenues dropped from $74,401,095 in 1932 to $72,077,696, while operating expenses and taxes increased from $57,498,057 to $57,864,779. Dividends paid in 1933 totaled $4.50 a share.

Sales of electricity increased 2 per cent for 1933 to 3,296,153,313 kilowatt hours. While consumption by large light and power customers gained 7.6 per cent, exclusive of sales to electric railways, residential and small commercial usage was 3.5 per cent under the preceding twelve months.

"Taxes continued to be a heavy burden," the report says. "Provisions for 1933 were $10,307,050, a sum $442,820 in excess of 1932. Of each dollar of revenue from electric consumers 14.3 cents had to be set aside for this purpose. Compliance with the temporary national recovery code increased the operating pay roll at an estimated rate of $965,000 a year."

Earned Surplus Reduced.

As the result of several adjustments made in the earned surplus account this figure dropped from $6,528,161 as of Dec. 31, 1932, to $6,370,979 at the close of last year. An amortization reserve created from income prior to 1931 was transferred to earned surplus. There was also released to earned surplus 3 million dollars of insurance reserve through insurance of certain properties with insurance companies which had formerly been covered by the Edison reserve.

A reserve of $1,151,184 was returned to earned surplus as assets of the employes' annuity fund are in possession of trustees under an irrevocable trust and were eliminated from the balance sheet. Reserve to provide for shrinkage of investments was increased $7,008,000, deducted from surplus account. There was also transferred to capital surplus $1,576,000, representing the net difference between credits and debits made to earned surplus.

Investment Account Reduced.

Investment account was reduced by $12,710,756 through charges against investment reserve so that each individual item in the portfolio will be carried on the basis of cost or less. Actual losses realized throughout the year aggregating $5,610,938 were charged against investment reserve, which operation, the report says, "leads directors to believe the portfolio is conservatively stated as of Dec. 31."

Commonwealth Edison reduced its book value of investment in Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation by $9,700,000, made in anticipation of action taken by the subsidiary last month to reduce the stated value of its common stock an equal amount to create a capital reserve against further shrinkage in value of its investments and for losses already realized.

An unusually large retirement—$11,589,790—was made in fixed property account, while $2,038,808 in extensions and improvements was added, leaving a net change of $9,550,982.

Current assets as of Dec. 31 were carried in the balance sheet at $28,357,273, of which $15,034,198 was in cash and government securities, and current liabilities at $23,674,667, against $35,069,030, including $19,789,807 cash, and $26,880,233, respectively, a year earlier.

I. C. C. Reveals Bigger Salaries of Leading Utility Officers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Annual salaries ranging from $206,250 for the president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company to $60,000 for the president of the Railway Express Agency were reported by the interstate commerce commission today in a compilation of all salaries in excess of $10,000 paid during 1933 by express, electric railway, waterway, pipe line, telephone, telegraph and cable companies subject to its jurisdiction.

It was explained that the salary of the president of the A. T. & T. was reduced to its present amount from $229,167 in March, 1933, although this officer received during 1933 a total of $5,920 of other compensation from the same company.

The A. T. & T. Co. listed about 430 officers receiving upwards of $10,000 as officials of the twenty-five separate companies affiliated with or subsidiary to the A. T. & T.

Other A. T. & T. Officers' Pay.

Outstanding among these officers were $61,875 to the vice president of the A. T. & T., $36,667 to the president of the Northwest Bell Telephone company, $74,000 to another vice president of the A. T. & T., $45,000 to the president and $38,958 to the chairman of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, $25,000 to an assistant vice president of the A. T. & T., $41,000 to the controler of the A. T. & T., $27,500 to the vice president of the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania.

The Western Union Telegraph company paid salaries in excess of $10,000 to numerous officials, including:

Chairman of board, $84,027; president, $60,000; vice president, commercial, $27,603; vice president and controler, $26,468; vice president, engineering, $22,876; vice president, traffic, $20,796; vice president, plant, $18,717; general solicitor, $17,772; general attorney, $16,125; director, contract department, $14,973; general purchasing agent, $14,368; treasurer, $12,475.

The commission listed a salary of $14,485 to the president of All American Cables, Inc., exclusive of $25,200 to the same officer in "annuities paid by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company for which premiums were paid by the company in prior years." The first vice president of the same company was credited with an annual salary in 1933 of $10,427 not including $12,487 received by him in similar annuities from the same insurance company.

The second and third vice presidents of All American Cables were listed with salaries of $17,417 and $10,080, respectively, but without additional compensation in annuities or fees for attending directors' meetings.

The Commercial Pacific Cable company listed one salary in excess of $10,000; its president received $11,000.

The Mackay companies, including the Postal Telegraph-Cable System, listed salaries in excess of $10,000 as follows: Vice president, $16,958; vice president, $20,167; vice president, $15,125; vice president, $10,083; vice president, $15,125.

Pullman Figures.

The president of the Pullman company was credited by the commission with a 1933 salary from that source of $51,300, exclusive of $520 of other compensation from the same source. To its first vice president, the company paid $27,485 with $160 of other compensation.

Other salaries of Pullman company officers were $36,075 to the vice president and general manager; $20,820 to a vice president and assistant to the president; $14,825 to a general solicitor; $13,125 to a general attorney; $15,675 to a controler, and $15,675 to $17,300 to other vice presidents.

The only express company other than the Railway Express agency listed in the compilation was the Southeastern Express company, the president of which received $16,200. There were no other salaries in excess of $10,000.

Pound Rises; Dollar Makes Gain on Franc

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 19.—A sharp runup in the British pound, which reached a quotation of $5.14½, the best price in over a month, was the feature of the foreign exchange dealing today. The pound closed at $5.13⅛, compared with $5.10 on Saturday. At the same time the price of gold in the London free market dropped moderately, thus tending to encourage the purchase of the metal for shipment to this country.

The final London gold price of 134 shillings 9 pence, converted at $5.10½ for the pound, is equivalent to $34.40 an ounce as compared with Saturday's last quotation of $34.60 and compares with the official price of $35 an ounce of the United States treasury.

Gold Currencies Weaken.

The strength of the pound in American funds was shared by other currencies tied to sterling, but not by the principal gold moneys. The French franc was weak against the dollar, slipping to a closing price of 6.52 cents as compared with 6.52½ cents on Saturday.

The new parity of the franc in terms of the American revalued dollar is approximately 6.63 cents. The decline in the franc lifted the indicated exchange gold worth of the dollar to 60.09 cents from 60.04, thus widening its premium over its new parity of 59.06 cents.

American agents were reported to have purchased approximately 1,000,000 pounds of gold in the London market. Meanwhile gold from Europe aggregating 71 million dollars arrived in New York on four ships which docked over the week-end and today.

Silver Prices Advance.

Bar silver and silver futures advanced again today in the market here. Bar silver advanced ½ cent an ounce to 46¾, only ⅛ of a cent away from the high of recent years, 46⅞ cents, established in January, 1930. Silver futures continued strong in the active deliveries with gains ranging from 2-8 to ½ cent an ounce.

Rumors abounded that the administration is again getting ready to "do something about silver."

The treasury announced today that the receipts of newly mined silver by the mints for the week ending Feb. 16 totaled 232,630 ounces, bringing the total received to that date to 823,282 ounces. Under the President's executive order of Dec. 21, 1933, the department was authorized to buy at least 24,000,000 ounces annually.

Treasury Bills Subscribed Four Times; Yield 0.57 Pct.

The treasury's most recent offering of 91 day bills, dated Feb. 21 and maturing May 23, 1934, which were offered Feb. 16, was oversubscribed four times, Secretary Morgenthau announced yesterday. Total applications reached $307,110,000, of which $75,155,000 was accepted. The average price of the bills was 99.855, and the average rate 0.57 per cent annually on a bank discount basis.

ASSAY OFFICE TIED UP BY FLOOD OF GOLD; BANKS LOSE INTEREST

New York, Feb. 19.—Buried under the flood of more than $200,000,000 gold that has poured in from abroad in the last four days, the United States assay office was reported today to have called upon Washington to send additional help

In the meantime banks which have lost precious days of interest while their gold imports were waiting to be assayed and weighed began to plead with the officials of the assay office to arrange for overtime work to clear away the accumulation in advance of the fresh torrent of gold due later this week.

Although $100,000,000 of gold came in Friday, $87,000,000 on ships which docked Saturday and another $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 today, only $40,471,200 had been passed through the assay office and paid for between Thursday night and 3 o'clock this afternoon, the official gold statement of the Federal Reserve bank indicated.

STOCK CONTROL BILL IS LIKELY TO BE MODIFIED

Sent to U. S. Bureaus for Suggestions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—The stock exchange regulation bill now pending before the senate banking and currency committee may go to the senate in a form different from that in which it was introduced last week. This was indicated today when it became known that the bill has been sent to the treasury department, the department of commerce, the federal reserve board and the federal trade commission for review and such comment as these federal agencies may care to make.

At the same time it was asserted that Secretary Morgenthau had informed Senator Fletcher, chairman of the committee, that the treasury department is opposed to the enactment of the Capper bill "to protect banking and commerce against short sales of securities issued by corporations engaged therein." This matter, Mr. Morgenthau said, should be included in the stock exchange bill.

Says Prices Are Disturbed.

The Capper bill, which is believed definitly shelved as a result of the attitude of the treasury, is predicated on the theory that prices involved in such quotations are susceptible to speculation and manipulation and "exert a vicious influence and produce abnormal and disturbing declines of prices that are not responsive to actual supply and demand."

Under the Capper bill all short sales of securities issued by a corporation engaged in banking or commerce would be accompanied by a statement in a form prescribed by the federal trade commission and signed by those involved in the transaction. The Stock exchange would also be required to make daily summaries of all such transactions for the federal trade commission and publish them in a newspaper. Other rules are equally rigid.

Replies to Senator Fletcher.

Secretary Morgenthau's letter to Senator Fletcher was in reply to a letter from the senator requesting a statement by the treasury department as to its position in the matter of the bill which was introduced by Senator Capper Jan. 17. Since then it has been pending before the committee on banking and currency.

The committee will resume its investigation of the exchange problem tomorrow, and expects to conclude its investigation of the "alcohol pools" not later than Friday. Next Monday it will begin hearings on the bill itself, by which time Senator Fletcher expects the treasury and commerce departments, the federal trade commission, and the federal reserve board to be ready to announce their several positions as to the workability of the bill as now drafted.

Ickes to Sell Bonds Put Up for PWA Loans

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes today prepared to sell the bonds which cities, counties and states have put up as security for federal public works loans.

Ickes announced that the Public Works administration will sell to the highest responsible bidders $837,000 of bonds turned over to the PWA by five cities and counties. Other sales are to follow.

Money which the Public Works administration gets from the sales will be paid back into the federal treasury and the loan to the city or county which used the bonds as collateral for an easy money advance from the federal government will be reduced by that amount.

Regarded as Public Test.

Ickes has announced that the PWA sales will be confined to those bonds which it considers highest grade. Today's offering of five issues is considered here as a test of the public reaction to the idea upon which the future of the secretary's plan may depend.

Among the cities whose bonds Ickes today threw on the market were Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Lynchburg, Va. The latter is the home town of Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], bitter critic of the administration money and lending policies.

Bids for the securities will be opened at PWA headquarters in the interior department building, Washington, on March 6.

List of Offerings.

The list of securities follows: $100,000 of Bel Air, Md., 4 per cent sewage bonds, due Oct. 15, 1934-'50; $125,000 of Cedar Rapids, Ia., 4 per cent sewer bonds, due Jan. 1, 1937-'41; $250,000 of Erie county, N. Y., 4 per cent road and bridge bonds, due Oct. 15, 1935-'36; $200,000 of Lynchburg, Va. 4 per cent water supply bonds, due Nov. 1, 1936-'50, and $162,000 of Richmond county, Ga., 4½ per cent school bonds, due Jan. 1, 1935-'60.

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute today estimated current steel operations at 43.6 per cent of capacity, up 3.7 points from a week ago. This is the highest level attained since the institute began weekly publication of its figures on Oct. 23.

Inland Expands Operations.

Hammond, Ind., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Responding to an increasing demand for steel, the Inland Steel company will fire six more open hearths, placing 17 of 27 hearths in operation. The pay roll will be increased from 5,800 to 7,000 employes.

Roads Assure Low Rates to Chicago Fair

Railroad men a year ago looked for little return from Chicago's World Fair, expecting buses, airplanes and private automobiles to absorb the bulk of passenger traffic. But they were pleasantly surprised at the wide acceptance of low fares, and will attempt to exceed last year's record in 1934.

In anticipation of the reopening of this year's Century of Progress Exposition western and southern railways have decided to again reduce round trip passenger tariffs to Chicago, according to announcements yesterday by southern and western associations.

Reduced rates will be effective from June 1 to Nov. 1 and will be even lower in instances than in 1933. They will range from 2 cents a mile for tickets good in all classes of equipment, with a 30 day return limit, to 1 cent a mile for a day coach ticket, sold week-ends, with return limits ranging from 10 to 14 days.

Western lines will offer round trip tickets at 2 cents a mile with a 30 day return limit. From points in Louisiana and Texas the rate will be 1.8 cents, plus a flat charge of 25 cents. Day coach round trip rates with a 30 day limit will be 1.8 cents per mile and 1½ cents with a 15 day limit. The southwest will receive a rate of 1 1-3 cents.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday each week, except in certain limited territories, round trip rates in day coaches will be 1 cent per mile with limits ranging from 10 to 14 days.

RAILROADS ANSWER PRESIDENT ON WAGES; STAND IS KEPT SECRET

The railroads, through their conference committee of managers yesterday afternoon, sent a reply to the suggestion of President Roosevelt that they extend the present rate of wages paid their union employes six months from June 31, the date the present agreement expires, but they refused to discuss the contents of the letter.

The railroad officials are understood to have replied favorably to a proposal made yesterday by A. F. Whitney, president of the Railway Labor Executives association, for a conference in Washington on March 15 to discuss the wage situation.

The conference committee of managers last week notified the unions that they proposed to put into effect a 15 per cent reduction in the basic scale. The union employes for about two years have been receiving a 10 per cent reduction in their pay. Union officials last week were reported as saying that they would seek to return to the established scale if they did not ask for a raise because of higher prices.

It was generally reported in official railroad circles here that both sides were jockying for position and that both expected a continuation of the present rate of pay. Some railroad officials expressed the belief that since the President has made the suggestion that the present rate of wages be continued for six months after the agreement expires there was nothing for the railroad managements or unions to do but agree to his wishes.

BROWN, OLESON NAMED HEADS OF FIRST NATIONAL

Former Is President, Latter Chairman.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Edward Eagle Brown was elected president of the First National bank yesterday to succeed the late Melvin A. Traylor and John P. Oleson was named chairman of the board of directors, a position which has been vacant since last August.

Both men are veterans of the First National's organization. Mr. Oleson, the elder, is 60 years old and has been with the bank for more than 40 years, rising to his present position from a clerkship. He has been a vice president since 1916 and in recent years has been one of the ranking officers and general vice presidents.

Mr. Brown, senior vice president under Mr. Traylor, is 48 years old. He joined the bank's law department in 1910, two years after his graduation from the Harvard law school. He became general counsel in 1912 and was elected a vice president in 1919.

Ranney Announces Action.

Announcement of the elections was made on behalf of the board by George A. Ranney, vice chairman of the Commonwealth Edison company and a director and member of the bank's executive committee. A special meeting of the board was held to fill the two senior executive positions which for the first time in the bank's history were both unoccupied as the result of the death of Mr. Traylor. The chairmanship had been vacant since the retirement last year of Frederick H. Rawson.

Three other important personnel changes were also voted by the board. R. Frank Newall, vice president and cashier, and James B. Forgan Jr., vice president, were elevated to general vice presidencies. Harold V. Amberg, general counsel, was also named a general vice president and retains his position of counsel. Bentley G. McCloud and Craig B. Hazelwood are the bank's other general vice presidents. Mr. Forgan was also elected a director to fill Mr. Traylor's position. He formerly sat on the board, but retired early this year when the membership was reduced to 25. Messrs. Oleson, Brown, and McCloud were reelected directors at that time.

Text of Bank's Statement.

The formal announcement issued by Mr. Ranney said: "At a meeting of this board today it was our sad duty to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Melvin A. Traylor, for nine years president of this bank, a man beloved and respected by us all, our friend and companion for years."

"The position of chairman of the board, vacant since the retirement of Frederick H. Rawson, due to ill health, was also filled.

"John P. Oleson, an executive vice

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 19.—The bond market continued its advance today with secondary speculative issues again the center of trading demand, although visible improvement was shown in inquiries for prime obligations.

The railroad and the public utility divisions were the most favored most of the day.

Turnover Is Smaller.

As a whole, however, the list was none too cheerful, especially in the face of the late downturn in the share market. The turnover totaled only about 17 million dollars as compared with more than 20 million on Friday, the last full trading session.

Considerable selling for profits was noted from time to time. This was particularly true among the secondary issues which have displayed the most strength in many of the recent sessions.

Federal Issue Irregular.

Transactions in the United States government list were small. The total turnover in this division was only about $600,000. Prices were irregular at the close and changes generally were not wide.

The foreign section was comparatively quiet and uneven. A feature was the relative steadiness of the Belgian issues which were expected to ease on the death of the Belgian king.

Armstrong Cork.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly express your opinion on Armstrong Cork?—Miss O. M. R.

Answer: Armstrong Cork company manufactures a diversified line of products in which cork constitutes the principal raw material. Normally most of the output is taken by the building and house furnishing trades in the form of floor coverings such as linoleum, cork floors, refrigerator insulating, etc. It also manufactures bottle stoppers, life belts, and many other miscellaneous products.

Since the company normally carries inventory valued at about 5 million dollars, the price of cork plays an important part in determining profit. Most of the cork is imported and therefore foreign exchange is an important factor.

Increased business and higher prices enabled the company to report profit of $569,000, or 47 cents per share, excluding profits of $501,000 of foreign subsidiaries, for the first half of 1933. For the first half of 1932 net loss was $324,000, excluding $234,000 loss of foreign subsidiaries.

Net loss for 1932 was $2,259,000, against loss of $3,053,000 for 1931, and loss of $3,364,000 for 1930. Net income for 1929 was $4,981,000, or $4.02 per share.

On June 30, 1933, current assets, including more than 7 million dollars cash assets, totaled $15,692,000, and current liabilities were $953,000.

Funded debt, due June 1, 1940, amounted to $13,231,000. There were outstanding 1,209,124 shares of no par capital stock on which nothing has been paid since the 25 cent payment on Oct. 1, 1931.

The stock is speculative.

F. B. Collins Investment.

Investors' Guide: I would like some advice as to an investment our folks are interested in, namely, F. B. Collins Investment company. These bonds are called, I believe, Agricultural Improvement bonds. Some interest was paid on them in 1925 and 1926. They are both series 110.—P. L. F.

Answer: On checking up we received the following report from American-First Trust company, Oklahoma City, Okla.:

"Regarding bonds of series 110 of F. B. Collins Investment company:

"On May 10, 1923, this company was appointed receiver and subsequently trustee for bondholders in this and other series issued by said company. Our records show a 25 per cent payment was made on all bonds of series 110 and that there are a few assets remaining. These are mostly farms which have been acquired by foreclosure. There seems very little prospect of being able to sell them at the present time."

STOCKS STRIKE SNAG IN LATE SELLING WAVE

Motor Shares Make Best Showing of Strength.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 19.—A snag was encountered by the bulls today in their campaign to push stock prices still higher, the market falling into a moderate reaction in the last hour after a creeping advance had taken industrial shares near the highs established early in the month.

After fluctuating irregularly through the early part of the day, the market gave way to a rather brisk decline, pivotal shares dipping from fractions to more than 2 points. Pressure centered on the utilities. Motors were outstandingly strong throughout the trading and weathered the late selling better than other groups, posting a majority of moderate net gains among their number.

Selling Well Absorbed.

Considering the fact that the market averages had been moving up for five consecutive sessions, the selling was well taken. The setback was popularly attributed to the fact that the market had reached a stage of technical topheaviness, with the stock supply increasing as previous high points were reached.

Week-end news lacked anything to explain the sell off, for business reports continued good. That traders changed their positions to the selling side was said to be chiefly due to the market's failure to pick up momentum on the rise. It was reasoned that a five day advance merited a retreat.

Buying of automobile shares centered in low priced independent issues. Studebaker continued the object of intense speculation on a continuation of rumors of plans for taking the company out of receivership. The preferred was shoved up more than 14 points around noon. Half of this advance, however, was taken back before the close. The common finished up a full point on a heavy turnover.

Speculators were prone to neglect the two usual leaders of the motors sections, Chrysler and General.

Accessories Off, Tires Strong.

Failing to play along with the motors' advance, automobile equipment stocks were soft, but tire shares were strong in good volume. Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone touched new tops for the year.

The late reversal was believed partly due to a sudden selling salvo in Consolidated Gas and other prominent utility stocks which came into disfavor as traders became nervous over the outcome of efforts to put through utility rate control legislation in New York state. Hearings on the legislation, sponsored by Gov. Lehman, get under way tomorrow at Albany.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem reached new tops for the year, along with Republic, Vanadium and others of the group, before reacting. Republic was the only one to hold a fractional gain to the close.

A late feature was a spurt in Douglas Aircraft for a fractional net advance after a new Douglas machine had set a new transcontinental record for transport planes. Other aviation shares remained under the blight of mail contract cancellation.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil today was firm early on increased covering and Wall street buying of September, which sold at a new high level for the season, but met increased liquidation, and reacted with the market closing 2 to 5 points net lower. The late selling was promoted by the setback in cotton and the easier hog and lard markets. Sales were 68 contracts, including 10 exchanges. Bleachable spot nominal; March closed 5.23c; May, 5.45c; July, 5.69c; September, 5.90c.

WHEAT RECEDES; RAIN AND SNOW RELIEVE DROUTH

Prices Drop About Cent; Other Grains Sag.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Additional rain and snow in Kansas and Nebraska over the week-end, coupled with predictions by private weather map readers that additional moisture would be received before the close of the week, started wheat prices on the down grade yesterday. At no time were prices above the close on Saturday and final sales were at the lowest level since Jan. 26. Net losses were ⅞ to 1¼ cents, with the new crop months showing the most loss. May closed at 89¼ to 89⅝ cents and July at 87⅞ to 88 cents.

Scattered liquidation developed toward the last in corn, oats and other grains. Corn was ⅝ to ⅞ cent lower, with May 50½ to 50⅝ cents. Oats were off ⅞ to 1¼ cents, May being 15⅞ cents. Rye lost 1⅝ to 1¾ cents, with May at 59¾ cents. Barley declined ½ to ¾ cent, with May finishing at 49¼ cents.

Sentiment More Bearish.

Trade sentiment was somewhat more bearish than for some time owing to the additional moisture in the southwest, which is regarded as having eliminated dry weather talk as a market influence for a week or so at least. Should the expected precipitation materialize a marked improvement in the character of the crop comments on the new wheat crop was anticipated.

There was no snap to the foreign demand for Canadian cash wheat and advices from Winnipeg were pessimistic as to the outlook for a liberal business with Europe. Winnipeg futures, however, were off only ⅛ to ¼ cent for the day. Liquidation by holders of March wheat in Liverpool continues, and that delivery sold at equal to the lowest level known in the English market in English currency, although a higher rate for sterling resulted in prices being up ½ to 1⅛ cents in American funds for the day.

Wheat Stocks Decrease.

Stocks of wheat at terminal markets continue to show a steady reduction, with a further loss of 1,806,000 bushels last week. The total now is down to 105,262,000 bushels, compared with 147,331,000 bushels last year.

Houses with southwestern connections were fair sellers of wheat futures at times yesterday and there was also some local pressure, but the outside trade in the aggregate was again light and the market easily influenced.

Dry weather continues in Argentina and futures in Buenes Aires closed ⅛ to ⅞ cent higher, with May at 42 cents, or above the minimum guaranteed price.

Tired longs were the leading sellers of oats and found support relatively small. July dropped to 35⅝ cents and closed there, the lowest figure since Jan. 8. Rye lacked support toward the last, when pressure increased, and the price dropped rapidly.
